Vol. XLIX. MONDAY MORNING, DECEMBER 16, 1929. C DAILY, FIVE CENTS

TWO FLYING ATLANTIC

Message Tells of Progress

Uruguayan and Frenchman Jump From Seville on Way to Montevideo

They Skirt African Coast on First Portion of Journey to Link Continents

LONDON, Dec. 16. (AP) (Monday)—A radio message sent from Ushant Island, off Brest, France, thirty-five minutes after midnight, G.M.T., (4:35 p.m., Sunday, Pacific standard time) said that Maj. Larre-Borges expected to leave the African coast at Cape Blanco at about 1:30 a.m., and head toward Pernambuco, Brazil.

SEVILLE (Spain) Dec. 15. (AP)—Two aviators tonight are embarked on the great adventure of an attempted nonstop flight to South America over a route where five previous expeditions have preceded them but where several have failed. Maj. Tadeo Larre-Borges is seeking to fulfill a long-held dream of linking Montevideo, capital of his native Uruguay, to the Spanish motherland by a single flight. His copilot is Lieut. Challes, a Frenchman with a distinguished record of long-distance flights.

FINE WEATHER

They left here at 12:40 p.m. (7:40 a.m. E.S.T.) today and at 3:25 p.m. flew over Casa Blanca, Morocco. In the first three hours of their flight they had covered nearly 300 miles. They were favored with fine weather on the first stage flight and tonight had a moon nearly full to light their way down the tropical coast.

The aviators intended to skirt the western shore of Africa as far as Cape Juby in Southern Morocco and then head out across the Atlantic, perhaps passing the Canary and Cape Verde islands, toward Brazil. They expected to pick up the South American continent in the vicinity of Natal, Brazil, and then would follow the coast line to Montevideo, if their fuel lasts. There even was talk of pushing on farther if conditions were favorable in an effort to set a new world distance record.

Their airplane is a large white monoplane with a [illegible]-horsepower Lorraine motor and dual controls. It is equipped with a radio. The plane was loaded with [illegible] gallons of gasoline.

TIME FIGURED

The last successful flight from Europe to South America was that of Capt. Arturo Ferrarin and Maj. Del Prete in July, 1928. They set a world record, later broken by Dieudonne Coste, of 4600 miles in a flight from Rome to Brazil in fifty-[illegible] hours.

If the Uruguayan aviator maintains an equal speed he should reach the coast of Brazil early Tuesday morning.

Among the earlier successful flights across the South Atlantic

Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 15. [To the Editor of The Times:] These are tough times in this country to express an opinion. A college professor down in Heflinland casually remarked: "That while Jonah might have swallowed the whale or vice versa, he personally did not have enough digestion to even swallow the story." The school offered up a prayer for him but no further salary. That will be a lesson to him to lay off Jonah in his future monologues. Then Gen. Smedley Butler started doing a little reminiscing out loud about some of the old-time antics of the Marines in Nicaragua, and now he is to face a Senatorial firing squad. So from now on I even believe in farm relief.

HEFLIN FATE IN BALANCE

Trial by Party Set for Today

Alabama Democratic Chiefs Will Act on His Bolt Against Smith

Candidacy as Independent Held Likely in Event of Expulsion

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—A committee of fifty men, members of the State Democratic Executive Committee, will decide tomorrow whether Senator Heflin can continue to be a Democrat. The committee, which will meet here at noon, will especially consider action against "bolters," persons who failed to support the candidacy of Alfred E. Smith in last year's election. Heflin stumped the State against Smith. Since the committee action threatened Heflin has made repeated pleas for harmony in the party.

If Alabama's Senator is expelled from his party, it is believed generally throughout the State he will run as an independent with Hugh Locke, another "Hoovercrat," who faces being read out of the party at the same time. Locke, a Birmingham attorney, is an announced gubernatorial candidate.

Whatever action the committee takes tomorrow, it will be guided somewhat by a rule that all candidates must have supported the

SKULL LIFTS TIME'S VEIL

Prehistoric Head Discovered

China Find Believed Nearest Approach to Ancestors of Human Race

Primitive Cranium Thought to Antidate That of Neanderthal Man

PEIPING (China) Dec. 15. (AP)—Scientists today hinted that ten skeletons unearthed simultaneously with an unbroken skull, found in the quarries at Chow Outien, thirty miles from here, may be the nearest approach yet made to finding the ancestors of the human race.

The skull was unearthed by a Chinese geologist, who asserts it belonged to a species of the famous "Peking man," the "sinanthropus Pekinensis," said to be associated with the period of the piltdown skull and the Java ape man.

SECRECY SWORN

While the scientists who knew of the discoveries were sworn to secrecy, it was understood here that they regard them as perhaps the greatest human find ever made. The skull as well as the skeletons were said to be in a splendid state of preservation. The scientists continued their search in the hope of finding more skulls. Nine of the skeletons were headless.

The discoveries were made in the same limestone quarries where the "monkey man" jaw-teeth were found in 1928. The location of the skeletons was said to have convinced the discoverers that the ancient home of a distinct type of primitive man had been uncovered.

It was understood that the scientists believe that with the various skeletons as well as the complete skull, they have material enough to reconstruct the entire drama of the life of the prehistoric colony, or at least to sketch a portrait of man as he existed in the region of Peiping more than 1,000,000 years ago.

BONE HEAPS FOUND

In addition to the human skull and skeletons, the fossil skull of a rhinoceros has been found in the quarry. Also there were uncovered heaps of bones believed to be those of other animals. Many of the bones were clearly broken, as if by human hands, possibly, the scientists believe, by hungry men seeking marrow as food.

The scientists were unable to account for the fact that ten scattered skeletons were found, while only one skull was located. One theory was that the limestone bed might have been a burial ground for persons who had been beheaded, and that the heads had been deposited somewhere else.

Dr. J. G. Anderson, Swedish adviser to the Chinese Geological Survey, and others are searching eagerly for the heads. Walter Granger, paleontologist for the American Museum of Natural History, New York, visited the quarry in 1927. Mr. Granger is at present in New York.

MAN'S AGE EXTENDED

The first trace of the "Peking man" was discovered in 1920 by Dr. A. Zdansky, a Russian, who found a tooth near the site where the latest discoveries have been reported. A second tooth was found by Dr. Birger Bohlin, a young Swedish scientist, and was identified and named by Dr. Davidson Black, an American at Peiping Union Medical College.

Dr. Black placed the "Peking man" on a stage of development between the modern human and the anthropoid apes. The time estimate of 1,000,000 years ago as the period in which the "Peking man" inhabited the district was based on recent advances in geology whereby the earth's age and that of its living creatures is calculated at far higher figures than it was a few years ago. By that scale, the "Peking man" was believed to antedate the Neanderthal man, and to be about contemporaneous with the Heidleberg man of Europe.

Marine Officer in Haiti Injured

PORT AU PRINCE (Haiti) Dec. 15. (AP)—Maj. Marion Humphrey, United States Marine Corps, commanding the West Department, Garde De Haiti, was seriously injured last night in an automobile accident near Gonaives.

Maj. Humphrey's driver, to avoid striking a woman, turned the automobile into a telegraph pole. At first it was believed the major suffered a fracture at the base of the skull, but later reports were more hopeful. His family was with him tonight.

His Auto, Dog and Cash Stolen

WICHITA (Kan.) Dec. 15. (AP)—John McGuire, 20-year-old deaf mute, reported to police today that two youthful robbers had taken his motor car, dog, ring, cash and the Christmas presents he was taking to his mother and father. McGuire is en route to his home in Bakersfield, Cal., from a New York school.

He was held up in the business district here while entering his car.

DOCTORS REVIVE 'DEAD' GIRL

Intravenous Injection of Oxygen Restores Her Thirteen Minutes After Respiration Ends

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Dec. 15. (AP)—A 15-year-old negro girl, apparently dead after an operation, was revived thirteen minutes after respiration had ceased, by an intravenous injection of oxygen. Physicians believe it is the first time the method has been used successfully in the United States.

The girl, Juda Campbell, stopped breathing just after an operation was completed. Adrenalin was injected and artificial respiration started, but the patient did not respond.

Dr. S. F. Hoge, pathologist at General Hospital, after thirteen minutes' use of these methods, resorted to the injection of oxygen into a vein in the girl's left arm. After five minutes, in the words of the hospital official record, "the patient gave a fairly definite respiratory excursion."

The injection was continued and in another five minutes the girl was breathing deeply and fairly regularly.

Four hours later the patient was fully conscious, the record said. She is expected to recover

BOUNDARY FIGHT FATAL TO THIRTEEN

Six Wounded as Two Rival Bands in Mexico Clash Over Disputed Land

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15. (AP)—Thirteen persons were killed and six wounded this morning in a battle between rival agrarian bands near the town of Venta De Carpio, only twenty miles from Mexico City in the State of Mexico.

The fight was the result of a long disagreement between the neighboring villages of Santo Tomas Chiconautla and Santa Maria Chiconautla over the boundary line of communal lands. Residents met in their respective villages last night, but could arrive at no satisfactory plan to settle the problem. Armed agrarian bands sallied forth from both villages this morning to fight it out.

Federal forces have taken possession of the disputed land while authorities investigate the fighting.

Huge Terminal Merger to Link World Interests

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) A $500,000,000 merger, bringing to Brooklyn the largest shipping and buying center in the world, was announced today by Irving T. Bush, president of Bush Terminal.

Within two weeks, negotiations will be completed combining the terminal with fifty-four similar organizations throughout Europe, the announcement promised, and the acres of its piers and warehouses in South Brooklyn will hum with an international business totaling $500,000,000 annually under the corporate name of the International Bush Service.

Prosecutor in Texas Delays Calles Threat

LAREDO (Tex.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Commenting that "the day of reckoning is only postponed," John A. Valls, District Attorney here, today indicated he recognizes the diplomatic status of Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, expected to pass through here about Tuesday on his way from New York to Mexico City.

Meantime, Calles and his party speed toward this city on a swift, American train and Laredo citizens arrange a gigantic reception.

The commanding officer at Fort McIntosh and his staff will greet Calles at the depot. Other officials and business men will extend a cordial greeting.

EARNINGS INCREASE BILLIONS

Economic Research Office Reports Gains Made in Last Two Decades

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The income of the people of the United States has increased $23,470,000,000 in the last ten years and almost $60,000,000,000 in the last twenty years, figures released today by the National Bureau of Economic Research show.

These figures were taken in advance from a report, four years in preparation, which will detail the annual changes in the national income and its purchasing power from 1909 to 1928.

The bureau's report says the average wage earner in 1909 received $976 while in 1928 he received $1025. The average salaried employee's pay rose from $976 to $2084 in the same period, the report said.

The per capita realized income, the report indicates, is $749, which, for a family of five, would mean an average annual income of $3745.

French Aviator Takes Wing for Distance Record

AVIGNON (France) Dec. 15. (AP)—Dieudonne Coste, leading aviator of France, who returned only recently from the Orient after setting a new world distance mark for a flight in one direction, today took the air again to seek a similar record over a measured course.

He lifted his world-famed plane Question Mark from the Istres Airfield at Marseilles at 8:50 a.m. He was accompanied by Pilot Codos of the regular Paris-London airline. They carried fuel sufficient for fifty-two hours.

In the first ten hours of their flight they had covered nearly 1100 miles in shuttling between Avignon and Narbonne.

MILLIONS GIVEN FOR CHARITIES

Pittsburgh Philanthropist Creates $10,000,000 Fund as Trust for Public

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 15. (AP)—Expressing the belief it is the duty of one who, through good fortune, has accumulated wealth beyond his personal needs, to regard the remainder as a trust to be expended for the benefit of mankind, Maurice Falk, capitalist and philanthropist, today announced a gift of $10,000,000 to be devoted to the interest of the public welfare. The fund, a memorial to Mrs. Falk, will be known as the Maurice and Laura Falk Foundation.

The life of the foundation is restricted to thirty-five years. Within that time the entire fund, both principal and interest, must be expended. Broad powers of discretion are given to the foundation's seven managers to make grants for the promotion of educational, religious, charitable, philanthropic and public interest.

After announcing establishment of the foundation today Mr. Falk left for Pasadena, Cal., where he will spend the winter.

Suffering Girl Gasps Identity to Attendants

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—A young woman whom police have sought to identify ever since she took poison in a fashionable Washington church four days ago regained consciousness long enough today to tell them that she was Annette Brewster, wife of Clarence Ruggles. She said she is the daughter of Rev. George W. Brewster, pastor of the Christian Church at Fresno, Cal.

After giving this information to Police Captain Stott, in gasping words and affirmative nods consciousness slipped from her again.

Police have kept a constant watch at her bedside hoping to learn more of a narcotic ring she was said to have mentioned shortly after she swallowed the poison.

Body of Missing Girl Discovered

SEATTLE, Dec. 15. (AP)—The body of Miss Lucile Duxbury, who disappeared from her Des Moines (Wash.) home nearly two weeks ago, was found under a log today.

While it was believed that the girl, whom acquaintances said was suffering from a nervous disorder, had died from exposure, a bruise on her head pointed to possible foul play. An autopsy will be conducted.

The body was found by Mrs. Mildred Anderson, sister of the girl, a member of a large searching party.

SURVEY WORK STARTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Two Coast and Geodetic Survey parties are to begin work tomorrow to locate control points for State and county surveys in Northern California. The work is made possible through the releasing of crews of the Discoverer and Pioneer, which are to be tied in Oakland estuary for the winter months.

NEW RAINSTORM FLOODING NORTHERN PART OF STATE

Rail Traffic Tied Up After Slides; Engineer Killed in Train Wreck; Rivers Continue to Rise

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Northern California's rains were renewed today, this time coming in torrents—almost cloudbursts in some places.

An idea of the torrential qualities of the storm may be had from the fact that at Bucks, a station on the Western Pacific Railway, a total rainfall of nearly a foot was reported in twenty-four hours—11.9 inches, to be exact.

The rainstorm covered the State from King City to the Oregon border.

The first casualty of the storm came on the Western Pacific four miles east of Oroville, where Stanley Andrews, 62 years of age, engineer of a work train, was killed when his engine turned over as a softened right of way sagged and gave way. The accident happened late Saturday night.

BODY BURIED

According to John P. Quigley, superintendent of transportation here, Andrews was buried under the locomotive when it fell on its side in deep mud beside the right of way. Although the locomotive was put back on the rails the body of Andrews, buried deep in the mud, has not yet been found, said Quigley. Andrews leaves his widow and two sons in Oroville.

The Western Pacific had been hard hit by the storm, said Quigley. Near the new Oroville-Quincy bridge across the Feather River thousands of dollars' worth of concrete forms and bridge building equipment have been swept away by the swollen and raging river. Since Saturday there have been numerous destructive slides of earth along the right of way and passenger and freight service has been delayed twelve to twenty-four hours. Telegraph and telephone lines are down along the Western Pacific main line.

AIR TRAVEL HIT

Air travel throughout the State was hit severely by the storm, and none of the regular mail and passenger routes was running on schedule over the week-end.

If there has been any wetter spot on the Pacific Coast since the 9th inst., Cazadero, between here and Eureka, on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, wants to know it.

There have been all sorts of records and near records made and broken since it started to rain, but here's Cazadero's claim to fame: A total of 25.50 inches since the drought ended.

OTHER LINES UNHARMED

While Quigley was declaring the Western Pacific Railroad was facing the most serious situation in years along the American, Bear, Yuba and Feather rivers in the face of a predicted critical stage on the Sacramento, both Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroad offices declared their lines were unhampered by slides or washouts, train delays or other downpours. Nor were power lines of the Pacific Gas and Electric or Great Western Power companies impeded, dispatches said.

At Sacramento Forcaster Taylor gave out a river forecast, in which he said critical stages will be reached tonight in the rising Sacramento's upper reaches in the Red Bluff vicinity. He predicted heavy rises by Monday from Red Bluff to the mouth of the Feather River.

Taylor reported heavy rains in progress throughout the watershed of the Sacramento.

Continued rain through the night and tomorrow is the outlook tonight.

Reassuring word came from Red Bluff and Sacramento after Taylor's forecast. At Red Bluff it was stated there are no flood indications there and in any case, the city is in no danger as it lies high to the west of the river.

Flood stage is twenty-three feet and the river was at eighteen feet today. Cattle were removed from the lowlands last week when heavy rains started in the Kennett vicinity.

The river stage at Sacramento today was 21.3, with flood stage at thirty feet. Flood gates on the Sacramento by-pass are opened above the city at twenty-seven feet. P. L. Jones, chief of the State Bureau of Reclamation at Sacramento, said he anticipates a rise in the Sacramento and Feather rivers, which will not be reflected at the capital until Tuesday.

Reports from Folsom were that the American River is low and there is snow in the mountains. At Oroville the Feather River was far from flood stage, too.

Marin county had recorded a fall

BYRD CAMP RIDES SEAS

Sounding Shows Ice Floating

Little America on Nineteen-Foot Layer and Ocean's 1600 Feet Deep

More Lines to Be Dropped in Search for Solid Land; Clay on Bottom

BY RUSSELL OWEN

[Copyright, 1929, by Los Angeles Times, New York Times and St. Louis Post-Dispatch. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.]

LITTLE AMERICA, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The first sounding made near the camp of the Byrd expedition here shows that we are indeed floating. Through a hole in the ice at the head of Ver-sur-Mer inlet only about 150 yards from our front door, a sounding of 1600 feet was obtained. That is a long way to the bottom.

It is hoped that a series of soundings around the bay and in crevasses south of the camp may be made so that something more definite can be learned about the possible presence of land near here. Something must hold this barrier or the Bay of Whales would have disappeared long ago. Sounding is hard work where the old ice remains and nineteen feet of it were penetrated before the water was reached.

LONG PIPE USED

This sounding was done by Paul Siple and Victor Czegka. A sled was fixed up to hold a reel. When it was ready Paul started to dig a hole through the ice. For the first five feet Tom Mulroy helped him by burning oil and using gasoline torches. A long pipe was then used, and for hours he tapped away, scooping up the broken ice chips with a tin can. When the pipe had gone down as far as it would reach and the bottom of the ice was not reached, Czegka put together two pieces of angle iron making a drill twenty feet long.

CLAY FLOOR REVEALED

Czegka worked down through the last three feet and when the drill went through it nearly jerked from his hands. A sounding line was then let down through the hole and after dropping 1590 feet brought up against the bottom. It showed a clay floor at this part of the bay.

Czegka has made a device for bringing up samples of the bottom which will be used in future sounding. It is small and its end is scoop shaped like one of those iron-jawed dredges used for deepening channels, but it is actuated by powerful springs which snap the jaws together when the bottom is reached and hold them closed. Some interesting specimens may be obtained with it.

CHINESE HALT CONSUL TRAIN

Representatives of Five Nations Prevented From Learning Fate of Nationals in War Zone

TOKIO, Dec. 16. (AP) (Monday)—Rengo News Agency dispatches today said that the international train carrying consuls of several nations in Northwestern Manchuria, where they hoped to learn the fate of their nationals in the area occupied by soviet troops, was halted by Chinese military when it attempted to leave Mientuho.

The consuls, who represent Japan, the United States, Germany, Great Britain and France, protested vigorously at the interference, but the military would not let the train proceed westward. On last available reports the train still was at Mientuho.

Chinese soldiery, retreating from renewed Russian drives in Northwest Manchuria, are reported to have formed their base at Mientuho in the Khingan Mountains, 120 kilometers from Khailar. The Chinese commander at Mientuho warned the consuls against proceeding westward when their train arrived there last Saturday.

Continued silence regarding the nationals of the several nations in the territory occupied by the Russian forces led to the formation of the international train. The government here received a message from its Consul at Manchuli last week reporting the safety of a few persons. The fact that the message was numbered nine, and that there are nearly 300 Japanese subjects in the district, led officials to believe the Consul's messages were being suppressed or lost. Some doubt was expressed officially as to the worth of Russian assurances for the safety of foreigners and the government here asked Russia for details concerning them.

WOMEN FLYERS BAND TOGETHER

New Group to Be Known as the Eighty-sixes

Organization Credited With Being First in World

Aim to Put Selves on Par With Brother Pilots

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The Eighty-sixes—the first national organization of licensed women pilots in America, and credited with being the first in the world—has just been organized here.

The name "The Eighty-sixes" refers to their number—their ages vary from 18 to 40 years.

The purpose of the organization, which was formed at the home of Mrs. George Kunz, wife of a New York jeweler and a licensed pilot, is "to promate good fellowship among licensed woman pilots, encourage flying among women and create opportunities for women in commercial aviation."

Its headquarters will be in New York and its membership will be open to any licensed woman pilot in the United States.

Within its ranks are some of America's best known aviatrices among them Amelia Earhart, Ruth Elder (Mrs. Walter Camp, Jr.) and Viola Gentry.

The first thing the Eighty-sixes are going to do in their program of promoting women in aviation is to wage a little war on the "sex complex" in the air world.

"Just because an aviatrix is a woman is no reason why she shouldn't receive as good a position or as much pay as an aviator," they say. "There is no reason why men and women shouldn't compete in the air in a friendly fashion just as they do on land."

They selected the following sectional chairmen to preside over various districts in the country:

SLEEP ELIMINATED FROM WOMAN'S LIFE

Mrs. Pauline Geisel

HARRISBURG, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The average mother of three children knows what it is to go many hours without sleep, but the record goes to Mrs. Pauline Geisel of this city, who has passed her 110th consecutive sleepless hour.

And it's no fault of any of her three children, either. She's in a sleepless marathon. It all started out to be a radio-listening marathon, and Mrs. Geisel found it so easy to stay awake after winning the contest, that she decided to set a new record. She did.

Reports Differ on Illinois Coal Strike's Status

TAYLORVILLE (Ill.) Dec. 15. (AP) Conflicting announcements concerning the continuation of the coal miners' strike in Southern Illinois districts were issued today by officials of mining companies and heads of the national miners' union.

Executives of the Peabody Coal Company, operating mines in Christian county, stated they plan to resume full operations tomorrow at mines No. 9 at Langley and No. 58 at Taylorville. A small force has worked at the latter place for two days.

Pat Toohy, national secretary-treasurer of the national miners' union, the striking unit, reported at Springfield his organization is well pleased with the progress of the strike and that picketing will continue.

Beatification Proclaimed of 136 Englishmen

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 15. (AP)—The beatification of 136 British priests and Catholic laymen, martyred for their faith in the period between 1594 and 1679, was proclaimed today in the course of a solemn mass in St. Peter's Basilica. Cardinal Bourne and a large English pilgrimage headed by the Duke of Norfolk and families related to the martyrs attended.

In the afternoon Pope Pius XI descended to St. Peter's to venerate the images and relics of those newly beatified. He was accompanied by Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia, who also had attended the morning ceremony.

RAIN TIES UP RAIL TRAVEL

of 2.25 inches since early Saturday, with a seasonal fall of 7.5 inches in the ninth day of virtually continuous rainfall, but Marin still is running from three to five inches behind the normal seasonal fall.

Slides are blocking highway traffic on the Russian River country. The Oroville-Gridley road by way of Robinson's Corners is under water in the vicinity of Central House.

At the California Automobile Association office inquirers were told the Pacific highway is icy and slippery from Dunsmuir to the State line and the Redwood highway to Grants Pass by way of Eureka is doubtful. A washout fifteen miles south of Hartsook Saturday took out a piece of highway over which a temporary bridge is to be placed.

A number of planes were marooned at Bay region airports and, with exception of one line to Los Angeles, every concern reported difficulties and cancellations of schedules.

CRUISER RATIO JAPAN'S POINT

Naval Conference Delegate Makes Stand Plain

Nippon to Insist on 10-10-7 Auxiliary Rating

Willing to Suspend Capital Shipbuilding, However

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—The definite announcement that the Japanese delegation to the London naval conference will press for a 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary craft among the British, American and Japanese navies claimed the attention of diplomatic and naval officials tonight as they prepared for the coming tomorrow of the Japanese delegates.

While the question is looked upon by officials here as one for final determination by the conference itself, it is expected that the Japanese case in demanding a 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary ships for the American, British and Japanese navies in place of the 5-5-3 ratio established for capital ships at the Washington arms conference will be laid before the American government during the conversations between American and Japanese officials during the next four days.

The 10-10-7 ratio in auxiliary craft, although known to the interested naval powers to be a desire of the Japanese, appeared tonight to be a certain demand at the parley in view of a statement of Reijiro Wakatsuki, former Premier of Japan and head of the delegation, that his government would "insist" upon the 70 per cent tonnage.

The delegate's declaration was considered by officials tonight to be the most forcible one so far to indicate that the Japanese will enter the conference with the demand for an increased ratio one of its most important issues.

Little support is expected from the Japanese for the suggestion that submarines be abolished as a unit of fighting fleets. Late last month press dispatches from Tokio, in giving details of what was generally considered there to be the Japanese desires for their navy, indicated that the Japanese commission at the parley might demand parity with the United States and Great Britain in undersea craft.

JAPANESE INDICATE STAND AT CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Japanese delegates are prepared to declare their favor of postponement of the replacement of capital ships at the London armament conference in January because it would lighten the burden of their national budget, Reijiro Wakatsuki, former Premier of Japan and leader of the delegation, said here today.

"In so far as auxiliary craft are concerned, however," he added, "Japan not only desires but will insist upon retaining a 70 per cent tonnage as compared with the powers having the greatest naval strength. We are satisfied with some lesser force than other countries but exhaustive studies have convinced us we must insist on this ratio. The strength we insist upon clearly will not constitute a menace to any power and shows no idea of offensive.

"The Japanese delegation sincerely hopes and is confident the conference will be a success."

LEXINGTON WARPED IN AT TACOMA

Giant Naval Craft Today Will be Hooked on Power Lines of Northern City

TACOMA (Wash.) Dec. 15. (AP)—After lying in the stream for twenty-four hours the giant naval aircraft carrier Lexington was warped into position alongside a dock in the city water way here this afternoon where for the next thirty days she will serve as auxiliary steam plant to furnish Tacoma electrical current while the rains fill up the dam back of the city's chief hydro-electric plant.

With the help of five navy tugs and other local tugs the 33,000-ton vessel, 888 feet long, was made secure just two hours after her whistle warned of raising her anchors and being ready to shift.

Between the dock and huge ship were placed barges to breast off the vessel from the dock. They are used as fenders and to make doubly sure that there will be fifty feet of water under the Lexington's keel at low tide, a stipulation her officers demanded.

As soon as the ship was docked work began both on shore and on ship to prepare for the hook-up which will provide the city with 20,000 kilowatts of electricity. A special transmission line had to be run from a substation to the dock and special transformers placed there. It is expected that current will flow from the vessel late Monday night or Tuesday morning.

The dock and hills back of it were crowded with civilians to watch the berthing of the Lexington.

ORANGE CROP HEAVY IN VALENCIA DISTRICT

VALENCIA (Spain) Dec. 15. (AP)—Orange exporters of this district complain that the good season has placed too many oranges on the English, German and French markets. The crop is reported as excellent, with the result that great quantities of the fruit have been stored rather than accept the present low prices.

KAISER'S SABER RATTLE ECHOES

New Batch of Papers Gives His Balkan Views

"Serbia Can be Bought," He Informed Berchtold

Slavic States Held in High Contempt by German

VIENNA, Dec. 15. (AP) — Excerpts from a further batch of official prewar documents made public today showed that the former Kaiser Wilhelm held the Slavic states of the Balkans in considerable contempt.

"Serbia must be attracted to us chiefly through money," he was represented as saying to Count Berchtold, Foreign Minister of Austria, in one of their conversations on the Balkan situation. "From the King down they can be bought with gold."

AIMS REVEALED

In these conversations the Kaiser desired that efforts should be directed toward preventing agreements between Bulgaria and Serbia, which he considered would affect badly the interests of the German and Austrian empires. He told Berchtold on November 8, 1913:

"War between the east and west is inevitable. The Slavs were not born to rule but to serve, and they must be made to comprehend this. If they believe their salvation will come from Belgrade, that belief must be dispelled."

SABER RATTLED

At another point he was quoted as saying:

"When Franz Josef (Austrian Emperor) requests something from Serbia, that government must agree to it or Belgrade will be bombarded and occupied until the desires of the Emperor are fulfilled. You can be assured I am behind you ready to draw the sword."

At this point Wilhelm rattled his own saber in its scabbard.

The German Kaiser concluded with the remark:

"Everything demanded by the Austrian Foreign Office is an order from me."

RULING MADE ON HIGHWAY PATROL JOBS

Applicants Must Apply in Counties in Which They Reside

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Requests for employment in the California Highway Patrol should be made with the Board of Supervisors of the county in which the applicant is a resident, Frank J. Snook, chief of the division, said, instead of being sent to the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Snook explained that the power of appointment is indirect for the State division in that the statutes provide that all candidates for service in the traffic patrol must first apply and be recommended by their home County Board of Supervisors unless the Supervisors refuse to act in hiring their officers.

The recommended applicants may take the civil-service examinations from which the eligible men are selected or they may assume duty and serve on probation for a year.

The Division of Motor Vehicles recommended that all applicants take the civil-service examinations.

The reorganization of the traffic patrol is proceeding in good order, Gene W. Biscailuz, chief of patrol, reports, although many officers have not received their regulation equipment and patrol work is being hampered in some cases.

New applicants will be used as replacements and for new openings employed in the order of eligibility.

Maj. Larre-Borges is making his second attempt to fly to South America from Europe. On February 29, 1927, he left Marina De Pisa, Italy, on the first leg of a projected flight to Montivideo. After having been unreported for several days the plane was found wrecked in Morocco. A week later the flyers arrived safely at Cape Jubi under escort of a Moorish caravan which demanded $4250 before permitting the aviators to join their friends.

The primary will be held in Alabama on August 12, 1930. The executive committee is composed of fifty members, five from each of the ten Congressional districts.

PAIR BATTLE BLIZZARD IN MOUNTAINS

Haven Reached Following Hike of Thirty-six Hours in Blinding Snowstorm

SEATTLE, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—After hiking for thirty-six hours through a raging blizzard on Stevens Pass, east of here, Miss Pauline Brodhun, 20 years of age, and Capt. Frank Reardon, 22, both of this city, are home, and both declare they feel "little the worse for the wear," as a result of their harrowing experience.

Miss Brodhun and Capt. Reardon, while returning from Wenatchee, Wash., were caught in the blizzard. Forced to abandon their automobile, they set out to make their way to safety on foot. They walked twelve miles through the blinding snowstorm, wading waist deep in drifts until they reached Scenic, Wash., a railway camp, which was the nearest habitation.

Texas Cotton Crop Reduction Causes Found

AUSTIN (Tex.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Reduction of the cotton production of Texas this year was due to insects, floods, storms and drouth, according to H. H. Schutz of Austin, statistician for this State for the United States Department of Agriculture.

"All States, even Florida, have exceeded Texas in yield per acre," he said. "Acreage abandoned after July is estimated at 5.5 per cent, which is the greatest since 1925, when the abandonment was 8 per cent. On July 1 there were 18,912,000 acres in cultivation, compared with 18,330,000 on July 1, 1928. Deducting the acreage that was not picked this year, 17,872,000 remained for harvest, against 17,743,000 in 1928. Ginnings prior to December 1 were 3,518,000 bales, or 91 per cent of the estimated final production.

BRITISH FLOODS SPREAD MISERY

South England Coal Region Residents Left Bare

Many Saved by Boats From Inundated Homes

LONDON, Dec. 15. (AP)—The receding flood waters of the storm have left a trail of desolation. The mining valleys of South Wales, where thousands still are unemployed, have become valleys of despair. Floods struck the Rhonnda Valley four times in the past three weeks, turning mountain streams into torrents.

Women and children fled in terror to upper rooms. In some cases families have been imprisoned on upper floors for two or three days, their food swept away. Scores lost everything they had.

In the borough of Monmouth 300 homeless persons are being fed and given accommodations by the authorities. "Most of the people," said E. T. Adams-Williams, Mayor of Monmouth, "had to be removed from the flooded areas in boats which took them from upper windows. In cases of age, infirmity and sickness this was a perilous undertaking, both for the rescuers and the rescued, as it had to be effected partly in darkness, amidst torrential rains and boisterous winds."

The Thames River dropped five inches today but the upper reaches still reveal flood scenes. The water is up to the window ledges of hundreds of bungalows. Wargrave railway station is an island in the middle of a sea. The residence of Viscount Craigavon, Premier of Northern Ireland, at Streatley-on-Thames, can be reached only by boat.

Seven hundred more persons are homeless in Somerset. The storms also intensified the coast erosion in Hampshire and Sussex and protective measures had to be taken at South Sea.

ALIEN SHIP PATRONAGE UNDER QUIZ

House Resolution Will Seek Check on Evasion of Jones-White Law

BY LAWRENCE M. BENDICT
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—A privileged resolution calling upon the heads of all the government departments to furnish the House of Representatives with the names of all officials and employees who have traveled at government expense during the fiscal year just ended on a ship not flying the American flag, together with the amount paid by the Treasury for such voyage, the reason for not traveling on an American ship, and similar details, will be introduced tomorrow by Representative Britten of Illinois, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs.

"I am inclined to believe," said Mr. Britten, "the Jones-White law which promotes travel on American ships by United States officials and employees is too often winked at under various subterfuges. It is an open secret that operators of foreign steamship companies employ every means to induce American officials to use their lines even to the extent of issuing free passes to the official and his family.

"Of course, this trick of getting big business is heralded immediately abroad and the official unwittingly becomes an advertising medium."

Mansion Raided Following Murder of Officer

Fortune in Stolen Bonds and Arsenal Found

Reward of $10,000 Offered for Capture

BENTON HARBOR (Mich.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Frederick Dane, 40 years of age, until last night regarded here as a wealthy Chicago merchant, tonight is being hunted throughout the Middle West as a murderer and bank robber with a $10,000 price on his head.

The sudden change in his reputation here resulted from a minor traffic accident last night. In the argument which followed, Dane shot and killed Charley Skelley, St. Joseph motorcycle patrolman, and escaped in a stolen automobile after wrecking his own car.

ARSENAL IN HOME

St. Joseph officers who invaded Dane's home, found two machine guns with several hundred rounds of ammunition, two heavy-caliber rifles, a sawed-off shotgun, bags and cans of shells, tear bombs and, in a locked closet, discovered $319,850 worth of securities, which Sheriff Bryant and Prosecutor Cunningham say were stolen from the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank of Jefferson, Wis., November 7, last. The bonds were identified in a telephone conversation today with L. H. Smith, president of the bank.

Officers are convinced Dane shot Skelley rather than run the risk of being fingerprinted at the police station. Previous to the shooting, however, the police had no record involving him. He purchased the Lake Shore property in an exclusive section a few months ago and had the house remodeled and luxuriously furnished.

POSED AS MERCHANT

He told a few people that he owned a string of gasoline stations in Gary, Ind. It has been learned that he also went under the name of Herbert Church of the Columbia Commercial Feed Company, Chicago, officers said.

Dane was recognized by witnesses to the shooting and receipted garage bills were also found in his car which he wrecked near the southern limits of the city, prior to forcing Monroe Wolf, a House of David member whom he stopped on Winchester avenue, to drive him south of Stevensville.

In a pursuit that continued until his trail was lost early Sunday, Dane several times eluded the officers by minutes. The trail was lost at Coloma, twelve miles northeast of here.

WIFE UNDER ARREST

Discovery of the stolen bonds and arsenal led Berrien county authorities to request that gangland haunts in Chicago, Detroit, Toledo and Milwaukee be searched.

In addition to the $10,000 reward offered by the insurance company for the Jefferson Bank for capture of the robbers, Berrien county, the city of St. Joseph and the St. Joseph Chamber of Commerce plan to offer $5000 for Dane's capture.

Dane's wife, Viola, 35, returned to St. Joseph from Chicago Saturday night. She was taken into custody for questioning and is being held. She contends she knew nothing of the guns or bonds.

SPEEDY SHIPS NATIONS' AIM

Bremen Performance Starts Building Boom With Italy Leading France and England

[Copyright, 1929, Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The shipping correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reports that Italy's two leading shipping companies, Navigazione Generale and Lloyd Sabaudo, have each placed an order for a 47,000-ton vessel designed for a speed of twenty-seven or twenty-eight knots per hour, much faster than the Bremen, the fastest liner afloat at this time.

The Navigazione boat will be built by Aus Aldos of Genoa. It will be nearly 900 feet long and will be driven by Parsons-geared turbines manufactured by the builder. The Sabaudo vessel will be about the same dimmensions and will also be propelled by turbine machinery using steam pressure and will be constructed at Trieste.

The work on both vessels will be pushed as rapidly as possible with the hope of putting them in service before other fast boats now ordered or building are ready. The engineers are confident the designed speed will be exceeded and the boats will make the crossing at an average speed of twenty-nine knots per hour, which would leave the Bremen far behind.

All the world's chief shipping nations are joining the race for speed. The French lines are reported to have completed plans long ago for a 50,000-ton liner, 6500 tons larger than the Ile de France, the present flagship. The Cunard line is contemplating building two 75,000-ton liners 1000 feet long, while the White Star Line is constructing the first British-built motor ship of 27,000 tons to replace the Celtic.

The Canadian Pacific next year will launch the Empress of Great Britain, of 45,000 tons capacity, the latest of thirteen vessels added to the Atlantic fleet since the war, eight of which are fast passenger ships.

IRON SALTS CURE FOR PEAR-TREE DISEASE

DAVIS, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Chlorosis of pears may be cured by putting iron salts into holes bored in the limbs or trunks of trees by a simple method at small cost, according to Prof. J. P. Bennett, University of California plant expert. He bases his statement on experiments in collaboration with A. H. Hendrickson of the pomology division, begun several years ago and continued recently. The best method, he says, is to bore holes just about at the soil level, removing some of the soil, injecting iron salts and then covering the holes with soft grafting wax. The application is best made in the dormant season, he says.

SPEED LIMITS RISE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Maximum automobile speed limits in the various States have increased from an average of twenty miles to thirty-eight miles per hour since 1910.

ALASKA FLYERS HUNT RENEWED

Coast Guard Cutter Bearing New Hope North

Six Planes and Pilot Squad to Take Up Search

Eielson and Borland Feared Dead by Relatives

SEATTLE, Dec. 15. (AP)—The United States Coast Guard cutter Chelan will be pressed into service to carry a relief expedition north to search for Pilot Carl Ben Eielson and his mechanic, Earl Borland, missing somewhere in the vicinity of North Cape, Siberia, since November 9, it was announced here today.

Immediately after authority to use the ship had been received from Coast Guard quarters in Washington, the vessel was made ready for the trip north and awaits only the arrival of three large Fairchild planes and a squad of six Canadian flyers under Capt. H. A. Oaks of Winnipeg.

PLANES FOR SEARCH

The planes will be crated, lashed on deck and taken to Seward, Alaska, on the Chelan, then shipped to Fairbanks by rail and assembled. They will be flown either direct to Teller, Alaska, the base of rescue operations, or first to Nome and then to Teller. The Chelan will probably leave for Seward within two or three days.

Relatives of the missing men, who were attempting a second trip to the fur-trading ship Nanuk, icebound at North Cape, have abandoned hope that they will be recovered alive, although they carried, in addition to emergency rations for thirty days, a quantity of supplies for the Nanuk, which will augment their own supplies and lengthen the time they might sustain life.

COMPANY SENDS CHIEF

Maj. Howard C. Deckard, production manager for the Fairchilds Airplane Manufacturing Corporation, has arrived in Seattle to oversee shipment of equipment and will accompany the planes north. The search is being organized by the Aviation Corporation of New York, a holding company which controls Eielson's firm in Alaska.

Adverse weather conditions and accidents have prevented pilots assembled at Teller under the command of Frank Dorbandt, who, with Eielson made one successful round trip to the Nanuk from Nome, from taking off to search for their missing companions. The Alaskan pilots, however, have been handicapped because planes available were not of the type best adapted to Arctic flying under winter conditions and were unable to carry sufficient gasoline for extended cruising.

FILIPINOS TO PRAY FOR FREEDOM

Eucharistic Congress at Manila Adopts Resolution; Priests Ignore Subject

MANILA (P. I.) Dec. 15. (AP)—The first national Eucharistic Congress of the Philippines, closed today with a procession of 40,000 devotees.

Among important actions taken during the sessions was passage of a resolution by the Colon Students' Congress requesting the Legislature to pass a law providing religious instruction in the public schools.

A resolution asking all the delegates to pray for the freedom of the country from American control was adopted by the laymen's conference. The priests' conference declined to consider an independence resolution.

The congress cabled Pope Pius XI congratulating him on the recent golden jubilee in Rome and pledging adherence to the church. Pope Pius answered with a general blessing to all Filipinos.

Hession Denies Deal With Ross Over Resignation

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Deputy Attorney-General Hession, who drew up the charges against L. E. Ross, suspended chief of the State Bureau of Vital Statistics, accusing him of "incompetency, inefficiency and dishonesty," denied today he has entered into any agreement whereby the charges will be dismissed against Ross provided the latter tendered his resignation.

After handing in his resignation Ross said last night his attorney and Hession made an agreement to dismiss the charges. The charges were preferred against Ross by Dr. W. M. Dickie, director of the Department of Public Health.

Officer's Death Under Inquiry

MOUNT VERNON (Wash.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Skagit county officers today are investigating the death of Ed Luton, town marshal of Hamilton, Wash., who was found dead near the Hamilton school grounds early today with a deep gash over his left eye.

Luton, officers say, attended a drinking party after a dance Saturday night at which a dozen or more persons are said to have been present. They are holding Don Anderson and Earnest Vanderhoff, both of Concrete, near here, and endeavoring to round-up the others believed to have been at the party.

Former Nevada Officer Convicted

ELY (Nev.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Lloyd Robinson, former game warden, was convicted of second-degree murder by a jury here early today. Robinson was accused of shooting to death his life-long friend, John Rowland, last September 12. He pleaded self-defense.

The jury was given the case at 9:45 o'clock last night and reached a verdict at 12:45 a.m.

TESTS SHOW DOG MAY BECOME VEGETARIAN

BERKELEY, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) There is no good reason why dogs cannot be vegetarians, the same as humans, according to Dr. Agnes Fay Morgan of the University of California. Experiments, she said, have proved the efficacy of a ration entirely without meat. The experiments, the ration and its effects are described in a pamphlet for veterinarians, dog owners and breeders.

MEXICO UNDER REVISED CODE

New Penal System Effective in Federal Areas

Honor Killing Allowed and Death Penalty Removed

Verdicts From Bench Take Place of Juries

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15. (AP)—The new Federal penal code, abolishing the death sentence and the jury system, and providing other radical reforms, became effective today in the Federal District and territories.

The code was drawn up and promulgated under special powers granted by Congress to Provisional President Portes Gil. Because the Constitution gives the States autonomy in such matters, the code does not apply to them unless they choose to substitute it for the existing State laws.

HONOR SLAYING ALLOWED

The code stipulates that there shall be no punishment for the slaying of a mate caught in an act involving the slayer's honor, or for the slaying of the other party to the act, so long as the slayer has not before taken a life for similar reason. It allows a father to slay a daughter apprehended in an act of dishonor, and her seducer also.

The person who steals once to appease his hunger or that of those depending upon him is free from punishment under the new code. The death penalty, except in cases of rebellion and certain political crimes, is abolished.

The jury system is replaced by verdicts from the bench, subject in all cases to confirmation by the Supreme Council of Defense and Social Prevention, which is established by the code and is composed of three attorneys, one alienist and a physician. The judges of the lower courts, study the evidence presented and pass sentence. The sentence is then submitted to the supreme council for final study and confirmation or rejection.

JAIL FOR AUTO DEATHS

Among other reforms, the code stipulates that the parties to a prospective duel must submit their differences to a court of honor, which will endeavor to solve the dispute without bloodshed and in no case will be empowered to authorize the duel.

A six-year penitentiary sentence will be imposed on a motorist responsible for an accident involving death.

"No Advertising" Program over
KHJ
7:30 to 8 o'clock
WE have determined upon a change of policy in our radio programs. Beginning with our program tonight, there will be no advertising. We feel that when you extend to us the courtesy of listening to our program, we become, in a sense, a guest in your home.
You would hardly expect a dinner guest to arise and address you on the subject of his personal virtues and the merits of his goods.
So we will no longer presume upon your courtesy by asking you to listen to the nice things we might feel tempted to say about ourselves and the things we sell.
We think there is too much intrusion of advertising over the Radio today and are pleased to do our small part toward correcting this situation. Thank you for your patience in the past.
Our program this evening will consist of the new dance numbers of the present season, together with a few of the older favorites, played by the Silverwood dance band.

JUNIOR ROCKEFELLER HAS PASSION FOR ECONOMY

Perpetuation of His Father's Qualities Believed to be His Destiny

This is the ninth chapter of the Life of John D. Rockefeller. Others will follow daily.

BY JOHN K. WINKLER

[Copyright, 1929, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.]

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is the only possible evolution of the senior Rockefeller.

The junior Rockefeller is as steady and as unemotional as a clock. He firmly believes he was brought into the world to perpetuate the mental, moral and spiritual qualities of his father, and he is doing his level best to fulfill his destiny. Twice daily he sinks to his knees and beseeches the Heavenly Father to bless his earthly father.

John D., Sr., likewise objectifies himself in the other. "I count it as God's greatest blessing," he tells friends, "that He has given me such a son, a son who believes in the worth-while things of life."

The lives of the Rockefellers, father and son, join together and spin out like a smooth ribbon. They share a deep and unshakable belief in work, Godliness and their own brand of righteousness. The latter includes, of course, the righteousness of making money.

In many respects, John D., Jr.'s story is as remarkable as that of his father.

Set down at first as a mere puppet upon his father's knee, the junior Rockefeller developed rapidly. Without dissipating by one jot he family's fortune or power, he nduced the American people to top attacking his father, and urned the attention of the critics o the great Rockefeller benefactions and to his efforts to bring bout industrial rapprochement.

ANOTHER "RICHEST MAN"

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is about s striking an example of pure tilitarianism as the world has yet roduced. Also, he has succeeded is father as, probably, the only ndividual billionaire on earth. If ou doubt it, take out your pencil and multiply the market value f the 10,000,000 odd shares that est in his name in the various tandard Oil companies and other roperties, or read the government eports which show that his annual ncome tax exceeds by some millions the combined total of Henry nd Edsel Ford.

But, over and beyond that, what s he? Well, he is virtuous, brainy, ourageous, precise and coldly scientific by inclination, training and ractice. He believes in life as he ives it, and that others should live t his way.

Boiled down to a formula: he is fficiency. He has a peculiar passion for petty economy. In his tall, odern town house adjoining his ather's on West Fifty-fourth street here is a standing rule that lights ust be dimmed when not in use. Warnings and financial penalties ollow infractions, whether the uilty person is a servant or a ember of the family.

For years the most expensive car n the family's possession was a odge. There were two of these in he stables and garage in Fifty-fifth street west of Sixth avenue. he little machines looked strangely out of place beside the senior ockefeller's imposing Simplexes nd Lincolns. The son's prejudice gainst motors lasted longer than is father's.

HORSES TO SCHOOL

Until four or five years ago he nt his younger boys to school in n old-fashioned horse-drawn carriage. Sometimes the youngsters ould crouch down beneath the vel of the seat, seeking to avoid e jeers of ribald street urchins.

For years Rockefeller, Jr., never pped. Now he applies the 10 per nt rule, rigidly. He gave his first p twenty years ago in the barber hop at 26 Broadway. He was sailing for England, was in a hurry and grievous need of a haircut. The arber, John Phelan, did the job nusually quickly. "Good work," said e famous customer curtly, dropped gratuity into Phelan's palm, and urried away. The other barbers rowded around, excitedly. Phelan pened his hand and displayed a right nickel! Phelan had the coin amed and hung it in the parlor nder an inscription: "John D., Jr.'s est Tip."

Like his father, the young Rockefeller is a man of fixed habits, fixed ethods. Although of conventional d orthodox intellectual cast, he ssesses a penetrant mind with no tours. Most business days find m in an oak-paneled suite on a oor high up in the Standard Oil uilding.

In this lofty workroom, with windows that sweep harbor and rivers, e junior Rockefeller supervises t only the family investments but e practical administration of the ormous benevolent trusts into hich his father and himself have ured three-fourths of a billion. him come reports of scientists d educators, Rockefeller-financed, ttling disease and ignorance in en the most primitive places of e globe. Incredible tales of romance, tragedy, triumph pour in m the outposts of civilization.

AT HIS DESK

Let's have a look at him as he s at his desk. He is below medium height, neither slender nor out. His nose commands the rest his round, smooth-shaven face. is slightly aquiline. The eyes are ar and blue. The chin is square d has solidity. The hair, light own, thinning and graying, is rted midway between the right-nd side and the middle of his ple cerebral frontage. He invariably wears a high, stiff collar.

He is the one active capitalist in e world whose chief mission in life giving away money. Like his ther he has the Napoleonic ability use, with coldly practical exactness, the constructive brains of se whom he selects to serve him. Rockefeller's routine of life is idly regulated. He works steadily and regularly. He rises winter d summer before 7. He goes bed early unless exception is de for an occasional night at ncert or opera. Even when traveling, his workday is eight hours in ration, no more, no less. His chief ial event of the year is the annual dinner of the Bible class of ich he has long been honorary sident. At the end of his day, en in New York, he often walks Fifth avenue or in Central Park, fore going home to dinner.

No out-of-season luxuries are ever ved at his table, and grace is asked before each meal. Post-prandial entertainment may consist of a violin solo by Rockefeller or a selection on the piano by Mrs. Rockefeller. When his wife plays, Rockefeller turns the music.

John D., Jr.'s, character is the logical outcome of his inheritance. His mother's people, as we have pointed out, were pioneer abolitionists and pioneer prohibitionists. Today Rockefeller, Jr., and his family liberally support the work of Hampton and Tuskegee. Each young Rockefeller child is "god-father" to a negro student. Each pays the way to education of the colored protege and personally corresponds with him.

In boyhood, John D., Jr.'s mother taught him the evils of alcohol. The Rockefellers were the heaviest contributors to the dry campaign that resulted in the Eighteenth Amendment. Rockefeller, Jr., today comes closest to a show of emotion when he discusses the horrors of liquor. He opposes even the workingman's supposedly essential glass of beer. "One glass of beer may lead to another," he declares. "Therefore, I say one glass is one glass too many."

John D., Jr., early developed qualities that delighted his parents. He was the model boy one reads about in story books. He never got his clothing soiled nor mud on his boots, had no bloody encounters with other lads. He read Sunday school tracts, Bible lessons and such standard fiction as his mother considered proper among the works of Hugo, Dickens, Bulwer-Lytton, Scott, Washington Irving, Thackeray.

His mother used to give him 5 cents an hour for practicing on the violin. By the time he was fourteen he became a capitalist by buying a share of stock in the Standard Oil Company of Ohio. The purchase required more than his savings. His father let him have the necessary amount and charged him only 6 per cent interest. Cheerily, John D. reminded Junior of the latter's luck in not having to pay the 10 per cent Senior's father always exacted.

COLLEGE ALLOWANCE

The youth of 19 years of age, who entered Brown University in the fall of 1893, was thoroughly schooled in the Rockefeller code. His allowance was $100 a month. He managed to live and clothe himself on half that. His classmates remember him as a pallid, earnest youth who did not smoke, drink, chew nor gamble, wore shiny suits, was faithful in his studies, and who sought to reform wilder students. He was a good skater but poor at football. His third year he made Phi Beta Kappa.

He graduated in 1897, neither at the head nor at the foot of his class. As he looks back upon it, the chief event of his four years at Brown was his meeting with Abby Aldrich. The Senator's daughter was a year younger and very like him in point of view. Though she had seen much of society in New York and Washington, she was serious-minded and cared little for frivolity. She and Junior often went buggy riding Sunday afternoons. They wrote letters to each other after his graduation.

There was, of course, inevitably but one career for the only son of John D. Rockefeller. The young man reported for work in the fall of 1897 at 26 Broadway. Gradually, as he demonstrated his ability to understand and appreciate the intricacies of modern financial methods, he was put on one board of directors after another.

John D., Jr., aroused public curiosity in many ways, but his teaching a Bible class was perhaps the most interesting aspect of him at first. But he soon showed that there were other sides to him. For instance, his trip to the riot scenes in Colorado.

DREAM CAUSES MOBBING OF LOTTERY SLIP HOLDER

LINARES (Spain) Dec. 15. (AP)—Police reserves were called to protect a man owning a lottery ticket that a woman of this town dreamed will be the lucky number of a forthcoming lottery.

The woman dreamed that a certain ticket number will win the "gordo," the large prize of the Christmas lottery, valued at 15,000,000 pesetas. Everybody in town heard about the dream and then everybody discovered that a local shopkeeper actually held the ticket number the woman had mentioned.

A great crowd rushed to the shopkeeper's place of business, clamoring for a chance to buy the ticket. The mobs broke the windows, wrecked the store and almost suffocated the ticket holder before the police came to the rescue.

The people then were herded into a long line and the shopkeeper established his own private lottery, selling 4000 shares in his ticket and making a huge profit in a few hours.

TWO MOTORISTS DIE WHEN AUTOS CRASH

HAITIANS ASK ELECTION AID

Seven Political Groups Send Petitions to Hoover

PORT AU PRINCE, Dec. 15. (AP) Petitions signed by the presidents of seven Haitian political organizations asking United States supervision of the Presidential elections next April were sent by air mail today to President Hoover.

The petitions state that only through American supervision of elections will the Haitians receive fair and impartial treatment.

They charge President Louis Borno with attempts to enslave the citizenry, with denying freedom of the press and with violating the personal-liberty clauses of the republic's constitution.

the actual production of commodities and services was larger.

"The most comprehensive measure of the volume of industrial production is the general index of output of manufactured commodities compiled by the Federal Reserve Board. This index for the fiscal year just closed stood at 117, as compared with the average for the three years, 1923-1925, taken as 100. It was 9 points higher than the previous peak attained in 1927."

STORE VOLUME LARGE

Aggregate mineral production and the volume of freight transported, the value of department store, five and ten cent store, mail order and wholesale sales were exceptionally large during the year, according to the report. The only general indicators of business activity which stood at a lower level in 1928-1929 than in the preceding fiscal year were the floor space of billing contracts and the output of forest products which is largely dependent on construction activity.

Although the unemployment problem has been serious since 1920, the report explained, the downward movement has been checked during the last three or four years and "the number of factory workers employed during the fiscal year was appreciably greater than during the preceding fiscal year."

BRITAIN TODAY WILL MAKE DEBT PAYMENT

LONDON, Dec. 15. (AP)—The British government tomorrow will pay into the United States Treasury $93,795,000 on the war debt. Of this $27,000,000 is repayment of principal while the balance is interest. This sum brings the total payments to the United States since funding the British debt to $1,124,970,000, of which $174,000,000 has been in repayment of principal. The amount outstanding is $4,426,000,000.

Veterans Get More Facilities in Hospitals

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—American Legion protests against the crowded conditions of the government hospitals in California have resulted in the placing at the disposal of the war veterans of this State of additional hospitalization facilities at Letterman General Hotel, Presidio of San Francisco, and at the Mare Island Naval Hospital, according to a telegram received from Senator Samuel M. Shortridge by Dr. A. C. Carlton, State Chairman of the Legion's rehabilitation committee.

At Letterman General Hospital, eighty additional beds will be made available and at Mare Island fifty more beds will be provided, according to Senator Shortridge.

New Plates Will Become Available Today

Branch Offices Throughout State Ready for Rush

All Records Expected to Be Broken This Year

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—The 1930 automobile license renewal season, expected by State officials to break all previous records, is scheduled to open at all branches of the Division of Motor Vehicles tomorrow.

Counters will be thrown open simultaneously at the main office in Sacramento, the branches in San Diego, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Fresno, Oakland and San Francisco, and by special arrangement at fifty district offices of the automobile clubs, where motorists may secure their new plates by payment of fees and presentation of registration certificates.

The division points out that the simplest way to secure licenses is by mail. Changes in address should be printed on the certificates together with the county in which he has legal residence.

Extra clerks have been put on at all offices and the division anticipates that by January 15, the deadline date, at least 1,500,000 renewals will have been issued.

The 1929 license plates become illegal after January 15 unless the operator can show that he or she has applied for new plates. After February 1, the license fee will be doubled as required by law.

There has been no change in the regular $3 fee for passenger automobiles, also trailers and commercial vehicles weighing less than 3000 pounds. Fees on heavier commercial vehicles are based on special weight rates.

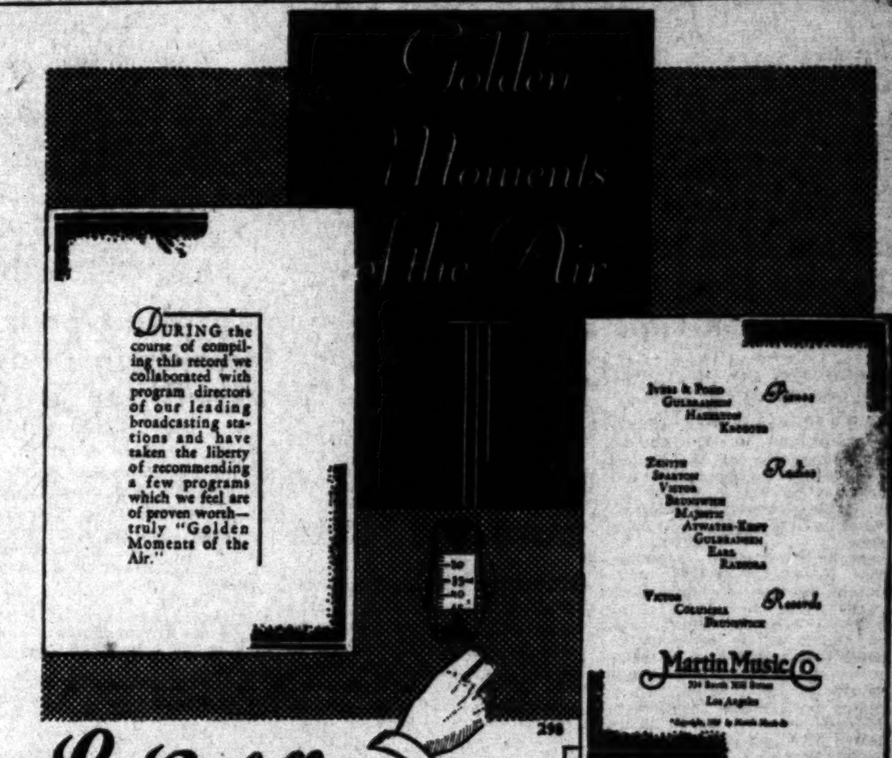
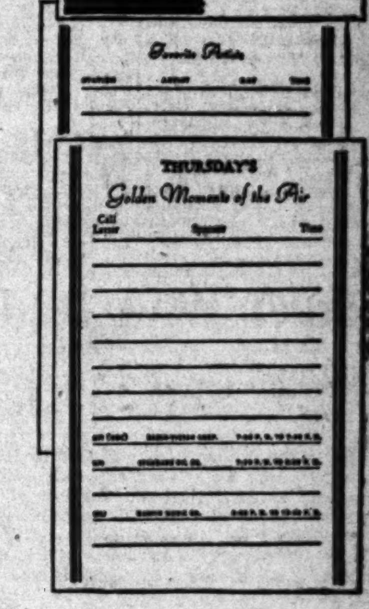
(The May Co.—GROCERIES—4th Floor)



DURING the course of compiling this record we collaborated with program directors of our leading broadcasting stations and have taken the liberty of recommending a few programs which we feel are of proven worth—truly "Golden Moments of the Air."

Sim Crabill says:

"By means of Direct Advertising you can tune in on profitable new business as surely as you can dial in on radio entertainment that pleases you."



AN IDEA beautifully translated into useful form, this little booklet wins a warm welcome. In it are listed a number of radio programs of proven worth, and spaces are provided for one to write in others that one particularly enjoys . . . . a page for each day of the week, and one for favorite artists. Hence it becomes a reference to golden moments of the air to which one turns frequently . . . . several times in a day, perhaps. Thus one is pleasantly reminded of its sponsors, the Martin Music Company, and it follows that this first investment in Golden Moments of the Air is returned to it many fold.

As a buyer of advertising printing you should be interested in this booklet not alone as an example of our press work but also as evidence of the creative service at the call of our customers. The idea itself was developed by our Service Staff.

There are Direct Advertising ideas here for you, too, together with the ability and experience by which they may be given practical, profitable expression. Why not have us in for a talk? There will be no obligation.

Wrecking of Old Theater in Redlands Reveals Danger

Contractor Says Disaster Threatened for Years

Chimney Out of Line; About to Topple on Store

REDLANDS, Dec. 15.—Theatergoers in Redlands stood in danger of being caught in a great disaster for years, according to Jack George, who is wrecking the Wyatt Theater Building at Orange and Colton. This was for many years one of the outstanding theaters of the citrus belt and for the past dozen years has been owned by the city. George says the building was due for a collapse any time. The sixty-three-foot chimney in the north wall of the building hung like Damocles' sword over the roof of an adjoining building occupied by the Piggly Wiggly store, said George. It leaned several inches out of line, threatening at any time to crash through the building below.

"That chimney, now completely wrecked, was enough to chill the enthusiasm of any contractor," the contractor said. "It was found apparent from the first that the base of the fifteen-ton chimney had settled but I did not know until it was partially demolished that the chimney was tied into the wall of the structure by only eleven big nails and a couple of ordinary wooden studs, which were inserted into the sides of the chimney not more than four inches. If that immense mass of bricks ever had been disturbed by an earthquake, it would have plunged completely through the store building below," he said.

"The proscenium arch had spread four and one-half inches under the stress of the tons of material above it. Several of the braces supporting the roof had snapped under their load and others are bent out of line. It was this condition under the roof that prompted the City Council to condemn the building less than a year ago and set up new braces from the balcony floor to the ceiling. The lathing that carries the ceiling plaster would not support the weight of a child, if he should chance to step off one of the timbers to which the lathing is attached by corroded, old nails. George struck one of the ornate old boxes, in which proud ladies once sat with their escorts while viewing grand performances on the stage, with a stick. The stucco finish fell off in heavy flakes, revealing flimsy wooden superstructure underneath. The contractor, for whom the Wyatt Theater is the 105th building to be wrecked, says he never saw a greater fire trap and that scores undoubtedly would have perished, had a fire started during a stage performance.

Lettuce Men to Discuss How to Market Crops

EL CENTRO, Dec. 15.—Lettuce growers and shippers in Imperial Valley are to hold a joint meeting next Friday night to discuss plans for the marketing of the record crop now being harvested here, according to the announcement of C. B. Moore, executive secretary of the Western Growers' Protective Association.

Unusually favorable growing weather this fall, combined with the largest acreage ever planted in the valley, indicate a crop of at least 15,000 carloads, Moore predicted, and it will be necessary to maintain a high standard of quality to insure the profitable marketing of this output.

He said further that the growers would not resort to an arbitrary limitation of shipments except as a last resort.

TOURNAMENT PICKS BAND

HUNTINGTON PARK, Dec. 15. The Huntington Park Union High School band, with its leader, Miss Mabel Langton, will again be seen in the annual Tournament of Roses parade at Pasadena on New Year's Day. K. L. Stockton, principal of the school, has received notification from the music committee of the Tournament of Roses that the band has been selected as one of the musical organizations to appear in this procession.

Harry B. Wagoner

PALM SPRINGS, Dec. 15.—The folk of Palm Springs, both visitors from other States and the regular desert dwellers who make it their home every winter, received an engraved invitation to attend the formal opening and preview of desert paintings by Harry B. Wagoner at the art gallery of El Mirador Hotel today.

Most of those invited were there because they really thought it would be the right thing to do. After the first glance at a canvas of that enchanted mesa below Mt. San Jacinto, with its dazzling snow-draped peak towering above the wild honeysuckle and desert verbena in the bloom of springtime, they really became vastly interested. Exclamations of delight came from those just a little uncertain of their "art," but appreciative of the beauty and sincerity of Wagoner's work. There were those present, of course, who have a complete understanding of canvases, and from these one gathered the collection is one of those very rare treats.

Wagoner has painted desert scenes and life for most of the past ten years. To him the desert is a land of enchantment. It claims him as its own. Twice he has fled from it, only to hurry back. His friends once prevailed upon him to give up the desert and open a studio in some metropolis, where he could sell paintings more marketable. Their arguments seemed so reasonable that he and his wife sailed for Sweden, and from there to the Tyrol and through Switzerland to Italy. He visited the famous galleries and museums—the cathedrals and art centers. He sketched and painted lakes and fiords, Italian villages and Alpine landscapes. Then he returned to the Southwest and went right on painting the desert.

In his canvases are poetry and imagination. He reproduces a sunrise on the desert, with the blue haze that drapes the base of the mountains, losing none of its enchantment and mystery.

Federal Scouts Hunt Boll Worm

CALEXICO, Dec. 15.—Two squads of Federal horticultural scouts have just arrived in Imperial Valley to search for any possible evidence of pink boll worm in the valley cotton fields. These are in addition to two squads sent to Indio and one to Yuma to make inspections there.

The Federal government is making careful inspection in California for the pest, which has caused a great deal of damage in some parts of the South and which thus far has not been reported in Imperial Valley, alhtough some outcroppings have been seen in Arizona.

LIVE TREE FUND STARTED

UPLAND, Dec. 15.—A fund has been started here by Homer Torrance of Ontario, for purchase and planting of a live Christmas tree near the statue of "The Madonna of the Trail," at Foothill Boulevard and Euclid avenue.

PORT WILL BE IMPROVED

San Diego's Five Major Harbor Development Plans for Coming Year Announced by Chamber

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 15.—Five major harbor development projects for 1930, illustrating the growing importance of San Diego as a world port, have been announced by the Chamber of Commerce and harbor department. In the order of their importance these projects are: Opening of Lindbergh Field, America's first A-1-A government classification airport, to the commercial air liners of the world on January 1. Reconstruction of the Broadway Pier, making it from an architectural, aesthetic and utilitarian standpoint, one of the finest ocean passenger terminals on either the Atlantic or Pacific Coast. Deepening the entrance to the bar and dredging the north and south edge of the main channel from the quarantine station to the mole pier.

Realignment of the United States Navy mooring area so that two or three divisions of destroyers will hereafter be berthed on the north end of the channel abeam the naval-training station and the marine base, thus giving commercial ships a wider and free fairway in the area between the municipal pier approaches and the ferry lane.

Building of a public-service station adjacent to the municipal floats which will contain an information booth, quarters for the Navy patrol and rest rooms for men and women.

Gratification over the splendid results attained in the construction of the first unit of Lindbergh Field is expressed by both the chamber and the harbor department. It is the first municipal improvement in the history of the city in which thousands of dollars over the original bond issue were saved. At the same time the municipality obtained forty-two more acres of reclaimed land than the contract originally called for.

Joe Brennan, port director, gives much of the credit for this splendid showing to the sagacity on the Harbor Commission in awaiting a favorable moment, despite repeated protests from citizens who did not realize the value of such a delay, when bids for dredging could be obtained at a very low figure, and the whole-hearted co-operation of the Western Dredging Company.

"LEARNING" GROWS HUMAN

Ontario School Adds to "Three 'Rs'" Subjects Hoped to Instill Character and Civic-Mindedness

ONTARIO, Dec. 15.—When the youngsters of Central School carry their report cards home they cause their parents to recollect that "learning" isn't what it used to be. In the days when "Pa" and "Ma" went to school their triangle of education was reading, writing and arithmetic. In addition to these three fundamentals on the Central School youngsters' report cards are listed: Punctuality, obedience, industry, reliability, self-control, judgment, social attitude, initiative, personal habits and thrift.

Miss Clara Perrin, principal of the school, is experimenting with these phases of child teaching, and is meeting with enthusiastic success. The youngsters are graded the same as for their academic work, 1 meaning practical perfection; 2, good; 3, fair, 4, poor, and 5, failure.

This plan is being tried in this institution but will probably be adopted by other schools, judging from the success it is meeting under Miss Perrin.

Under personal habits the boy and girl are instructed in proper sitting, standing, walking, care of hands, clothing, nails, face and teeth; correct breathing with mouth closed, and unstinted use of the handkerchief when occasion requires.

Under reliability he is taught to observe pride in having trust placed in him; keep promises, must tell the truth. He is taught to control his temper under the head of obedience, and is shown the folly of quarreling, or running to the teacher as a tattletale.

Pullman Cars in Lieu of Hotels in Agua Caliente

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 15.—When the new Agua Caliente Jockey Club course below the Mexican line opens its gates the 28th inst., it will greet a great crowd of visitors from out of town. That was made evident today when it was announced that all first-day reservations at the Agua Caliente hotels had been taken for more than six weeks and that to help accommodate the overflow crowd, a long train of Pullman cars would be placed on a siding near the hotel to serve as a branch hotel for the first five or six days of winter racing.

The hotel itself will accommodate between 500 and 600 patrons. The train will house about 350 more.

President Wirt G. Bowman of the Jockey Club said that the first five days had been marked down on his calendar as "celebration" days to mark the opening of the $2,000,000 plant and that he did not expect the track to settle down to its routine of the season until the opening ceremonies and excitement were well over.

The special train of seventeen Pullmans will be made up in Los Angeles the night of the 27th inst. It will depart for San Diego over the Santa Fe tracks the next morning after the San Francisco special reaches Los Angeles to join the holiday tour. At San Diego all coaches will be routed to the border over the San Diego and Arizona Railway.

The special will remain on the Agua Caliente siding from the 28th inst. until January 1, at which time it will leave again for Los Angeles and points north, getting visitors from the northern city home in time for the annual New Year's Day football game in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena.

Pullman company officials are co-operating with the Agua Caliente management on the arrangements for the special train and are concentrating cars for use at that time. Nothing but compartments and drawing-room cars will be carried on the special as the coaches will be the home of the visitors during their four-day stay across the border. Service will be maintained as if the train were en route.

With such a throng of visitors seeking advance accommodations over the border for the holiday season and opening of the new race track, San Diego hotels no doubt will receive a similar rush of business over the New Year period, it is anticipated.

Institute Opens in Ontario Today for Three Days

ONTARIO, Dec. 15.—Teachers of the West End of San Bernardino county will open a three-day institute at Chaffey Union High School tomorrow, with Dr. John Withers, dean of the school of education of New York University, as opening speaker.

Dr. Merton E. Hill, principal of Chaffey, has completed arrangements for the institute, which is to feature nationally prominent speakers.

Dr. Withers's opening address in the afternoon will be "Some Basic Principles in Character Building." The featured speaker Tuesday is to be Dr. Jesse H. Newlon, director of the Lincoln School, Columbia University. His subject will be "The Teacher's Larger Responsibilities."

Chaffey music departments will present a Christmas musical program Wednesday afternoon, under direction of S. Earle Blakeslee, head of the department. Dr. Edward C. Elliot, president of Purdue University, will be speaker on the subject, "Looking Forward with Old-Fashioned Ideas."

SCHOOL DISTRICT HAS CASH FOR WARRANTS

GLENDALE, Dec. 15.—Outside of the city of Los Angeles, the Glendale Union High School District is the only school organization that is paying its current expenses from the cash on hand, instead of drawing against money that will not be available until next February. Irving H. Oliver, business manager of the Glendale Union High Schools, last night told the board of trustees that all school organizations, with the exception of Los Angeles and Glendale, are paying 6 per cent interest on the warrants they are drawing against next year's tax money.

A surplus in the budget funds, Oliver stated, has enabled the district to pay cash and escape the 6 per cent interest burden on registered warrants.

SIXTY PER CENT OF BEAN CROP SHIPPED

RESEDA, Dec. 15.—Checks that total $38,710 and representing the second payment on the San Fernando Valley baby lima bean crop have been mailed to growers of the valley association. The payment brings the total to $6 per sack to date on a crop yield of about 194,449 100-pound bags. Market price is around $10 per hundred pounds. About 60 per cent of the crop has been shipped, it is shown by warehouse reports.

POTRERO CLUB HOLDS ELECTION OF BOARD

INGLEWOOD, Dec. 15.—Sam M. Greene, president of the Bank of Inglewood, was one of the seven directors elected by the membership of the Potrero Country Club at the annual meeting last evening. Others elected to the board are: A. E. Witt, Chester E. Nelson, Albin E. Johnson, John H. Alvord and A. E. Amundson. All have served on the board during the last year with the exception of the last named.

The new board will elect its officers at an early date.

Manager Clarence Grimm and his wife, and J. A. (Pat) Patterson, club professional, were highly complimented by President Witt in his annual report. The club was declared to be in the best financial condition it has ever been, and with the best of feeling among the membership.

HEALTH BOARD BANS "SPOTTING" FERTILIZER

REDLANDS, Dec. 15.—The rift between the Redlands Board of Health and the railroads widened today when the board took a definite stand on the "spotting" of cars of fertilizer at Eastberne station. The board passed resolutions asking the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe railroads to cease spotting cars of fertilizer at the station at once. All members of the board attended the meeting and voted in favor of the resolutions. Those present were: Dr. C. G. Hilliard, Dr. K. L. Dole, Dr. G. G. Mosely, Dr. W. E. Phelps, City Engineer George Hinckley and City Councilman Theodore Krumm.

"BUDDIES" MARKET PRESENTS

War's Victims Make Christmas Toys

Disabled Warriors Fight on; Battle for Living

"Argonne Forest" in Pasadena, stronghold of Jesse J. Jones (left,) gassed at Verdun, and Merwin C. Stewart (right,) who lost both legs in Argonne drive, who unite forces to fashion holiday wares and to supply Christmas trees for youngsters. Between the two veterans stands little Fred Merwin.

PASADENA, Dec. 15. — Eleven years ago, Merwin C. Stewart, an 18-year-old private in the Fifth Marine Brigade, lost both legs while fighting his way up Hill 299 in the final Argonne drive seven days before the armistice was signed. He is still fighting, but his present fight consists in earning enough to stretch out his disability compensation to support his 5-year-old son, Fred, and defray the expenses of keeping his wife in a health sanatorium.

The war hero's comrades in the Kenneth Bell Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, suggested that "Marine" Stewart use his ability as a wood carver to practical advantage by making Christmas toys.

Stewart welcomed the suggestion and went into partnership with another war veteran, Jesse J. Jones, who served for two years in France with the Twenty-second Engineers. Jones, the father of three sons and three daughters, was gassed while serving at Verdun.

The two "buddies" are offering their wares for sale at "The Argonne Forest," 115 South Marengo avenue.

Jones sells Christmas trees and wreaths, while Stewart makes and sells every type of wooden toy, ranging from toy houses and trains to doll furniture.

The crippled marine, although awarded the Croix de Guerre and other medals for capturing ten prisoners single-handed at Chateau Tierry, declined to wear his medals when he was photographed.

"The war's over and medals don't mean much anyway, but this kid means something" he exclaimed as he patted little Fred's head.

PEST FATAL TO PEPPERS CONTROLLED

State and Federal War on Weevil Winning; Garden Grove Growers Rejoice

GARDEN GROVE, Dec. 15.—Because State and government agencies are winning their battle against the pepper weevil, growers of the Garden Grove district this season will harvest a crop valued at approximately $1,000,000 from a planting of almost 6000 acres, according to word received here today.

In 1926 the weevil caused a loss of more than half the pepper crop, or approximately $500,000. Growers, through the Orange County Farm Bureau, obtained an appropriation from State and Federal sources, which was used for the establishment of an experiment station at Garden Grove.

The station, in charge of J. E. Elmore, assistant entomologist of the government Bureau of Entolomogy, controls activities throughout Orange county, as well as in Los Angeles, San Diego and Ventura counties, working in cooperation with agricultural commissioners and farm advisers.

The weevil lays its eggs in the buds and pods of the pepper, the larvae hatch and do their feeding within the pod, causing them to fall before they are fully developed.

One female weevil is capable of laying 500 eggs in three months, and eight generations, from egg to egg, may develop in one season. In other words, it was explained, the progeny of a single pair of weevils may number millions by the end of the season.

Arsenate of lead applications during July and August, together with destruction of pepper vines and nightshade following the harvest, have been found to be effective in combatting the pest.

The weevil has been found in Southern New Mexico and Western Texas. In Texas, pepper growing has been virtually halted, because of the pest's activities. Weevil damage was heavy this year in San Diego and Ventura counties, in areas where pest-control measures were not vigorously applied.

ADOLPH LEUZINGER SCHOOL OPENS SOON

LAWNDALE, Dec. 15.—Opening of the new Adolph Leuzinger High School as a part of the Inglewood Union High School District school system, has been set for the opening of the second semester on January 27, it has been announced.

Construction work is practically completed and the contractors are expected to turn the building over to the school board for its approval within a short time.

The school, for which an enrollment of 300 is anticipated, will be under the direct supervision of Supt. George M. Green of the Inglewood Union High School. Mrs. Darsie L. Darsie will be dean of girls and a staff of fourteen instructors will be employed. An investment of $400,000 is represented in the site, building and fixtures.

VENTURA SAYS IT WITH CAKE

Christmas Present Sent to Hoover

WHITE PAINT LAW INVOKED BY LAWYER

Because Arresting Officer Rode Cycle of Dark Hue, Dismissal Moved

PASADENA, Dec. 15.—Because the officer who arrested him for speeding was not riding a motorcycle painted white, William E. Fox, local attorney, moved for dismissal of the complaint in Police Court Saturday.

Police Judge Leo Riccardi denied the defendant's motion on the grounds that motorcycles do not come under provisions of the new State vehicle law which stipulate that police automobiles must be painted white.

In answering the denial of his motion, Fox asserted that a writ of prohibition will be asked of the District Court of Appeals in order that the new law may be interpreted to require repainting of police motorcycles as well as automobiles.

Fox was given an arrest ticket for speeding on October 19, last, by Motorcycle Officer L. M. Frakes, who charged that the attorney crossed the intersection of Vernon avenue and Green street at a thirty-mile-an-hour gait. The defendant demanded a jury trial, which was set for the 20th inst.

It was intimated by City Prosecutor John W. Joslyn today that another test case will be filed here in the immediate future to obtain an interpretation of the "white-paint" law as it affects local police patrol automobiles. In view of the fact that this city's ten patrol cars are used also by city detectives, police officials believe that to paint the cars a dazzling white would hamper detectives in "shadowing" suspects.

If the police patrol cars are painted white, it is held probable that it will be necessary to purchase a fleet of dark-hued automobiles for exclusive use of the detective bureau.

Municipality to Keep Open House for Southland

GLENDALE, Dec. 15.—Beginning on January 2, the city of Glendale will hold open house not only for its own citizens, but also for all of Southern California, for two days, during which time the municipal buildings will be thrown open to visitors with department heads ready to explain the operations of the city government.

The city buildings will be specially illuminated for the occasion, and among other exhibits on display will be the float that the city entered in the 1930 Pasadena Tournament of Roses.

In the basement of the new six-story office building on Howard street a display will be arranged to show the work carried on by the various departments, including projects that are now under way, others that are completed and still others that are contemplated in the future.

Invitations have been mailed to the executives of every city in Southern California to come and inspect the city's exhibit and enjoy the hospitality of Glendale.

SCIENCE BUILDING READY FOR CLASSES

TORRANCE, Dec. 15.—First classes in the new science building of the Torrance High School will be held following the holidays, it was announced by Supt. C. L. Wood yesterday. The building, erected and furnished at a cost of about $75,000, forms an attractive unit of the school group here. Its building was accompanied by the complete remodeling of the basement of the main building to allow for a school cafeteria and domestic science rooms. Dedication ceremonies have been postponed until the beginning of the new semester.

VENTURA, Dec. 15.—In Ojai is being baked a monster fruit cake, which is to adorn the Christmas dinner table of President and Mrs. Hoover.

Bill Baker, famous cake maker of this county, today received a letter from Representative A. M. Free in Washington advising him that he stands ready to present the Chief Executive the cake when it arrives.

Baker is at work on a fifty-pound masterpiece which, he announced, will be expressed to the White House the coming week. Baker has created for himself a wide reputation for handsomely decorated cakes, specimens of which have been presented numerous visiting dignitaries here as well as being sent far and wide to prominent citizens.

Phone Company Plans Expansion

SAN BERNARDINO, Dec. 15.—The expenditure of between $500,000 and $1,000,000 in the San Bernardino territory next year in the extension of telephone facilities to improve the service, is included in the budget of the Associated Telephone Company, operating telephone systems in half a dozen Southern California cities, it was announced today by C. F. Mason, vice-president of the Utility Corporation.

The service will be materially improved according to the program. Statisticians are now at work in the city compiling a survey of its needs for telephone lines and the class of service required to meet the city's growth. When the survey is completed an extensive program of expansion will be ordered. Mason's announcement did not include a review of the proposed work, although a number of projects are contemplated, he said.

Sand Deposits Will be Bought

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 15.—That Engineer H. N. Savage is looking forward to increasing the height of Barrett Dam, a big unit in the city water system, was indicated when the engineer asked the City Council for authority to acquire sand deposits below the dam.

Savage recommended the purchase of fifty acres of land lying three miles below the dam. E. D. Sherman, owner, has agreed to sell the land for $830. Funds for such purchases were voted in a recent bond issue, Savage informed the Council, which is to act on the recommendation tomorrow.

Engineer Savage built Barrett Dam for the city several years ago and the reservoir has the distinction of being the only city reservoir that was full of water on the day of its completion. In fact, the rapid inflow of water in the reservoir forced the construction crew to speed up. Even with the augmented speed of construction the water ran ahead of the crews.

Thirteen Scouts Get Honors From National Court

All Distinguished Selves by Daring Rescues

Drowning Persons Saved in Every Instance

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The National Court of Honor of the Boy Scouts of America today announced awards of gold honor medals to thirteen Scouts who risked their lives to save the lives of others.

The awards went to Henry C. Dean, 19 years of age, and Robert Brooks, 14, Magnolia, Minn.; Charles Bieler, 14, Jersey City, N. J.; Leonard Banyea, 16, Windsor, Vt.; Franklin Hearn, 17, Toledo, O.; John Rothfuss, 17, Sylvania, O.; Raymond Phipps, Yakima, Wash.; Hubert C. Patterson, Jr., 14, Albermarle, N. C.; Roy Hal Teeves, 17, Arthur, Ill.; Howard K. St. Thomas, 16, Foxboro, Mass.; Joe Brashears, 18, Rockwood, Tenn.; Bob Couch, 16, Darien, Ct., and George Sherman, 15, West Agawam, Mass.

OUTSTANDING CASE

The national court said the most unusual rescue was effected by Rothfuss, who, single-handedly, saved Alice and Sophia Jankkowski after they had sunk in Gerald Lake, a quarry pool at Sylvania, O., on May 29, and then revived Alice after a half hour's application of artificial respiration.

Dean and Brooks saved three young Scouts and tried, though unsuccessfully, to save their Scoutmaster from drowning after a boat capsized in Indian Lake, Minn.

Bieler rescued Eileen Carter, 9, and her father from drowning off Atlantic Highlands, N. J., last summer and revived both by artificial respiration.

Banyea saved Leslie Harrington, 14, from drowning in Silver Lake, Vt.

Hearn saved Miss Mildred Corbett from the Raisin River after she and another girl had been thrown in by a practical joker. He spent an hour in a successful effort to revive her.

OTHER RESCUES

Phipps saved Elwood Sires, 11, from drowning in the Yakima River.

Sherman, a tenderfoot scout, rescued William Pirani, 13, from drowning.

Couch saved two young men from drowning in Santa Monica Bay, Cal.

Hubert C. Patterson, Jr., rescued Miss Geneva Hahn from drowning in Ritchies Lake, N. C.

Reeves saved William Hoffman, 15, from drowning in a river.

St. Thomas, a senior patrol leader, saved Ernest Charles Wheeler, 8, from drowning in Neponset Lake, Mass., on Memorial Day.

PUPIL SHOWS UP HIS TEACHER

She Makes "Artic" Ocean Sea and Finds Herself Still Wrong

VICTORIA (B. C.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Not all schoolteachers know their geography, as was humorously proved on Vancouver Island recently.

The teacher was painstakingly giving a lesson in geography and had occasion to write on the blackboard: "Artic Ocean."

One smart young scholar, although not anxious to show up his teacher or show off his knowledge, questioned his mentor as to the spelling of the word "Artic."

"Please, shouldn't there be a "c?" he volunteered.

"Yes, you are right," said the school ma'am and struck out the word "ocean" and substituted "sea."

LUTHER BURBANK'S CEDAR TO BE LIGHTED

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—In tribute to the late Luther Burbank's life-long advocacy of outdoor Christmas trees, the Cedar of Lebanon under which he is buried in the Burbank garden here will be turned into a brilliantly illuminated Christmas tree Thursday night and remains alight every night until the new year dawns. The cedar, which was planted by Burbank, is famous as a land-mark in Santa Rosa.

SACRAMENTAN ROBBED AND SHOT BY BANDITS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (AP)—David Tarra of Sacramento was shot through the neck and robbed of $96 by two men near Marysville today. Tarra was left wounded on the lonely road. He staggered to a near-by ranch and collapsed. Tarra told authorities the two men picked him up in Marysville and drove him out to the point of the robbery and shooting.

MEXICAN AMITY ERA INTENSIFIED

Ortiz Rubio's Friendly Aims Impress Countrymen

Old Fears of United States Rapidly Dwindling

Morrow Has Aided Greatly in Fostering Peace

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 15. (AP)—Mexican-American co-operation and friendship dating in its recent phase from the time of Ambassador Morrow's arrival in 1924, bids well to ripen into full bloom during the administration of President Ortiz Rubio.

While the chronic critics see in the President-elect's visit to the United States a trip made for the sole purpose of receiving orders from the White House, those with different views agree that it means much for the promotion of mutual understanding and are inclined to make little of the critics' arguments.

BOGEYS VANISHING

The old dread of being told what to do by the United States, the eternal shouting about the "colossus of the north" and the once popular war cry of opposition to American "imperialism" rapidly are losing ground in Mexico. Some view this change as a resignation to the force of circumstance while others attribute it to a new outlook on American politics, but be that as it may the present-day opinion seems to be that nothing can be gained by furthering enmity between the two nations while much is to be won through co-operation.

Ortiz Rubio has taken advantage of the occasion in the United States to speak of amity, mutual comprehension and a neighborly spirit of interlocking progress. And in so doing he has followed the policy of the Portes Gil government and the Calles administration, dating from Mr. Morrow's advent as Ambassador.

MORE OUTSPOKEN

But he has carried it a bit further by paying a visit to the States and has been somewhat more outspoken in expressing his views all of which leads to the belief that international friendship will enjoy full sway when he comes into the Presidency.

Mexicans read reports from New York these days as avidly as they ordinarily would peruse the political columns of the local news.

HUMAN MASKS LONDON CRAZE

Papier-Mache Casts Hung on Wall and Lighted at Night

LONDON, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The latest idea now is not to have your photograph taken, but to have a mask of yourself made in papier-mache and hung on the wall, tilted at such an angle that at night it can be illuminated by concealed lights that will shine through the mouth and eyes.

The orginator of this idea is Miss Gladys Marloe, the singer, who in private life is Mrs. Alan Scrutton, a daughter-in-law of Lord Justice Scrutton.

TROTZKY SHOWS OLD-TIME VIGOR

Exiled Former War Lord Regains Health

Bristles With Energy at Home on Island

Fears Attacks by White Russians He Ruined

PRINKIPO (Princes Islands, Turkey) Dec. 15. (AP)—Leon Trotzky, former Bolshevik war lord, is still an exile on this island of the Marmara Sea, but his famous beard and mustache, shorn when he was secretly brought into Turkey, are back.

With their return there seems to have come a recrudescence of his Samsonian vigor, mental and physical. Recent interviews found him no longer a sick, pallid, down-and-outer, but as bristling with energy as his restored mustachios.

His summer on the island has restored his health, but his physical energy finds an outlet in daily fishing excursions on the Marmara Sea. He remains wary of public promenades—for there are still some 1300 lean, White Russians drifting about. So long as they are in the neighborhood, the smasher of their fortunes keeps prudently within his villa, and a Turkish secret service man and police dog keep guard without the door.

Cornered though he is, the partner of Lenin refuses to cringe, as a recent fiery denial of the rumor that he had written Stalin a capitulatory letter attests.

The Liner Republic Was Fighting a Storm at sea last week when the stork called at the stateroom of Mrs. Theresa Huetter, an Austrian woman, and left a six-pound baby. Incidentally, the Republic rescued eleven men from the sinking schooner Gander Deal on trip. (P. & A. photo.)

The Actual Rescue of Five Members of the Crew of Ill-Fated Northern Light by a lifeboat from the liner Baltic is depicted above. The Northern Light, battered by heavy gales and seas, which have swept the Atlantic during the past month, sank a few minutes after the five sailors, shown in the stern of the craft, had been taken off by the lifeboat. PLATICAS DE LOS LUNES

POR EL PROFESOR R. GUERRERO
Encargado de la Sección Española de Este Diario

Cuando la amiguita de Celia dice a ésta que ya ha comprado la ermita un señor de las Indias, Celia le contesta: "No lo creas." "Lo" es la forma complementaria acusativa del pronombre "ello", que en este caso reproduce toda la oración, "un señor . . . ya ha comprado la ermita": "No des crédito a ello"; "no lo creas". Y ya que tratamos de este pronombre "ello" o "lo", viene a cuento mencionar la locución familiar "en lo de", "a lo de", muy usada en la República Argentina con el valor de "en casa de", "a casa de", y equivalente, por tanto, al "chez" de los franceses: "Vamos a lo de Pérez"; "Vengo de lo de Bullock"; "Comimos en lo de Pig'n Whistle", etc. Debo decir que no es de aceptarse dicha locución en la conversación esmerada, y que hay que corregir esas frases, diciendo: "Vamos a casa de Pérez"; "Vengo de la tienda de Bullock"; "Comimos en el Pig'n Whistle".

Con igual significación se usa prepositivamente el adverbio "donde" en casi toda la América Española (en Méjico, no): "Vamos donde Pérez"; "Vengo de donde Bullock"; "Comimos donde Pig'n Whistle". De esta construcción, que no puede condenarse como la anterior, hablaremos en otra vez.

En la República Argentina usan "lo que" como locución causal. Mediante el verbo que la sigue, señala la causa o motivo por el cual se produce un hecho expresado por otra frase u otro verbo: "María estaba encantada, lo que nos acercábamos a Los Angeles". Este uso no está sancionado por los escritores españoles; pero el de "a lo que", en el sentido de "al tiempo que", es provincialismo que se dice mucho en Aragón. Sobre "lo que" y "a lo que", dice lo siguiente el señor Cuervo:

. . . nada tiene de extraño que se emplee "lo que" para significar tiempo: "A cada luna la dan tales accidentes, que, perdiendo el sentido, se golpea y arrastra haciendo lastimosos extremos LO QUE aquel dolor la dura" (Herrera Maldonado, "Luciano español", fol. 200, Madrid, 1621); "El grande y el pequeño — Somos iguales LO QUE dura el sueño" (Lope, "Arcadia", lib. I); "Al maestrescuela sirvió, — Mas, puesto que era criado, — Fue cual hijo regalado — LO QUE en su casa vivió" (Ledesma, "Conceptos espirituales", p. 194, Madrid, 1609).

Siguiendo la norma de frases como "al tiempo o a la sazón que", "al momento o al punto que", decimos en Bogotá, agrega el señor Cuervo: "A lo que salía, lo vi", "Cójalo a lo que asome", "A lo que va creciendo, se va empeorando". En Aragón se ha dicho y se dice lo mismo, y es probable que de allí nos haya venido. Véanse ejemplos aragoneses: "Parto de mi ermita a lo que el sol se levanta" (Julián de Medrano, "caballero navarro", "Silva curiosa", p. 187, París, 1608); "Después de mañana, a lo que el sol se levante" (Id., "ib.", p. 226); "Siempre que llega a poner las manos en el suelo, abajarle la mano, y a lo que mete los pies para levantarse del cuarto delantero, levantarle la mano, para obligarle a que se levante más" (Gregorio de Zúñiga y Arista, "natural de la villa de Magallón del reino de Aragón", "Doctrina del caballo, y arte de enfrenar", p. 101, Lisboa, 1705); "A lo que pasaba a Italia como consejero de Sicilia, se le volvió a llamar para oidor de Valladolid" (V. de la Fuente, "Hist. eclesiást. de Esp.", tomo III, p. 271, Barcelona, 1855); "Decía Blanca así, a lo que asomaron — Los que a la guerra desde el Ebro fueron" (Evaristo López, "La Alfonsiada", canto I, Zaragoza, 1864); "Y a lo que el sol doraba en lo más alto — Las cumbres de Israel, marcha al asalto" (Id., "ib.", canto VII).

Como se ve, "a lo que" denota, o simple coexistencia entre dos hechos, o inmediata anterioridad del uno con respecto al otro, o paralelismo en las modificaciones de dos atributos. Los que quieran evitar el provincialismo, han de decir en el primer caso, "cuando", "al tiempo que", "a la sazón que"; en el segundo, "luego que", "apenas", "tan luego como", "así como" (o simplemente "como"), "así que", "no bien . . . cuando", "aun no bien . . . cuando", "al punto que", etc.; en el tercero, "como", "conforme", "a medida", "a proporción", etc. Van ejemplos de las locuciones análogas, por su forma, a la que motiva este párrafo: "A la sazón que yo desperté, acababa de cerrar la noche" (Cervantes, "Galatea", lib. I); "Sale la estrella de Venus — Al tiempo que el sol se pone" ("Romance morisco"); "Sale de un juego de cañas, — Vestido de azul y verde, — El valeroso Arbolán — Casi al punto que anochece" ("Romance morisco").

Siguen algunos ejemplos, añade el señor Cuervo, que presentan usos corrientes de "a lo que": "Desde allí, prosiguió la peregrina, no sé qué viaje será el mío, aunque sé que no me ha de faltar donde ocupe la ociosidad y entretenga el tiempo. A lo que dijo Antonio el padre: paréceme, señora peregrina, que os da en el rostro la peregrinación" (Cervantes, "Persiles", lib. III, cap. VI); "¿No veis, Señor, que no podrá llegar el provecho que cause la cordura de Don Quijote a lo que llega el gusto que da con sus desvaríos?" (Cervantes, "Quij.", pte. II, cap. LXV); "Nadie tuvo ánimo de decirle a lo que le llevaban" (Quintana, "Vida de don Alvaro de Luna"); "Era Volseo hombre de baja suerte y vil, hijo de un carnicero, a lo que algunos escriben" (Ribadeneira, "Cisma de Inglaterra", lib. I, cap. IV); "A lo que advierto, parece que la justicia ha hecho contigo todas sus habilidades" ("Gil Blas de Santillana", lib I, cap. XIII).

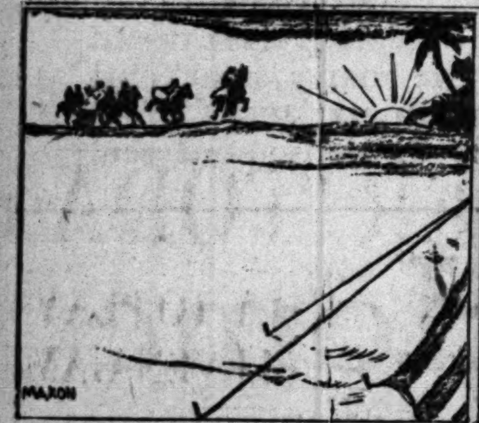
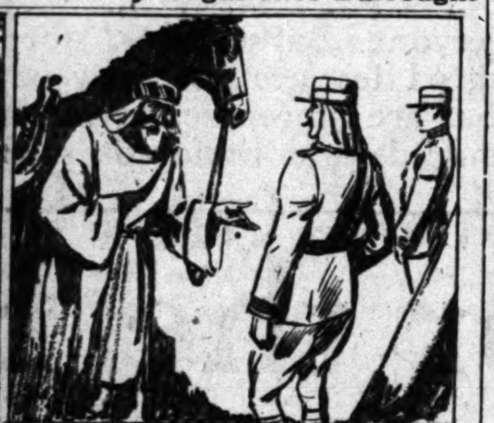
A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

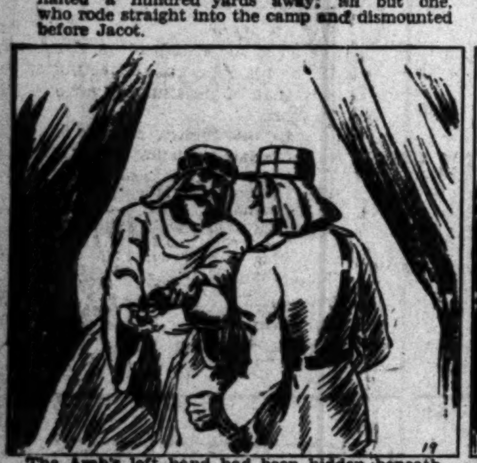
By Edgar Rice Burroughs



Shortly before sundown, a group of horsemen on the horizon were seen by a sentry. They came galloping over the now golden sands directly toward the French Legion's little camp. They made no attempt to conceal themselves, but Captain Jacot, suspecting treachery, gave his men a few sharp commands. The party of Arabs halted a hundred yards away; all but one, who rode straight into the camp and dismounted before Jacot.



"I am Sheik Amor ben Khatour," he announced. Captain Jacot eyed the newcomer, a tall, sour-looking man, narrowly. "Well?" he asked. The Arab came directly to the point. "Achmet ben Houdin, your prisoner, is my sister's son. Deliver him to me and I will see that he behaves." Jacot shook his head. "That cannot be. He is charged with many murders. If he is innocent, he will be released!" "And if he is not?" questioned the Sheik.



The Arab's left hand had been hidden beneath his burnoose. Now he withdrew it, disclosing a large goatskin purse bulging and heavy with gold coins. He opened it, let a handful trickle into his right palm, then replaced them. All the time he was silent. Jacot watched him closely. They were alone now. The Sheik held the purse toward Jacot, stepped close and whispered meaningly: "Achmet ben Houdin, my sister's son, MIGHT manage to escape this night?"

The French officer flushed deeply, then he went very white and with fists clenched took a half-step toward the Arab. Suddenly he thought better of whatever impulse was moving him. "Sargeant!" he called. The noncommissioned officer hurried forward saluting, as his heels clicked together before his superior. "Take this black dog back to his people," he ordered. "See that they leave at once and shoot the first who attempts to return."

MR. BLUECHIP, MEET MR. WALLET. MR WALLET HAS JUST INHERITED CODA'S FORTUNE. YOU MULTI-MILLIONAIRES SHOULD KNOW EACH OTHER.
RETIRING, I SUPPOSE. YOU'LL BUY A FINE BIG YACHT AND SETTLE DOWN TO HAVING A GOOD TIME?
NOT RIGHT AWAY, MR BLUECHIP.
LET ME TELL YOU SOMETHING ABOUT THAT. IF YOU'RE GOING TO PLAY YOU'VE GOT TO HAVE SOMEBODY TO PLAY WITH. OTHER MILLIONAIRES HAVE YACHTS OF THEIR OWN AND AREN'T GOING TO PLAY AROUND ON YOURS.
I HAVE PLENTY OF FRIENDS WHO AREN'T MILLIONAIRES.
YES BUT THEY HAVEN'T THE TIME. THE ONLY OTHER PEOPLE WHO HAVE THE TIME HAVEN'T ANY MONEY AND YOU'LL SOON GET WEARY OF FURNISHING ALL THE DOUGH FOR YOUR FUN AND THEIRS. YOU'LL FIND TOO MANY OF THAT SORT OF FRIENDS.
TAKE MY ADVICE AND TAKE YOUR PLAY IN SMALL DOSES UNTIL YOU GET USED TO IT. HAVING A GOOD TIME GETS TO BE THE HARDEST KIND OF WORK. KEEP YOUR JOB FOR RECREATION.

Dutra Finishes Second in Avalon Play

EDWARD LAWRENCE

(Catalina Island) Dec. —"Push' Em Up" Manero, 24-year-old professional of New York City, flashed a brilliant smile and some superlative golf over William Wrigley, Jr.'s island golf course this morning to win the second annual $7500 Catalina open tournament with a fifty-four-hole total of 64-63-59—186.

Maybe responsibility of handling the team has weighed on "Wolf" Peltier, but anyway, the Millionaire star has been below form. "Red" Braconier has been getting about the ice with his usual briskness but scoring no goals, while Harold Lanksbury has been a bulwark on defense but of little use on offense, and "Peaches" Headley has been a star but somewhat below his scoring form of other years.

The Tigers have a number of threats in Ganton Scott, Duke Riley, Rube Ellis and George Giroux.

Southwestern Cagers Mix With Oxy Team in Practice Game Tonight

Occidental's varsity basketball squad will engage the Southwestern quintet in the Eagle Rock gym tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the third contest of the practice season for the Tigers.

COACH ED. KIENHOLZ

The Lawyers are invading the Eagle Rock gym tonight with probably one of their strongest cage crews in many years, according to preseason reports and indications. The Tigers have somewhat proven their strength on the courts to date with a victory over the alumni and U.S.C. Dental squads in decisive style.

Coach Ed Kienholz at Oxy plans to open the tilt tonight with his newly arranged combination accomplished through several shifts on the team. Perry Seiler retains his center post, with running mates at forward of Lyle MacAllister,

Mercury Quintet Hooks Up Tonight With Trojans in Battle on L.A.A.C. Court

One of the prize early season basketball games of the season is scheduled for the Los Angeles Athletic Club gymnasium tonight when Sam Barry's Trojans from Southern California meet the L.A.A.C. Mercuries. The game starts at 8 o'clock and Charley Keppen of the club has made preparations to handle a record crowd for an early season contest.

Both coaches, Barry of U.S.C. and Twogood of the Mercuries, have primed their men for tonight's fray and both teams will be battling from the opening whistle. Twogood learned his basketball under Barry at the University of Iowa and the club mentor will be out tonight to ring up a victory over his former coach. "Rags" Wilcox, club center, also played under Barry and teamed up with Twogood to give the present Trojan coach a dangerous team in the Western Conference.

Nip McHose, the former Stanford captain and all-conference forward, is another man the Trojans will have to watch closely tonight. Against Whittier College Friday Nip scored 17 points. Curley Rariden will likely start at the other forward position with Jim De Mers, the 220-pound javelin tosser, and Herb Gage at guards.

L.A.A.C. reserves include Jones, Lewis, Hosea, O'Farrell, Brammer and Olney.

Barry's Trojans will likely line up with Jack Gardner and Bill Pierce, forwards; Frank Smith, center, and Capt. Johnny Lehners and Caldwell, guards.

JAQUES ASKED TO QUIT

BOSTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Herbert Jaques, for five terms a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, has been asked by the Massachusetts Golf Association to decline his sixth nomination, it was revealed after a meeting of the M.G.A. today.

The Massachusetts association charged that Jaques has "failed accurately to represent the sentiments of golfers in this section of the country" and claimed that he has "disqualified himself for service by violating the rule of the parent association in accepting expense money in two Lesley Cup matches."

ARMY TEAM MUST BE BENT ON BEATING CARDS THIS TIME

WEST POINT (N. Y.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Biff Jones, Army coach, will take 110 football players on the long trek west to meet Stanford at Palo Alto, the 28th inst. The players will be drawn from the varsity, scrub and plebe teams. Only members of the A squad, or varsity, will participate in the game but the scrubs and plebes will be used for practice while on the road or at Palo Alto before the game.

The Army team will leave here the 18th inst. in a special train. Coach Jones plans three workouts en route, at Galesburg, Ill., Syracuse, Kan., and Needles, Cal.

SPORTS BUSINESS BOOMS

Madison Square Garden Does Half-Million Dollars' Worth of Entertaining Over Period of 15 Days

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The sports world, at least that part ruled by Madison Square Garden, can report to President Hoover that business is booming as never before and that fear of panics in this business at least is just a laugh.

In the past two weeks when in the minds of many prosperity hung in the balance and the stock market quivered from past punishment, the box-office men at the Garden have been developing tin ears listening to the rustle of large bills and the clink of much silver. In fifteen days, only thirteen of them working days, the sports attractions at the battle palace have broken all records for receipts for that time.

Round figures show that a new record sum of $501,000 passed over the counter in two weeks during the six-day bicycle race, two fight cards and four hockey games at the Garden. Individually, the bike race set a new record and the intake at the ice skirmishes is running at least 10 per cent ahead of receipts last season. The big boxing boodles come and go with attractions.

Instead of withering like margin accounts, the six-day grind, New York's semiannual struggle against sleep, opened the 1st inst. with a rush of customers that carried through the 7th inst., and left John Chapman, czar of this fantastic mode of entertainment with $220,000 in the coffers. That started the record-breaking splurge.

The pine saucer that was wood to the carpenters but home to the riders for a whole week, was torn down in time to accommodate $24,000 worth of customers for the National League hockey game between the New York Rangers and Pittsburgh, the 8th inst., Sunday night.

On Monday night the patrons of the Christmas fund paid $92,000 to see Phil Scott win one from Otto Von Porat on a delicate foul that was billed as a heavyweight elimination contest. The money changers rested Wednesday night, but Tuesday and Thursday hockey games drew a total of $31,000.

The hall was changed back to a fight arena in time to lure $107,000 worth of patrons in for Jimmy McLarnin's sensational knockout of Ruby Goldstein Friday night. Not a dime passed through the turnstiles last night, but this evening a packed house and $27,000 in receipts greeted the Boston-New York American hockey tilt.

TOD MORGAN TO DEFEND TITLE

Boxes Benny Bass in Garden Friday Night

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Tod Morgan, Seattle holder of the junior lightweight championship, defends his title against Benny Bass in Madison Square Garden this week, but even this titular affray will have a tough time competing for public interest with the second ring start of Art (The Great) Shires, pugnacious first baseman of the Chicago White Sox.

TOD MORGAN

Shires, who knocked Dangerous Dan Daley of Cleveland kicking in a few seconds in his first professional ring bout last week, takes on George Trafton, Big Chicago pro football player, in a five-rounder at the White City Arena, Chicago, tomorrow night. Confidence comes from both camps, but Chicago fans are willing to wait for the fight itself to determine the relative merits of football and baseball as training grounds for the prize ring.

Morgan's defense of his title against Bass on Friday night, heads a rather slim schedule of shows for the Metropolitan district. Morgan, a master boxer with little or no punch, is tackling one of the most punishing punchers in the business in Bass. If the bout goes its full limit of fifteen rounds there appears to be no reason to doubt that Morgan will retain his crown, but some critics believe the slightly built title-holder will wilt under Bass' deadly body punching. GREAT SHIRES ACCUSES WILSON OF RUNNING OUT

BY CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Charles Arthur Shires, the self-confessed great man, will make his second appearance as a professional fist fighter tomorrow night, with Hack Wilson, his opponent in the proposed battle of the ages, absent from the ringside.

HACK WILSON.

Wilson notified Promoter Jim Mullen tonight he would be unable to be on hand with his notebook to see the great Shires in action, due to the pleadings of his wife to remain in Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Cub's famous center fielder decided to remain at home after William L. Veeck, president of the National League champions, called Wilson on the long-distance telephone urging him to give up the idea of fighting Shires in Chicago next month.

"Yesterday afternoon while I was out duck hunting," Wilson telephoned, "Mr. Veeck called up Mrs. Wilson and asked her to join with him in urging me not to fight. So I am not coming."

Wilson said he had not definitely decided to abandon the match, but gave evidence of weakening. He said he was unable to sleep because he was so busy counting $10,000 Promoter Mullen had offered him and wouldn't be able to sleep again tonight because Mullen had boosted his offer to $15,000.

The great Shires accused Wilson of running out on the match. He said that Wilson need have no fear of getting hurt provided he could take care of himself in the ring.

"Wilson will be alone in that ring after the fight starts," Shires said. "Nobody can help him. He will have to take care of himself. If I knock him out I promise to take good care of him by dragging him to his corner instead of leaving him lay alone in the center of the ring."

Shires will tangle with George Trafton, 225-pound center of the Chicago Bears, in one of the preliminary bouts scheduled for five rounds or less on Promoter Mullen's card of forty-four rounds of box-

FIVE NATIONAL MARKS SET AT OUTBOARD MEET

INDIO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Five national records were broken during the two-day meet of the national midwinter regatta at the Salton Sea. The meet, the third and last of the three-cornered series, was under the auspices of the Southern California Outboard Association and the Salton Sea Yacht Club and with the sanction of the American Power Boat Association.

Three of the records were made by H. G. Ferguson of the Lake Elsinor Yacht Club driving the Blue Streak boats owned by Dr. Leo Baughman of Los Angeles and built by the Elsinore Boat Works. In the C Class Division 2 Ferguson made 42.35 miles per hour; in the D class Division 2 fifteen-mile race he made 45.92 miles per hour, and in the D Class, Division 2 five-mile race 45.34 miles per hour. Crandall Comet driven by Charles Holt in the Class B Division 2 set a mark with

TROJANS LIKELY TO PLAY TOTAL OF ELEVEN GAMES

S.C. Team Will Probably Go North to Encounter Washington State in Tilt at Portland

BY BRAVEN DYER

Intercollegiate athletic moguls of the Pacific Coast Conference will gather in San Francisco today for the annual meeting of that august body. Chief business is that of making up various football schedules for the 1930 season.

Bill Hunter, director of intercollegiate athletics; Howard Jones head football coach, and Gwynn Wilson, graduate manager, left here by plane yesterday morning to represent the University of Southern California at the confab.

HOWARD JONES

Bill Spaulding, coach, and Steve Cunningham, graduate manager, of the University of California at Los Angeles, went by train to transact business for the Bruins.

DATES SETTLED

As far as the Trojans are concerned several dates are pretty well settled in advance. Here's the way the tentative schedule shapes up at this writing, subject to change without notice as the writer does not assert it to be official:

September 27—U.C.L.A. at Coliseum.
October 4—Oregon State at Coliseum.
October 11—Washington State at Portland.
October 18—Open.
October 25—Stanford at Palo Alto.
November 1—Open.
November 8—California at Coliseum.
November 15—Open.
November 22—University of Washington at Coliseum.
November 29—Idaho.
December 7—Notre Dame at Coliseum.

Taking these dates in order and dissecting them we find that the Bruins would much prefer some other date than the opening Saturday. However, Howard Jones does not intend to give U.C.L.A. a chance to knock him off between hard games, which means that the Bruins will probably have to take September 27 or leave it, although there is a possibility they might appear on October 18.

Oregon State is practically a cinch for the second Saturday. Washington State has come south

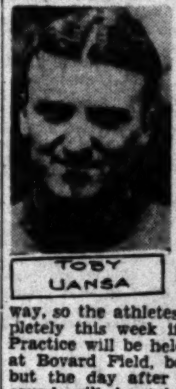
S.C. ATHLETES TO TAKE REST

No Work Until Friday; Pitt Leaves Xmas Night

BY BRAVEN DYER

Having polished off Carnegie Tech in no uncertain fashion, the Trojans are in for a few days of rest.



TOBY UANSA

The way Howard Jones's boys went after the Tartans in the second half of Saturday's game one would have thought the Trojans mistook them for emissaries of the Carnegie Foundation.

Jones has ordered no practice until Friday morning. This is vacation time from studies anyway, so the athletes can relax completely this week if they so desire. Practice will be held every morning at Bovard Field, beginning Friday, but the day after Christmas the squad will be taken to Pasadena and quartered in a Crown City hotel. After that, workouts will be held at the Rose Bowl.

The Pittsburgh team will leave the Smoky City Christmas night, coming by way of St. Louis, Dallas, El Paso and Tucson. Present plans call for Pitt's arrival in Pasadena on Monday, the 30th inst., two days before the game. The same general schedule was followed two years ago when the Panthers came west to play Stanford. Jock Sutherland's team will stay at the Huntington Hotel. Thirty men are to make the trip, but only twenty-nine of them will be available for duty, Williams, halfback, having been injured so seriously against Nebraska that he will be of no use on the gridiron.

Joey Sangor Rules Favorite to Win Over Zorilla at Olympic Tomorrow Nig

Olympic Battle Looms as Hectic Affair

Panama Indian Will Come in Today for Go

BY KAY OWE

Santiago Zorilla will come down from Soper's ranch today for a special weighing by order of the Boxing Commission. The Panamanian engages Joey Sangor at the Olympic Tuesday night in a ten-round bout.

Joey Sangor

Sangor is the favorite in spite of the fact that Zorilla won a close decision from him a little over a year ago here. Zorilla has done all his training at the mountain camp and it is reported he is having trouble doing the 131 pounds.

The Milwaukeean has done all his work at the Main-street gymnasium and is in excellent condition despite his long lay-off from the ring. Sangor has not boxed since he returned from a tour of Europe.

Zorilla and Sangor have fought three times. All were closely contested and savagely fought. Joey won the decision in the first battle. Next they boxed a no-decision contest in Milwaukee. The third went to Sangor. All three matches drew capacity.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams has plans for several matches featuring the winner with either Goldie Hess, Cecil Payne or Tod Morgan.

Hess is likely to start next week again against Baby Sal Sorio, the hard-punching Mexican who is again knocking them over in the smaller arenas.

Joe Roth has notified Eddie Mack to return here from Colorado after the holidays and be prepared to meet either Payne or Hess.

Fidel LaBarba has already started light training for his match with Ignacio Fernandez on January 14. There is a possibility that Kid Chocolate may be brought west to engage either LaBarba or Fernandez some time in 1930.

The heavyweights will be active at Jack Doyle's Club next year. Les Kennedy may meet Arthur De-Kuh and Frankie Campbell is being sought for Leo Lomski first and Paolino Uzcudun afterward.

The Olympic preliminaries Tuesday show Johnny Torres and Luis Ramos, hard-hitting Mexicans, in the semi-wind-up. Leonard Bennett and Rito Punay, Filipino, box the special. Hymie Miller and Eddie Low box one of the opening bouts.

ACE HUDKINS TO BOX IN BENEFIT TILT

Ace Hudkins will box for the first time since he fought Mickey Walker for the middleweight title when he appears on Morrie Cohan's Christmas benefit for newsboys next Thursday night.

The Hudkins bout is an exhibition. The two real fights on the card will be the Don Kennedy-Manuel Trevino and Tommy Hughes-Jimmy Lucas fights. These are two of the best naturals Cohan has had at Pasadena all year.

This is the third anniversary of the Christmas show given by the Pasadena promoter. He gives Christmas dinners to all the newsies in Pasadena.

Southeastern Teacher Team is Kicked Out

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 14. (AP) — Southeastern State Teachers' College of Durant has been suspended from the Oklahoma collegiate conference, an order issued tonight by L. Norman Duncan, conference commissioner, revealed.

Duncan's action came as the result, he said, of his investigation into reports that seventeen football players had been receiving monthly allowances from fifty business men of Durant, to enable them to remain in school and participate in college athletics.

The investigation revealed, Mr. Duncan said, that fifty business men paid $5 each, monthly, to a Durant baker, who, in turn, handed the money to another business man for payment to the seventeen athletes.

Race Champ Will Honor Mel Kenealy

Lou Meyer, king of American race drivers, will present the titular trophy to Mel Kenealy, recently crowned 1929 champion of the Southwest, next Sunday at the American Legion Speedway as one of the features of the day's activities.

Kenealy, who compiled the most sensational winning streak of any driver since Ralph De Palma, hopes to make it a big day Sunday by staging a comeback and winning the 100-lap Yuletide Sweepstakes. The Irish daredevil will tool Eddie Meyer's Redlands Special No. 6—the car he brought home third in the long-distance feature at the last meeting.

The entry list for Sunday's program will open today at the offices of A. C. Pillsbury of the A.A.A., it is announced.

short coming back and took a 4 with the three putts. Just a few minutes previously Manero had dropped a putt for a birdie 2, and right there went the ball game as Tony stepped into the van by a stroke.

Dutra missed a twelve-foot putt on the fifty-fourth hole by a bare five inches to miss tying for first place by a stroke. He finished with 65-61-61—187.

MEHLHORN COPS THIRD

"Wild William" Mehlhorn's brand-new wife must have given him a fight talk this morning, as the big Texas professional slammed out a 30-28—58 for a new course record to annex third place money of $750 with scores of 63-67-58—188. His 58 stood as a course record for only a few brief moments, however, as Frank Walsh, the brilliant young Chicago professional, playing with Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel and Horton Smith, finished last with 29-28—57, to tie for fourth place in the 189 bracket. Others who finished with 189's were Charley Guest of Los Angeles, 63-64-62; Johnny Golden of Paterson, N. J., 67-61-61, and Diegel, national P.G.A. champion, with 67-63-59.

Cards of the leaders follow:

Par (out)	4	4	3	4	4	3	4	3	3	32
Walsh	4	3	3	3	4	2	4	3	3	29
Manero	3	4	3	4	4	3	4	2	4	31
Dutra	3	3	3	5	4	2	4	4	3	31
Mehlhorn	3	4	2	4	3	3	4	3	4	30
Diegel	4	3	3	4	3	3	3	3	4	30
Par (in)	4	4	3	4	4	3	4	3	3	32	64
Walsh	4	3	3	4	3	3	3	2	3	28	57
Manero	5	3	2	3	4	3	3	2	3	28	59
Dutra	4	3	3	3	3	3	4	4	3	30	61
Mehlhorn	3	4	3	3	3	3	4	2	3	28	58
Diegel	4	4	2	3	4	3	3	3	3	29	59

Both Mehlhorn and Walsh were given additional prizes of $50 for breaking the old record. Walsh received a check for $500, while Guest, Diegel and Golden won $450 each.

"Lighthorse" Harry Cooper came in for $200 of the prize money for winding up with 65-63-62—190. Others who were awarded prizes of more than $50 were Ray Mangrum of Los Angeles, Tom Stevens of the California Country Club, Joe Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., and Wiffy Cox of Brooklyn, N. Y., who won $125 each.

The toll among the stars was terrific. Horton Smith, the defending champion, shot a 62 this morning, but didn't come within an arm's length of the "big money." Among the notables who accepted checks for a mere $50, just pin money, were Walter Hagen, Bobby Cruickshank, Densmore Shute, Billy Burke, Craig Wood, Henry Ciuci and Johnny Farrell.

FARRELL SLIPS

Farrell was in the best position to win this morning, as he was only two strokes back of Dutra at the thirty-six-hole mark. A 35 for his first round, however, put him definitely out of the running.

Fay Coleman, California's brilliant young amateur, was low among the simon pures for the second year with 68-66-65—199. Fay beat out Johnny Dawson of Chicago for first prize, a de luxe radio, by two strokes.

J. A. (Pat) Patterson, who acted in the capacity of starter, pulled the prize joke of the tournament on "The Haig," who is noted for being late at the first tee.

When it was time for Walter to tee off in the feature foursome of the day, he couldn't be located. The St. Catherine Hotel was frantically telephoned, but Walter wasn't to be found, so Pat sent Hagen's partners off as a threesome.

HAGEN LEFT

Hagen nonchalantly showed up some minutes later, and displayed considerable concern when he couldn't find either his partners nor the gallery.

Al Watrous kindly consented to score for Hagen, and after three holes "The Haig" caught up with the rest and continued on. It was the first time in history that Hagen was ever left on the tee, and gave the "pros" something to chuckle about.

Now for the aftermath. The Catalina open has taken its place as one of the finest of Southern California's midwinter tournaments. The field in this year's event far surpassed any field that has played on the Coast in past years.

It was unfortunate that the course was not in the best of condition, due to lack of water, but it will be a splendid course a year from now. Billy Bell's new nine is tricky with several beautiful golf holes.

SAN GABRIEL NEXT

Manero, one of the most consistent professionals in the metropolitan district, gets off to a fine start in the money tournaments, and he deserved to win. It was fine that he could come through, and it was altogether too bad that Dutra couldn't have won.

The big Brentwood pro played marvelous golf all week, and his putting featured his game right up until that fatal fifty-third green. Olin told us right after the tournament that the green was fast for the first time during the tournament, and that he purposely hit the ball hard as the grain of the grass was against him. It was just one of those things.

Most of the well-known professionals will be seen in action at the San Gabriel Country Club tomorrow, when they will pair with amateurs in the Mission Club's annual $1000 tournament.

GRID SCHEDULE MOGULS GATHER

for many years and would like to show the Trojans in the north. The Trojans, in turn, would like to reciprocate and therefore will probably make the trip.

The open date before meeting Stanford may be taken by Jeff Cravath's team or the Utah Aggies. Nothing definite about this, you understand, but that's the rumor.

THING OF THE PAST

Between Stanford and California will come another fill-in tilt and it will be welcome. No more facing the Cards and Bears on successive Saturdays as was the case this season. All you have to do is compare Troy's showing against Washington State and Carnegie Tech with that against California to realize that a little rest now and then is a good thing, even for tough young football players. The Trojans had some pepper and zipper in these games. They had none against California.

Following the November 8 date with the Bears will come another lighter opponent, maybe Montana. Washington may be switched from November 22 to Thanksgiving Day, in which case the 29th will be an open date. But U.C.L.A. has generally had Thanksgiving Day and will probably fight to retain it.

Idaho will be slipped in the schedule some place, maybe after Washington, and then comes the intersectional contest with Notre Dame.

As regards St. Mary's the facts are these: There have been some rather bombastic, determined blasts aimed at Southern California in an effort to "force the Gaels down our throats," as Trojan officials say. From talking with S.C. heads I gather that St. Mary's will not be forced down any Trojan windpipes. And I also gather that St. Mary's chances of getting on the schedule are none too rosy. Not because the Trojans do not want to play St. Mary's, but mainly because persons other than those officially representing the Moraga institution have seen fit to make it their business to try to force Southern California into playing the Gaels. That's the dope going the rounds.

RESPECTS GAELS

It may be slightly off color. Perhaps St. Mary's will get on the schedule after all. But one thing is sure—Southern California will play St. Mary's at a time when the Trojans are fit and ready to put forth their best efforts. Howard Jones has plenty of respect for Slip Madigan and his players and there won't be any monkey business when the Trojans go into action against the Gaels.

Madigan has most of his men returning next fall, all but two regulars, I believe, and one of them has been outplayed repeatedly this year by his sub. Jones loses his entire line, plus Saunders and Edelson. Which, if you can read the handwriting on the wall, means that Southern California will not play St. Mary's in the opening game of the year. Not while Howard Jones retains his senses.

The Bruins plan to encounter Fresno State, Caltech and Pomona in nonconference engagements and will also probably take on St. Mary's again. Games among conference foes will feature U.C.L.A. against S.C., Stanford and Oregon. There is a strong likelihood of Spaulding lining up a tilt with Washington, inasmuch as he and Jimmy Phelan, new Husky mentor, are good friends from old days in the Big Nine. Montana will probably appear on the schedule again.

Vines Shines in Net Play

Ellsworth Vines, favored to win the 18-year-old division in the annual junior invitational tennis tournament held on the Santa Monica municipal courts, came through his two matches yesterday without dropping a game. P. Escudero and J. Hawes both met defeat at the Pasadena tennis star's hands in love sets. Vines later teamed with Jay Cohn to down Millman and Miller by a 7-5, 6-3 count. In the only girls' match scheduled Helen Marlowe defeated Grace Fetherolf when the latter forfeited the match.

Yesterday's results:

18-year-old boys' singles—E. Vines defeated P. Escudero, 6-0, 6-0; E. Vines defeated J. Hawes, 6-0, 6-0; M. Rosenstein defeated H. Rindell, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3; L. Patterson defeated R. Hecht, 6-1, 6-3; B. Seward defeated F. Dodge, 6-0, 6-0; B. Seward defeated E. Post, 6-0, 6-1.

18-year-old girls' singles—Helen Marlowe defeated Grace Fetherolf, forfeit.

15-year-old boys' singles—D. Dessau defeated D. Kasl, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3; S. Levy defeated B. Pirie, 6-2, 6-3; M. Wood defeated S. Levy, 6-1, 9-7; H. Roberts defeated M. Cambianica, 6-0, 6-0; M. Woodside defeated F. Robinson, 6-1, 6-2.

13-year-old boys' singles—C. Smith defeated D. Douglas, 7-5, 6-2; N. Russell defeated C. Smith, 6-0, 6-0.

15-year-old boys' doubles—Georgi and Ware defeated Wood and Miller, 6-3, 6-2; De Motte and Dessau defeated Russell and Underwood, 6-4, 6-4.

18-year-old boys' doubles—Vines and Cohn defeated Miller and Millman, 7-5, 6-3; Miller and Millman defeated Rosenstein and Paulloo, 6-0, 6-0.

Today's matches are as follows:

BY SOL METZGER

The swing for the pitch to the green is the same as is used for the drive. True, it is shorter and more compact; but the same basic principles are involved.

Many golfers are confused by the term "Take the club straight back from the ball." They attempt to move the clubhead on a straight line from it, on the line extended from the flag through the ball. This is not the idea intended to be conveyed.

Bobby Cruickshank might well say he takes his iron straight back from the ball. In reality, though, he does not mean quite that. The idea to be conveyed by this expression is that you take the clubhead back under control of a straight left arm and without bending the wrists. That brings it back on an arc inside the line of flight, as the illustration shows.

The first game at Loyola Field turned out to be one of the biggest surprises of the entire year when the Spanish-Americans trimmed the L.A.A.C. Mercuries, 4 to 0. The Mercuries were favored to win by a good-sized score, but the flashy Spanish-Americans started out fast and it was not long before Manager Torres's men had piled up a score of 4 to 0.

Over at Tournament Park, Pasadena, the Sons of St. George turned in one of the most surprising upsets of the entire season by trimming the Vikings, 2 to 1. Wright scored both goals for the Sons. Before yesterday's game the Hollywood club held but a point lead over the Norsemen, but now the lead is increased to 3 points.

In the first game at Pasadena the Magyars did the expected by defeating Richfield, 10 goals to 4. Espinosa scored four times for the winners, while Bell, just returned from an injury, tallied twice.

CASANOVA BATTLES LONG ON SATURDAY

Sandy Garrison Casanova, with three straight knockouts to his credit will tackle Charley Long, dangerous negro puncher, in next Saturday night's main event at the Main-street Athletic Club. Long holds two wins over Joe Peregrina, Mexican ace.

Bandit Romero walloped his way to a six-round decision over Sailor Ora Smith, Pacific Fleet welterweight, at the Main-street club last Saturday night. Joe Borola, Mexican lightweight ace, kayoed Johnny Chrismas in the fourth round of the semi-wind-up.

GOLF PROS TO INVADE PASADENA

Hagen and Diegel to Lead Band in 72-Hole Drive for Bourne Gold Friday

Craig Wood and Horton Smith, professional youngsters, busy battling for commanding shares of West Coast golfing gold, will stage their next major engagement in the second annual Pasadena open championship, scheduled for Brookside, the Rose City's municipal layout in the Arroyo Seco, next Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

A.K. BOURNE

A. K. Bourne, millionaire Pasadena sportsman, sponsor of the first Pasadena affair last January, recently ordered Jack Malley, Annandale professional, to double the purse for this year's event, so Walter Hagen, Leo Diegel, et al, will golf seventy-two holes for shares in the $4000 purse.

Smith and Wood have been staging a battle royal for leading honors since the paid-to-play band invaded the West Coast six weeks ago. Wood nosed out Smith for first money in the Honolulu open. Smith reversed the order by slipping home under Wood to claim first prize in the Berkeley tournament. Smith staged a game battle before losing to Wood on the thirty-seventh hole in the last P.G.A. championship, held at Hillcrest two weeks ago. Smith expects to even the count at Pasadena but Wood, remembering the friendly attitude of the all-championship layout last winter, hopes to again finish in front.

Tommy Armour, rapidly recovering from a lingering illness, Al Espinosa, Bobby Cruickshank, Bill Mehlhorn, Johnny Farrell and all other members of the paid-to-play clan have signed for the Pasadena affair. The Pasadena tournament will be the first competitive stand of the season for the visiting professionals and record galleries are expected to witness the affair. Only amateurs with handicap ratings not exceeding four will be eligible for the Pasadena championship. Entries must be in by Wednesday. Golfers are advised to phone Aaron Vice, Wakefield 2813, or Max Turner, Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce, Colorado 6136, at once.

All entrants will qualify eighteen holes Friday. The field will then be cut to the 100 lowest scores and all ties. This group will medal eighteen holes Saturday for the low sixty scorers and ties will again be paired for the final thirty-six hole money drive next Sunday. There will be no entry fee charged contestants.

TROJAN ELEVEN TO RES

fornia in action Saturday. Saunders was here two years ago with Pitt. Prior to that he was at the University of Iowa and made the trip to Los Angeles in 1925 when the Hawkeyes dropped an 18-to-0 game to Southern California. So he's no newcomer to these parts.

Saunders was impressed by Troy's punch and great reserve power. The thing that struck him broadside, however, was the weather.

"It's too hot for our boys," was his comment, "and I hate to think that it may be that warm when they play New Year's Day."

It will be recalled that Sutherland, following his 7-to-6 loss to Stanford two years ago, while not alibing his defeat, stated that the weather was certainly a handicap. At that time he suggested that it would be a fairer test if two western or two eastern teams were pitted against each other in the annual Rose Bowl classic.

Charles Bowser, assistant to Sutherland at Pittsburgh, scouted Saturday's game. He is to remain on the ground here and help Saunders and W. D. Harrison, director of athletics for Pitt, with the many details connected with the game. Bowser spent yesterday going over his notes and diagrams of Troy's plays and will dispatch 'em to Sutherland post haste.

Bowser formerly played at Pitt. He was center on the team which came west and encountered Stanford in the north during the season.

KETTLEMAN OIL LULL FORECAST

Operations Expected to Lag for Several Months

Revival Viewed as Hinging on Curtailment Program

Most Projects Stop Drilling at Producing Sand

Although it has two steady producers and a long list of drilling projects, the Kettleman Hills field may be expected to remain rather quiet until the operating companies and the government lift field restrictions to enable completion of other wells when more oil is needed. This may not happen for another eighteen months.

At present the drilling reports of the various companies indicate that wells are being suspended at the top of the oil sand, or after the operators have cored a few feet of the sand. This is true of operations by the Milham Exploration Company, George F. Getty, Inc., Pacific Western Oil Company, Petroleum Securities Company and the Standard and Shell oil companies.

As to actual production, the only bright spot in the opinion of operators is the performance of Milham's Elliott No. 1 discovery well and the Continental Oil Company's Elliott No. 12-8 close by. The first mentioned has been producing since October, 1928. Continental's producer since coming in August last, has yielded 544,000 barrels of high gravity oil. Its daily output is approximately 6400 barrels along with 150,000 cubic feet of gas, from which 120,000 gallons of casinghead gasoline is extracted daily.

The General Petroleum Corporation ran into a bit of hard luck drilling on Sec. 20, 22-18. Its Ochsner No. 2 there, is fishing for four-inch drill pipe at 6400 feet with bottom of the hole at 7116 feet. General's Ochsner No. 2 on Sec. 26, 22-18, fished for months, and although it never got all the obstruction out, it has been able to drill to 7320 feet and is preparing to cement somewhat higher and suspend operations to prevent completion of the well at this time. This job blew in a few months ago and put out about 2000 barrels of high gravity oil per day until it was killed to deepen.

The Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation's Ferguson No. 1 drilled to 7450 feet and experienced a little difficulty when the drill pipe parted at 1000 feet and the remainder dropped to the bottom of the hole. After recovering the drill pipe, the drill stem froze at 6300 feet and the crew yesterday was circulating oil to free it.

The Standard Oil Company's No. [illegible] on Sec. 11, 22-17, which was killed [illegible] months ago with bottom at 6673 feet after having been on production, is preparing to resume drilling into the oil sand. The No. 8 on Sec. 1, 23-17, is preparing to run [illegible] and three-quarter-inch oil string with bottom at 7108 feet. Standard's No. 21 on Sec. 33, 21-17 is fishing for recovery of a section of nine-inch casing with bottom at 6610 feet. Its No. 38, on Sec. 25, 21-17, the No. 58 on Sec. 25, 21-16, and No. 87 on Sec. 27, 21-17, are all below 7000 feet and drilling ahead.

The Pacific Western Oil Company's No. 27, on Sec. 34, 21-17, has run four and three-quarter-inch casing to 6300 feet with bottom of the hole at 7423 feet and suspended at the oil sand.

On Sec. 35, 24-19, on the south dome, the Ohio Oil Company's [illegible] No. 1 is drilling below 7700 feet and is the deepest test at Kettleman Hills at present. It proved to be a hot-water producer higher in the hole two months ago and was killed to deepen.

MAY RESTORE GAS TO SANDS

Conservation Question Still Facing Operators

Resort to Repressuring Held Under Consideration

Matter Will Come to Climax as Winter Demand Eases

Oil companies operating in the Ventura-avenue field may invest several hundred thousand dollars in repressuring plants here during the next two or three months, it was learned yesterday from head offices of one of the operating companies.

In the natural gas conservation campaign at Ventura, it was pointed out, the companies have reduced the total daily production from about 280,000,000 cubic feet to 160,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The winter demands for gas now practically equal the output, under the curtailment plan, with the result that the law prohibiting unreasonable gas wastage is being observed. The cutting down of the gas waste has, incidentally, cut the oil output from 65,000 to 50,000 barrels a day, so the problem is solved, the petroleum men say.

The relief, however, may be only temporary, for they face the knowledge that when spring comes and the demand for gas declines their troubles again will arise, and may be aggravated by the completion of new wells early in the year.

With the law demanding an elimination of gas waste, only one recourse then is left, the operators s ·, and that is to conserve the gas by pumping it back into subterranean storage. It is this course which is now being studiously considered.

Experiments in repressuring now are being made in the avenue field by one company. If these are successful it is said that gigantic repressuring plants will be built in the field, creating a big new department of operations and calling for an investment of tremendous sums.

MONTERREY OIL OUTPUT DECREASING

Production for 1929 Far Below Previous Years and Slump Will Continue

MONTERREY (Mex.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—In a report received here from the Petroleum Bureau of the Mexican government it is stated that the total production of crude oil in this country during the year 1929, will be approximately 45,000,000 barrels. During the first ten months of the year, the production was 36,000,000 barrels, valued at $38,131,355.

Production for 1929 shows an enormous decrease as compared with former years. Prospects are not regarded as favorable for any revival of the industry during the coming year. On the contrary, there probably will be a continuation of the decrease of production for some time to come.

"From January 1, to November 10, ninety-seven producing wells were drilled, which now have a total daily output of 91,871 barrels," the report says. "There were 306 permits to drill issued. Since 1901, there has been a total of 1,552,103,701 barrels of crude taken out of the ground in Mexico, with a total value of $1,402,838,584."

Chalk Mountain Operates Mill

FALLON (Nev.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The improved mill of the Chalk Mountain Silver Lead Company, near Fallon, has been placed in commission, and it is officially said to be saving 85 per cent of the silver and lead.

With one shift employed the plant is milling twenty-five tons of ore daily. Production is soon to be raised to fifty tons. The management states that ore development continues to be satisfactory, with considerable material of fairly high grade exposed.

Sale of Zenda Gold Announced

The Zenda Gold property in the Calico district of San Bernardino county has been taken over by a syndicate led by Dave Morgan of the United Verde Extension and T. H. Collins of the Cornelia and Arizona.

Report is made that 100 feet of ore in depth, for 400 feet along the vein and over thirty feet wide is sampling above forty ounces silver and from 5 to 25 per cent copper. The stock is to be listed on the New York curb.

New Operator Enters Field

MARICOPA, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) J. Parker Thompson has added his name to the list of Maricopa Flat operators and signified his intention to drill a well on Section 7, 11-23.

The well will be known as the Richardson No. 1 and will be located 300 feet north and 360 feet east from center line of the section. This well was formerly located by the B. R. & T. Oil Company.

FORTUNE OF YATES FAMILY DIMS FABLE OF MAGIC LAMP

AUSTIN (Tex.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Judging by statistics concerning oil production in the last three years from the Yates field in Texas it appears that the Ira Yates family, which owns the acreage, already has profited to the extent of approximately 10,000,000 barrels of oil.

It has frequently been reported that Ira Yates, a pioneer cattleman at McCamey, Tex., was about to lose his vast cattle range via the bank-mortgage route when a wildcat well on a remote piece of the property blew in and disappointed his creditors.

Since then the field has put out 61,171,885 barrels of petroleum, and engineers have estimated the ultimate recovery as being approximately 650,000,000 barrels. It now puts out 100,000 barrels daily. Most of the Texas leases pay the land owner one-sixth royalty.

START OF SMELTER DUE SOON

Sheldon Copper Pushing Plans for Operations at Humboldt Plant

MAYER (Ariz.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—At Humboldt preparations are continuing for blowing-in the smelter next month. The major part of the ore to be treated will be from the Walker gulch mines of the Sheldon Copper Company, which now owns the smelter and which has been making large improvements and alterations, but there is expectation of a considerable ore supply from the mines of the Mayer, Bradshaw Basin and Cleator sections.

The Walker station of the Arizona Power Company is being doubled in capacity, to care for extra power needs of the Sheldon operations, in the mine and mill, and the Santa Fe is rebuilding its eight-mile spur to the near end of the Poland tunnel, through which Sheldon ore will come from for treatment here.

Celora Stoddard of Phoenix, owner of the Copper Mountain property at Stoddard, has given a lease to Brazell & Anderson, who have started extensive work.

High-grade ore is reported developed on the Double O Metals Company's property, near Humbolt, with samples running above $100 a ton.

At a cost approximating $180,000, a 100-ton cyanide plant and seventy-five-ton mill, as well as new shaft and compressor equipment are being installed on the Cleator property of the International Consolidated Mining Company.

Standard and Shell Drilling Ahead at Taft

TAFT, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The Standard Oil Company and the Shell Oil Company are continuing their deep-test wells in the semi-proved area of the Midway. The Texas Company also has a wildcat in that area which may become a deep test.

Standard's Mascot prospect, on Sec. 26, 32-23, has passed 7900 feet and is drilling through hard sand at that depth. The nine-inch casing, last pipe set in the hole, is cemented at 6350 feet.

Shell Oil's Perris No. 1A, on Sec. 15, 32-23, is coring ahead with the bit going through hard sand at 7550 feet.

On Sec. 21, 31-22, Texas Company is drilling at 2790 feet. Hard sand formation predominates.

Hunt Rewarded for Placer Bed

The Paramount Mining Corporation, W. H. Hunter, general manager, and E. A. Stent, president, has proven up the ancient gravel channel in the Onion Valley section of Plumas county which it has been seeking for thirteen years.

The channel is 400 feet wide, and a pay gravel five feet thick is averaging $7 a car. Two tunnels were driven from opposite sides of the channel, 1800 and 1760 feet in length. Men are now on the property blocking out working breasts ready for production next spring.

New Maricopa Well Spuds In

MARICOPA, Dec. 15. (Exclusive) The Hancock Oil Company has spudded in another well on its Maricopa Flat property and is drilling ahead below 700 feet. Its Wallace No. 4, on Sec. 8, 11-23, is in the sandy formation found near surface.

Wallace No. 3, the only other job the company has in the field, is below 2000 feet and coring shell formation.

OUTLOOK AT DENN MINE PROMISING

Recent Strike in Shaft Said to Show Large Body of 6 Per Cent Copper

BISBEE (Ariz.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—A recent strike in the Denn shaft operations of the Shattuck-Denn Mining Company was of a fifteen-foot vein of ore sampling 6 per cent copper, this according to a statement by President L. C. Shattuck. He says the vein is one for which the company has been running for some time past and that it was found just where they expected to pick it up.

The full extent of the enrichment has not been demonstrated, but the ore body is declared one that will insure profitable operation of the property for years to come. It lies mainly in the company's Ophir claim. Diamond drilling is reported to have demonstrated its continuance below the 2000-foot level, on which drifting now is being pushed.

The last monthly report for the Denn showed production of 1,247,716 pounds of copper, 27,043 ounces of silver and 749 ounces of gold. In the same period the Shattuck produced 66,690 pounds copper. The company is shipping its maximum contract of ore to the Calumet and Arizona smelter at Douglas.

Exploitation of Huge Potential Oil Area Looms

California oil companies interested in the development of new producing areas are being invited by Carlos Alarcon, resident of Lower California Oil Fields, Ltd., to participate in the exploration of 5,000,000 acres on the Lower California peninsula, beginning at a point forty miles south of San Diego.

The company which Mr. Alarcon heads holds this gigantic concession and intends, according to an official announcement, to begin operations on several structures in the near future, but cannot carry on exploratory work on the numerous structures which have been mapped, so it is offering local operators a chance to do some interesting wildcatting next year and perhaps participate in some rich production.

TEST ABANDONED IN SACRAMENTO SECTION

After finding on analysis that the hard material encountered at 1150 feet proved to be granite, the Sacramento Petroleum Company has abandoned the test well in Southeastern Sacramento county. Efforts are now being made to start another well to the west of the formation.

GENII MINING IN PAY GRAVEL

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The Genii Mining Company reports that rich gravel has been encountered in the shaft sunk from its tunnel near Oroville. The shaft apparently has tapped the rich Mammoth channel, and is stated to be showing fine gravel carrying considerable gold. It was sunk from the end of the drainage tunnel, which failed to tap the channel at the depth originally planned. The Mammoth channel long ranked among the premier producers of placer gold in California.

Arrangements are being completed for heavy production from the noted Howland Flat placers in Sierra county. A system of flumes and ditches has been completed, a battery of powerful hydraulic monitors installed, and heavy production is scheduled to commence early in the spring.

Paramount Mining Corporation, said to be largely controlled by Los Angeles interests, has located the ancient river channel in the Onion Valley district of Plumas county after a search lasting thirteen years. The channel, developed by two tunnels, is described as 400 feet wide, with a five-foot pay streak sampling around $7 per carload of gravel. Blocking out of material is proceeding steadily, preparatory to steady production with arrival of spring.

Auriferous gravel running $30 per cubic yard has been struck in the Masonia mine near Angels Camp, according to the management. The channel is from thirty-five to forty feet wide, and is believed by the company to be the extension of the noted Central Hill deposit, which produced an immense amount of gold in the early years of Calaveras county. Installation of a crushing plant is proceeding, with steady production scheduled to start shortly.

The old Eagle Bird mine above Washington, operated a few years ago by Los Angeles people, has passed into the hands of Portland (Or.) capitalists. Development of new territory will be prosecuted during the winter season.

KERN ADDS FOUR NEW PRODUCERS

Two of Number Located on Maricopa Flat

One in Front District; Other at Bakersfield

Oak-Street Well Rejuvenated for 146 Barrels

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Four new oil wells have been added to the producing list in Kern county during the past fortnight. Two of these are on the Maricopa Flat and one each at Kern Front and Oak street.

North American Oil Consolidated's Sunset No. 5 on Section 9, 11-23, is being swabbed after developing initial production. No test as to quantity of output has yet been made. The well was completed at 3346 feet.

This company's Kerckhoff No. 5 on Section 8, 11-23, another Flat project, is doing more than 2200 barrels of clean oil daily, with 400 pounds pressure in the casing and 100 pounds on the tubing. The well is 3376 feet deep.

The Chanslor-Canfield-Midway Oil Company has completed its No. 29 well on Section 23, 28-27, in the Kern Front area with an initial output of 200 barrels daily. The well was completed at a depth of 2233 feet.

The Standard Oil Company's Oak street well, near the city limits of Bakersfield, on Section 24, 27-28, has been rejuvenated and is back on production with a yield of 146 barrels of oil and twelve barrels of water. Original depth of the hole was 4777 feet. It was plugged back to several intermediate depths and finally put on production at 4400 feet. Standard is now getting ready to drill its second well in the area

Meteor Crater Operations at Temporary Halt

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Declaration is made that the death of D. M. Barringer of Philadelphia will have only temporary effect on the operations of the Meteor Crater Exploration and Mining Company, east of this city.

Owing to a heavy flow of water in the limestone on the crater edge, sinking of the new shaft had to be suspended at about 800 feet of depth. Heavy pumps arebeing secured and the work is to be carried down to about 1500 feet, where, it is planned, there will be cross-cutting to get under a great body of nickel-iron believed to have been the bulk of a meteor that penetrated deep under the plain.

Oil Securities Stakes Well at Round Mountain

ROUND MOUNTAIN, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—The Petroleum Securities Company has staked location for its Gardiner No. 1 well on Sec. 26, 27-28, in this district. Grading for the site is about completed. The well will be located 662 feet north and 219 feet west from the south quarter corner of the section.

The Shell company has a new well rigged up on Sec. 29, 28-29, but has not spudded in. Two other wells on Sec. 19, 28-29, and Sec. 29, 28-29, are making good progress since being spudded in ten days ago. The Jewell No. 3-2 has reached 1500 feet and Jewett No. 2-10 is nearing 2000 feet.

KINGMAN TO ENTERTAIN MINING MEN

Some Time in February Set for Convention of Arizona Operators

KINGMAN (Ariz.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—In Kingman, probably during February, is to be held a State-wide meeting of Arizona mining men, called by the Mohave county Chamber of Commerce. It is expected the gathering will have especial interest in local mining and in the metals for which Northwestern Arizona especially is famed.

At Oatman, the big shaft of the Tom Reed is going down at the rate of four feet or more a day, headed for a new 1500-foot level. No water of importance has developed, the flow apparently being controlled by a pump in the winze at 950 feet depth. A production level is being opened from the winze, tapping several ore shoots of milling value.

C. R. Wallack of Los Angeles now controls the White Horse property, at Mineral Park, with A. Swan in charge at the mine. A new shaft is being sunk and a better road is being constructed from the Mineral Park highway.

A new shaft is to be sunk to 100 feet depth by the United Republic Mining Company, its collar to be behind the mill, expediting and cheapening delivery of ore from the upper workings. New ore bins are to be constructed at the 100 level.

HARBOR OIL EXPORTS AT HIGH LEVEL

Total Figures for Year to 1st Inst. Reported at 102,741,083 Barrels

With one month yet to go, the total movement of petroleum products from Los Angeles Harbor for the year to the 1st inst. was 102,741,083 barrels. For the year from December 1, 1928, to December 1, 1929, the total is 116,819,542 barrels.

November rolled up a total of 10,100,475 barrels, compared with 10,955,75[illegible] barrels for October. During November gasoline led the list with 3,564,227 barrels, fuel oil was next with 3,483,991 barrels and crude was in third place with 1,486,494 barrels.

Diesel-oil shipments climbed to 834,755 barrels, distillate amounted to 395,858 barrels and kerosene shipments totaled 333,950 barrels. The movement of lubricating oil, during the month, totaled 1200 barrels.

Hopes High for Ore Rate Slash

Strong hope is expressed that rail rates to Los Angeles Harbor on Jerome (Ariz.) bullion soon will be lowered, giving Jerome much better ability to compete in the world's copper markets.

The fight is one that has been fought for years by James S. Douglas of United Verde extension, who declares that Los Angeles Harbor is the logical shipping point for Northern Arizona smelters.

NEW ACTIVITY IN KERN AREA TOLD

Five Drilling Permits Given Out During Week

Seven Shutoff Tests and One Deepening Job Noted

Two Maricopa Flat Projects Already Under Way

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Permits for drilling five new oil wells in Kern county were issued during the past week. Seven tests for water shut-off were reported and one deepening job was begun. Four abandonments were reported.

Two new wells were spudded in on Maricopa Flat. The Hancock Oil Company started its No. 3 on Sec. 8, 11-23, and the Standard Oil Company put a drilling crew to work on its No. 5 on Sec. 9, 11-23.

Another new Standard project is the No. 3 well on Sec. 24, 29-27, near the northwesterly city limits of Bakersfield, where the company recently redrilled its discovery well and put it back on production.

The General Petroleum Corporation has taken out a permit for its Wetmore No. 14 well in the Kern River field, on Sec. 14, 28-27, and the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Company has begun its No. 30 on Sec. 23, 28-27 in the same area.

Successful tests for water shut-off include the Republic Petroleum Company's No. 36, on Sec. 7, 32-23, Midway; Signal Oil and Gas Company's No. 4 on Sec. 8, 11-23; and Barnsdall Oil Company's No. 1-A, on Sec. 17, 11-23, Sunset; Ozena Oil Company Kendon No. 2, on Sec. 27, 29-21, McKittrick; Elmer Oil Company's No. 1, on Sec. 2, 29-20; Temblor Hills; Petroleum Securities Company's No. 19, on Sec. 21, 27-28, Mt. Poso, and Agey Petroleum Corporation's No. 1, on Sec. 28, 27-27, Kern River.

The redrilling job is the Betts Petroleum Company's Sturgeon No. 1, on Sec. 25, 28-27, Kern River.

Abandonments were Standard Oil Company's No. 118, on Sec. 1, 32-23, and Texas Company's No. 6, on Sec. 16, 32-24, Midway; Richfield Oil Company No. 5, on Sec. 36, 12-24, Sunset, and Shell Oil Company No. 1, on Sec. 5, 29-27, Fruitvale.

Douglas Tells Situation of United Verde

JEROME (Ariz.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—That United Verde Extension is making money in production of 5,000,000 pounds of copper a month, sold at 18 cents, is the manner in which President James S. Douglas sums up the corporation's activities.

He says that the corporation has given up enough of its South African holdings to turn to the Newmont interests control of the O'Kiep property. Newmont now has 51 per cent and U.V.X. and American Metals have 24½ per cent each. The option on the mines has not yet been exercised, he states.

There has been surrender of the U.V.X. option on the Mt. Nickel property in the Sudbury district of Ontario, Can., diamond drilling having failed to demonstrate the presence of expected ore. The company is in remarkable financial condition, with about $5,000,000 in government bonds and $500,000 in cash.

ANGELENOS BUY MINING CLAIMS

Two Likely Estates Taken in Cosgrove Field

Plan Under Way for Opening on Extensive Scale

Antelope Springs Mercury in New Cinnabar Find

RENO (Nev.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive) The promising Ace High and Valley View claims in the new Cosgrove silver-lead district, approximately eighteen miles from Hawthorne, have been purchased by R. E. Bivens and Floyd Jones of Los Angeles and arrangements are being made for comprehensive mining. The property lies near the original Cosgrove holdings, where rich ore is reported as being exposed at a depth of forty feet.

Good ore is exposed on the surface of both claims, with indications encouraging for development of productive ore bodies. Scores of claims have been located in the district during the past three weeks, and several promising discoveries have been reported. Shipments have begun from the Cosgrove property.

The Antelope Springs Mercury Mines, Inc., of Los Angeles, reports the development of a rich vein of cinnabar in a cross-cut from the 100-foot tunnel. The ore body was encountered on the hanging wall and is said by Manager J. W. Hall to be thirty inches wide, with some of the material sampling 50 per cent quicksilver. The ledge is said to be widening. Development of the main ledge of furnace ore, ranging in width from two to six feet, continues to be satisfactory. Installation of a three-drill compressor and other equipment is proceeding.

Extensive deposits of brucite three miles from Downeyville and twenty-eight miles northeast of Luning, the nearest railroad point, have been acquired by H. A. Seveinghaus of Phoenix, Ariz., general manager of the Apache Trail Gold Mining Company. The deposits range from 600 to 1800 feet long and vary from 200 to 300 feet in width.

Trenching indicates that the ore bodies extend for fully a mile. A plant is to be installed and heavy shipments of crude ore and refined products are to be shipped to California points. The principal mineral is magnesium, extensively used in the chemical, oil and building industries.

Showing of Oil in Lea Wildcat Holds Interest

ARTESIA (N. M.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Recent showings obtained in a wildcat well in southeastern Lea county has again focused the attention of the oil industry upon that area. The Anna Meyers No. 1 of the Continental Oil Company on Sec. 17, 21-36, is reported to be flowing fifty barrels hourly from a lime break at 4001 feet.

Previous to the oil showing the well had been making gas at the rate of 77,000,000 feet per day.

The Meyers No. 1 is about four- and one-half miles southeast of the Lea district and is regarded as an important well in the northwest trend.

RARE MINERALS, METALLURGY, CHEMISTRY

Qualitative analysis will be given in this department of The Times to correspondents on ores and minerals free of charge. Make each sample of an ounce or so in weight. Be sure to write a letter stating what tests are desired and give the approximate locality from which samples were taken. Do not pulverize the specimens. Give your name and address on paper wrapped with samples.

Three Samples

INDEPENDENCE, Nov. 25.—Question: I am today sending you under separate cover three samples which I wish you would classify for me and tell through In the Earth department of The Times if they are of any commercial value. X.

Answer: The specimens were received in bad condition and the wrappers bursted open. Probable No. 1 (a yellowish conglomerate) is stained with limonite; lime carbonate present, and tungsten absent. One other pinkish and white is a siliceous, altered rock carrying lime carbonate and no tungsten. The third sample, forming a paste when mixed with water, is of the halloysite group of minerals, in part. It appears to be a mixture of aluminum silicate; it is not bentonite, and was not analyzed for magnesia. Rather a doubtful showing for commercial values.

Impure Copper

SAWTELLE, Nov. 25.—Q.: Please test inclosed samples for gold and silver. This from Nevada. Thanking you. S.

A.: The specimen is rather peculiar ore. It carries no native gold, and the entire metallic mixture was decomposed when placed in nitric acid. Not tested for silver.

Four Samples

YUCCA (Ariz.) Nov. 26.—Q.: Specimen No. 1—Is this the grade of calcite crystal used for lenses, etc? Is No. 2 agate? No. 3, please classify; this is from a volcanic formation and concentrates on bedrock in the gulches like iron. Please classify No. 4, also from volcanic formation. K.

A.: Sample No. 1 is partly transparent calcite (Iceland spar) also known as crystallized calcite. It is not the high-grade spar used in optical instruments, etc., but like named spar it is doubly refractive; that is to say: If a piece of the spar is placed on a printed or written word at certain angles two lines, or two words appear when viewed through the spar. It should meet the demand for doubly refractive minerals as used in the laboratories of colleges, universities, and other schools of learning, but it will not bring the price of the A-1 quality above referred to. No. 2 is a yellowish, and somewhat waxy, variety of oxygenated hydrocarbon and when pure it is known as ironite. It occurs near Ione, Cal. No. 3 is a thumb specimen of bitumen. No. 4 consists of quartz chips. Free gold absent.

Dolomite of Value

COLTON, Nov. 26.—Q.: Am sending you under separate cover a sample of dolomite for analysis to be answered in your In the Earth column. The locality is in San Bernardino county, four miles from Hinkley, on the Santa Fe Railroad. The estimated tonnage down to level is 25,000,000 tons. I would like, in your analysis and report, to have you state what such rock is most valuable for, and for what purpose it is chiefly used. K.

A.: All that is known to the writer of your deposit is obtained from one sample, and that is high-grade dolomite.

The United States Geological Survey publications state that dolomite is a carbonate of calcium and magnesium—with a natural or artificial admixture of clay it is burned to form Rosendale hydraulic cement, for which purpose it should be low in iron and sulphur, (like your sample.) It is used for many of the same purposes as ordinary limestone, burned and unburned. As a flux, the silica present should not exceed 5 per cent. Magnesium lime made of it is especially adapted for making magnesium salts and for use in manufacture of paper by the sulphite process. It is used as a source of carbonic acid, for which purpose it is, if anything, more valuable than ordinary limestone. Large quantities are used as building stone.

Free Gold Absent

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Q.: Under separate cover please find two samples of rock from the vicinity of Lone Pine, Cal., which I would like to have determined for what they carry. The rotten granite sample is from a narrow vein only two inches wide; do you think it is promising enough to do much prospecting on it? Thanking you for this and past favors, with the best wishes of the season. X.

A.: The rotten granite (gneiss) sample runs low in copper and the copper minerals present are as traces of chalcopyrite, traces of malachite, and traces of azurite; also pyrite traces. No. 2 is ferruginous quartz mixed with some iron silicate (rosin rock of the mining boys in the hills.) The red matter is hematite, and cinnabar is absent. Rather a poor showing.

A Granular Mixture

GLENDALE, Nov. 28.—Q.: The sample inclosed herewith was scooped up from a large deposit located in Northern Idaho. The main deposit is slightly caked from pressure, but falls into powder at the slightest touch. Please advise me what it is, and whether or not it has any commercial value? D.

A.: The sample runs high in silica. The spectroscope shows soda-lime more or less present. The material at hand was rather small in quantity for satisfactory tests. Other samples from different places at the locality should be obtained, and then quantitatively analyzed.

Uranium Absent

SAN BERNADINO, Nov. 30.—Q.: Please classify what mineral the grass-green stain denotes on the inclosed sample and answer through "In the Earth" column. The sample came from Aravatz Mountains, near Death Valley. Thanking you for your courtesy. S.

A.: The specimen is not radioactive, and the greenish stains are not of any uranium mineral. It seems to be a mixture of garnetyte and altered iron silicate. The greenish matter appears to be in traces of azurite and copper silicate, which, together, should yield approximately 2.50 per cent copper. Slight zinc reaction, and not tested for gold or silver.

FISHERIES PLAN TO FIGHT BILL

State-wide Trade Association Formation Reported

Sportsmen's Club Measure Scheduled for Attack

Bay City Leader in Industry Here on Organization

BY WAYNE B. CAVE

A State-wide association of commercial fishery interests is reported forming to resist the initiative measure now sponsored by 100 sportsmen's clubs which would give the State Fish and Game Commission full plenary powers over all fisheries.

Bryce B. Florence, San Francisco fish dealer and the man who five years ago resurrected the Fish Exchange, a State-maintained marketing agency, and put it on a nonpolitical basis, arrived yesterday to confer with Southland fishery leaders. He will appear before the San Pedro Chamber of Commerce at noon today to outline the situation. Apparently packers, wholesalers and fishermen throughout the State will be asked to join the association.

Florence declared commercial fisheries apparently must fight for their very existence, "else they will be legislated into bankruptcy by ill-considered and possibly vengeful laws and regulations."

GREAT INDUSTRY

"Commercial fisheries," he continued, "comprise one of the State's greatest industries yet because they have no organization they have been almost impotent, in the matter of resisting the harassing bills which flood each session of the Legislature.

"As a result the industry has been unable to plan ahead with the confidence enjoyed by other lines of endeavor. Yet it is just as necessary for fishing interests to plan, build and lay out policies running years into the future as for other kinds of enterprises. And it is mighty disconcerting, once we get our plans well under way, to see them upset by nefarious legislation.

"But how much more dangerous it would be for the commission, instead of the Legislature, to be able to tell us how to run our business.

EXAMPLE CITED

"A year ago the commission sought to forbid canneries to use any sardine overage for reduction. We convinced the Legislature as to the folly of such a course. Had the bill passed half the sardine canneries would be idle today.

"Yet the sportsmen wish to invest the commission with just such powers by this initiative. It will not hurt the sportsmen; they are not concerned with the many millions of dollars invested. But commercial fishermen and packers have large sums at stake and many thousands of employees depend on them for livelihood.

"How long would the citrus industry, cotton growers or petroleum producers tolerate such tampering? We feel the same way about it, and I think we shall be found resenting it with all the power at our united command.

"It is interesting to note that despite our great commercial fisheries, no commercial fisherman is on the Fish and Game Commission. All are merely sportsmen, with only a sportsman's viewpoint, and obviously with limited knowledge of our business."

BLIND-END ROAD OPENING NOW IN USE

Relief has come at last to the blind-end highway which for so many years has failed satisfactorily to serve the passenger terminals on Pier A, Wilmington. The relief is in the form of a paved link 545 feet long running from near the blind end westward to connect with the paved road running back to Wilmington along the east side of the West Basin.

The link was constructed at the instance of Burt Edwards, port manager, to help relieve the chronic congestion of trucks and autos of both passengers and longshoremen at the terminals of the Los Angeles Steamship Company and the Pacific Steamship Company.

Liberal parking space now is afforded by following the new link across the car tracks to the east side of West Basin.

George T. Darragh, formerly holding executive posts with the Outer Harbor Dock and Wharf Company and other local shipping concerns, has returned to the maritime field after an absence of three years due to illness. His new business card reads "contracting freight agent, Christenson-Hammond Line." His office is at 2019 South Alameda street, Los Angeles.

J. J. Coughlin assumes his new duties today as assistant to Ray Duncan, acting terminal superintendent for the Luckenbach lines here. Coughlin has been in the company's operating department at Portland, Or., several years.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 15. (AP)—Work of removing machinery from the wooden hull of the steamer Annette Rolph was complete today at the Oakland yards. The machinery includes boilers, 1000-horsepower propulsion engines, auxiliaries and tanks. These have been sold. Disposition of the hull has not been announced.

The old lumber schooner Centralia, until recently operated by the Humboldt Redwood Lumber Company, has been sold to Southern California interests to act as a tender to fish boats in Cedros Island waters. She was put under the flag of Panama and left today for Los Angeles, where she will proceed to the fishing grounds.

The steamer Unimak, which left here Thursday for Crescent City after being forced back for repairs by the storm a few days before, ran into more bad weather and lost a 25,000-gallon oil tank which had been lashed to her deck. The lashings broke and the huge tank, property of the Shell Oil Company, went overboard. When last seen it was headed for Tennessee Cove. Salvage workers were unable to find the tank, which is believed to have been cast up on the beach.

SEATTLE, Dec. 15.—The motorship Prince Rupert City, one of eight new carriers either built or under construction for the Reardon Smith Line, will arrive on the Sound next Wednesday to lift a cargo of canned goods, lumber and general cargo, after which she will shift to Vancouver to load grain.

The ship is in the Pacific Coast-Old World trade and is on her maiden voyage. She will proceed to Tacoma first, shifting here on Friday. The next new ship of the line scheduled to call at Sound ports is the Fresno City, due early in January.

PORTLAND (Or.) Dec. 15.—For the first ten months of 1929 exports cleared from the customs districts of Oregon for the Union of South Africa amounted to $45,171, which James E. Peebles, manager of the Portland bureau of the United States Department of Commerce, said is an encouraging indication that this customs district is regaining lost ground in a $1,000,000 market.

Only a partial check with shippers disclosed, he said, that declared shipments from Oregon to South Africa are less than one-half the total sales actually made, but sent via Atlantic steamship lines.

Oregon's best year out of the last ten was in 1920, Peebles said, when it reached a total export trade with South Africa valued at $393,098. The substantial movement of wheat from this district accounted for the 1920 record figure. In addition to wheat, the Merchants' Exchange records showed shipments of shingles, doors, machinery and hops to South Africa markets and the regular item of lumber.

Pacific Coast exports to South Africa for the first ten months of this year amounted to $1,133,057, compared with $1,181,329 for 1928, Peebles's report indicates.

TACOMA, Dec. 15.—Arrivals here today included the intercoastal steamers William A. McKenney and Dorothy Cahill from New York, to load several hundred thousand feet of lumber apiece as return cargo.

Coming from London and other United Kingdom ports, the motorship Pacific Exporter is anchored here awaiting a berth at the Tacoma smelter. She will load copper as return cargo, as well as general freight offerings at other local terminals.

PLACER TO OPEN NEAR LOVELOCK

Development on Broad Scale Reported Pending

Nevada Gold Dome Property Shipping Good Ore

Group of Battle Mountain Mines Shut Down

LOVELOCK (Nev.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Preparations for mining extensive placer deposits in the Placeritos field, forty-five miles north of Lovelock, have been completed by the Nevada-Mont Mining Company. A reservoir for water storage has been completed, 4000 feet of pipe laid from reservoir to sluices, and a powerful engine installed. With present equipment the management expects to work 200 yards of gravel each eight-hour shift. The company owns 4000 acres, and states that the material carries excellent gold averages.

Shipments of splendid gold ore are going from the Nevada Gold Dome mine at McCoy, south of Battle Mountain, to custom plants. The ore body has been developed on the 50, 100 and 150-foot levels, and value of shipments is said to range from $45 to $100 per ton. Stopes have been opened in faces of ore twelve to twenty feet wide.

Losses sustained in the New York stock market are given as the cause for suspension of mining by several companies near Battle Mountain, Eureka, Tonopah and other camps. Low silver prices have also forced the closing of numerous producers, and many companies are seeking to recoup losses by acquisition of properties in the gold districts of California.

EX-SENATOR OPPOSED TO ROOT PLAN

Pepper Letter Declares Against Modification of Court Reservations

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Strong opposition to modification of the Senate's reservation of entry into the World Court, as provided in the revised court protocol, was voiced by George Wharton Pepper, a former Republican Senator from Pennsylvania, in a letter to Chairman Borah of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, made public here today.

As a member of the Foreign Relations Committee, Pepper was one of the advocates for adherence to the World Court with reservations, when it was voted by the Senate three years ago. However, in reference to the Elihu Root formula providing a modification of the Senate's controversial fifth reservation, Pepper states:

"I have as yet heard no good reason for modifying the fifth Senate reservation."

Du Pont Urges Popular Vote on Liquor Law

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Urging a popular vote on the liquor question, Pierre S. Du Pont, chairman of the board of E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co., tonight told a radio audience that "Any attempt to thwart the people, in the expression of their will, through the means provided by our Constitution, is not only contrary to a republican form of government, but is unjust and wrong in principle."

Du Pont said that "the absolute prohibitions of the Eighteenth Amendment never received popular approval and, though the law may be feared to some respect, it is not generally respected."

He urged State option in regulating the liquor traffic.

Butler Named for Enforcer by Brookhart

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15. (AP)—Senator Brookhart of Iowa today suggested that Brig.-Gen. Smedley Butler of the Marine Corps be placed in charge of prohibition enforcement in Washington, and said that if given proper support he would "enforce the law to the fullest extent." He spoke under the auspices of the National United Committee for Law Enforcement.

The creation of a separate department of public welfare to enforce the prohibition law was suggested by Clinton N. Howard, chairman of the committee, as "the only solution" to the problem of making effective the dry laws.

Patrol Fires on Liquor Runner

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Dec. 15. (AP)—Coast Guard patrol boat CG-197 today fired 200 shots at a rumrunner which was nearing the American shore at Woodlaw, on Lake Erie, near this city, but the liquor boat escaped into Canadian waters after it had thrown its cargo overboard in order to increase its speed.

So far as known, none of the shots took effect.

VESSELS IN COLLISION IN FOG AT TEXAS PORT

GALVESTON (Tex.) Dec. 15. (AP) Proceeding in a thick fog, the Norwegian motor ship Topeka, sailing with cotton for France, crashed into the steamship Lake Treba as she was entering Galveston Channel this morning and damaged her severely. The Lake Treba's plating was rammed open wide at the forecastle and down below her water line in the collision. The Topeka was damaged slightly, but proceeded to sea. The Lake Treba entered Bolivar Roads and anchored.

ORTIZ RUBIO ENROLLED AS PATIENT

Mexican President-elect Enters Johns Hopkins for Recuperation

BALTIMORE, Dec. 5. (AP)—Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect of Mexico, was entered as a patient tonight at Johns Hopkins Hospital for a physical examination and rest and recuperation from a year's intensive efforts culminating in his election.

A last-minute decision resulted in Senora Ortiz Rubio also entering the hospital as a patient. It was reported that she also will have a general examination and is at the hospital partly to be near her husband. They were given adjoining rooms.

While they are at the hospital three young children, Pascual, 8 years of age; Eugene, 6, and Ofelia, 9, will be in the care of a governess in the suite of rooms at the Hotel Belvedere, reserved for the President-elect's party. Two other sons, students at Gettysburg Academy, Gettysburg, Pa., will round out the family circle by coming here for a Christmas visit.

When the party arrived at the Pennsylvania station a group of distinguished officials mingled in the crowd waiting to welcome the President-elect. Col. Carroll B. Hodges, military aide to President Hoover, was the first to welcome the visitor as he appeared on the platform of his private car, greeting him in the name of the President, who will give a State dinner in honor of President-elect Ortiz Rubio at the White House the day after Christmas.

RAIL LINE PROSPECTS STIR

Permits to Build Into Lea County, New Mexico, Held Spur to Oil Development in Area

ARTESIA (N. M.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Future oil development in Southeastern New Mexico was given a substantial boost during the past week by the announcement that the Interstate Commerce Commission had granted two railroads permission to build into Lea county and to Lovington, the county seat.

The application of both the Texas and Pacific and the Santa Fe have been pending before the Commerce Commission for more than a year. The recent decision gave the Texas and Pacific the right to build a line west from the Texas and New Mexico line to the county seat, tapping the oil district near Hobbs.

The application of the Santa Fe to build into Lovington from Seagraves, Tex., was granted, but permission was refused this road to extend a branch line to the oil area in the southeastern part of the county. Up to this time Lea county, one of the largest in the State, has been without a railroad.

ITS PRODUCTION MOUNTING

Despite the fact that many new oil areas in Lea county have been handicapped by lack of pipe-line facilities and a number of the important wells have had to be shut in, stored crude in the county continues to increase. According to recent estimates the accumulated production in this county is over 600,000 barrels.

The State No. 1 well of Cranfill & Reynolds on Sec. 2, 21-33, in the Lea district continues to lead all other wells in the southeastern part of the State with an accumulated production of over 150,000 barrels. In the same district the Lynch No. 1 of the Texas Production Company is second with an accumulated production of 106,000 barrels. In the Jal sector of southeastern Lea county, on Sec. 6, 26-37, the Shepherd No. 1 of the Texas Production Company has a stored output of 60,000 barrels and the Joyner No. 1 of the Skelly Oil Company on Sec. 26, 25-36, has run a total of 56,000 barrels. None of these wells have been allowed to produce to capacity.

DISTRICT GAINING

The November pipe-line runs of the Lea district indicate that the three wells which have been connected with the pipe line will show a substantial increase in December over the preceding month. The State No. 1 of Cranfill & Reynolds produced during November 52,000 barrels and Lynch No. 1 of the Texas Production Company put out 28,500 barrels, running the total output of the district to 6000 barrels more than October, with the wells producing 80 to 85 per cent of their capacity. Three other wells in that area are expected to be completed within the next ten days.

Four new locations recently made add interest to the Lea county and western Eddy county fields. In Eddy county, Henderson & Dexter have made a location a mile and a half west of the discovery well in the Jackson area, the location being on Sec. 23, 17-30. In Lea county the new locations are Lindley No. 3-A of the Humble Oil and Refining Company on Sec. 13, 25-36; the State No. 3 of the Texas Pacific Coal and Oil Company on Sec. 21, 23-36; the State No. 1-D of Cranfill & Reynolds on Sec. 3, 21-33.

ANGELENOS SECOND IN AUDITIONS

National Winners Named in Atwater-Kent Radio Song Competition

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—Miss Genevieve I. Rowe, 21 years of age, of Wooster, O., and Edward Kane, 22, of Atlanta, Ga., tonight won the two first prizes in the third national radio audition sponsored by the Atwater Kent Foundation. Each prize consists of $5000, a gold decoration and two years' conservatory tuition.

The winners were selected from among ten young persons who sang tonight in the finals of the competition. The ten had been selected as the result of local, State and geographical district competitions which began last May. The final audition tonight was broadcast over a coast-to-coast network of stations.

Second prizes of $3000 and one year's tuition each were awarded to Miss Floy Hamlin, 22, of Los Angeles, and Calvin Hendricks, 25, also of Los Angeles.

Miss Josephine Antoine, 20, of Boulder, Colo., and John Jameson, 20, of Denver, were awarded third prizes, consisting of $2000 cash and one year's tuition each.

Fourth prizes of $1500 cash and one year's tuition each went to Miss Francis Tortbrich, 23, of New Orleans, and Charles E. Carlile, 25, of Central Falls, R. I. Fifth prizes of $1000 and one year's tuition were awarded to Miss Agnes L. Skillin, 23, of Springvale, Me., and Carlyle Bennett, 24, of Chicago.

Grundy Called G.O.P. Leader in Pennsylvania

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—United States Senator Grundy was acclaimed by Gov. Fisher today as the leader of the Republican party in Pennsylvania.

This declaration came from the Governor while Senator Grundy was receiving congratulations on his appointment and pledges of support in the primary election next May from a group of influential Pennsylvania political leaders, representing nearly every section of the commonwealth.

The Governor predicted a harmonious primary with all elements unitedly supporting a ticket to be built around the man so recently designated by the Chief Executive to fill the vacancy in the Senate caused by the rejection of William S. Vare.

Religious Honor Award Goes to New York Man

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The Christian Herald Association announced today that its second annual award for distinguished religious service will be made to Fred B. Smith, moderator of the National Council of Congregational Churches and a lay evangelist of White Plains, N. Y. Presentation will be made here Saturday at a dinner to be attended by Senator Borah and Will H. Hays.

The announcement said that Smith will get the award because he "provided a bulwark of support to the prohibition law" and because "of his part in negotiations looking toward a merger of the Congregational and Christian churches."

W. H. Vanderbilt to be Married

NEW YORK, Dec. 15. (AP)—The engagement of Miss Anne G. Colby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Colby of Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., to William H. Vanderbilt of New York and Newport, R. I., will be announced tomorrow by Miss Colby's parents. Vanderbilt is the son of the late Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and is fifth in the direct line of descent from Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Wildcat Well May Open New Oil Territory

McCAMEY (Tex.) Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Flowing by heads, the wildcat well of the Deep Rock Oil Company in Andrews county has prospects of becoming a good producer. The oil is coming from lime formation at 4345 feet. Situated adjacent to the well is a block of 294,000 acres of land owned by the University of Texas.

The well is north and east of the Hendrick pool in Winkler county and if it opens up a new pool there will ensue much drilling activity in the area still further north, particularly in Gaines and Winkler counties, it is expected.

New Producer at Poso Creek

POSO STATION, Dec. 15. (Exclusive)—Vedder Brothers' first attempt to get production at Poso Creek has netted them a steady fifty-barrel producer. It is Johnson No. 1, on Sec. 28, 26-28.

Indications are that the Vedders intend to drill other wells in the field. Bottom of their first project was found at 1525 feet.

DAVIS APPROVED BY GRAND JURY

Foreman De Garmo Reveals Forthcoming Report

Police Department to be Given Commendation

Wehn's Attitude on Question Said to be Neutral

Commendation of Police Chief Davis and of the present police administration as a whole, recommendation of a police training school and a favorable attitude toward the [illegible] of city and county [illegible] will, among other conclusions [illegible] measures, feature the forthcoming annual grand jury report for 1929, it was revealed yesterday by Grand Jury Foreman De Garmo.

Preparation of the annual report is under way, De Garmo said, and the meeting tomorrow morning of the inquisitorial body is expected to dispose of all pending [illegible] with completion of the report scheduled for the jury's meeting next Friday, following which a final meeting will be conducted on the 20th inst.

WEHN NEUTRAL

Practically the entire panel of the grand jury is impressed favorably with Chief Davis and his administration, the grand jury foreman said he believes, adding that the public is entitled to know the jury's attitude in this respect. In the matter of voting in this particular instance, E. T. Wehn, president appointee to the Police Commission, probably will remain neutral, he said. De Garmo said he [illegible] up Wehn's status since his appointment with Dist.-Atty.

It became known some time ago that the grand jury was considering recommending the resumption of the police training school, as well as the establishment of a school for county officers.

FEW BAD SPOTS

During the incumbency of the present grand jury a number of policemen have been indicted for crimes, but this should be regarded only as evidence of a few bad spots in the department, satisfactory as a whole, De Garmo said.

According to present arrangements, the new 1930 grand jury probably will be selected from a number of names submitted by various judges and sworn in by January 11, next.

The present grand jury has been presided over by Superior Judges [illegible] and Doran, with the District Attorney's office represented by [illegible] Dist.-Atty. Hammon.

Artist Has Ups and Downs---Via Elevator

Anthony Dorn at Post

Anthony Dorn of 1755 West Twenty-fourth street, one of the elevator operators employed at the City Hall, yesterday visited Glenn M. Tindall, supervisor of music for the Playground and Recreation Department, and urged the formation of a City Hall orchestra from talent available among the employees.

Tindall was somewhat surprised at the interest shown by Dorn in music and asked him to write out his qualifications on the subject. Dorn set down the following:

"Attended high school in Vienna and two semesters of philosophy at the University of Vienna. (He was born in Vienna, 1888.)

"Studied seven years at the Vienna Conservatory of Music, subjects being the science of harmony, general knowledge of all instruments, music dictation, arranging history of music, composition, directing, singing, etc.

"Show leader and musical director in New York from 1914 to 1923 for J. Schubert, Weber & Friedlander, and Victor Herbert.

"Music director for the films 'The Covered Wagon' and 'The Big Parade.'

"Music director for Kolb & Dill's production 'Two Wise Fools.'

"Manuscript work for Al Jolson's 'Singing Fool.'"

Should a City Hall orchestra be formed, it is expected that Dorn will be tendered the leadership.

Dorn has been working as elevator man for the city for one and one-half years. He explained that the reason he is doing this work instead of directing is that his "cash gave out" and he "doesn't know the ropes in musical circles here."

REBUILDING COSTS MOUNT

The City Council has approved a report of the Finance Committee recommending that $540.84 additional be appropriated for furnishing the remodeled Councilmen's offices. The total cost of rebuilding two floors of the Council's suite to provide further seclusion for the Councilmen has run well over $10,000.

WARNERS PLAN NEW EXPANSION

Additions to Theater Chain Will Run Into Millions

Buildings to be Erected Here and in Near-by Towns

Maurice Silver Engaged as Director of Circuit

A theater building program which will give Los Angeles and surrounding communities new houses for talking pictures and which involves an expenditure of several million dollars was announced yesterday by Jack L. Warner, vice-president of Warner Brothers. The communities besides Los Angeles affected by the expansion program are Hollywood, Beverly Hills, San Pedro, Huntington Park, Santa Monica and possibly several others.

Plans for the additions to the already-established theater chain were formulated by Warner following conferences of six weeks in New York with Harry M. Warner, president of the company. The chain is to be known as the Warner Brothers' Pacific States Theaters, Warner said.

DIRECTOR OF CHAIN

The chain will be operated under direction of Maurice Silver, who accompanied Warner from the East. Silver was for fifteen years in charge of the Mark Strand Theaters, a chain of 150 houses in greater New York and New England.

Principal among the new houses to be erected are a large first-run theater in Los Angeles and a second in Hollywood. The latter will be similar to the one planned for Los Angeles and will involve an expenditure of $5,000,000 to seat 4500. It is possible, it was said, that the company will construct a new long-run two-a-day house on Hollywood Boulevard, across the street from its present Hollywood theater. The sites under consideration for the new theaters were not disclosed in yesterday's announcement.

START OF EXPANSION

The signing of Silver signifies the active beginning of expansion which has its nucleus in Warner Brothers' Hollywood Theater, Warners Brothers' Downtown, Warner Brothers' Fresno, Whittier and the Forum.

Warner said yesterday the exact figures for the program are not now available. All the new houses will be of most modern construction, especially built for the exhibition of Vitaphone talking pictures of which Warner Brothers are the pioneers. The chain will show Warner Brothers and First National pictures.

Utilities Board Will Confer on Crossing Signals

As the result of a request by the Automobile Club of Southern California for the installation of a wigwag signal at the crossing of Sepulveda Boulevard in San Fernando Valley by the Southern Pacific coast line, the Board of Public Utilities is to confer with City Attorney Werner on the apportionment of the costs of this and other wigwags required at other crossings in the valley.

The same question came up last April before the board at the request of the City Engineer's Department. It was recommended at that time that all freight cars standing on the siding adjacent to this Sepulveda Boulevard crossing should remain back at least 100 feet in either direction, to give a clear view to motorists.

Trial of this plan is said to have proved it to be unsatisfactory and the board favors the adoption of a wigwag system at the crossing. Conferences with the railroad hitherto have resulted in a satisfactory adjustment of the costs, and this procedure may be followed again.

CANYON ROAD PLANS ABANDONED BY CITY

City Engineer Shaw has advised the City Council that plans for the construction of a new road leading up out of Santa Monica Canyon, providing a more direct route between the mesa and Wilshire Boulevard have been abandoned, due to a doubt of its feasibility.

LEAGUE EXPULSION DENIED

Church-Drama Organization Episode Involving Milliken and Hays Clarified

The Los Angeles office of the Motion-Picture Producers and Distributors of America yesterday received a lengthy statement by wire from Carl E. Milliken, former Governor of Maine and secretary of the organization, in which he brands as misinformation the announcement contained in dispatches from New York last week that he and Will H. Hays, president, have but recently been dropped from the Church and Drama League of America.

They were not summarily dropped at a recent meeting, Milliken says; they merely were not re-elected at the regular annual meeting. And this meeting, he points out, was held early in 1929.

The situation has been clarified, according to the secretary's telegram, through two mediums—a formal resolution adopted by the executive committee of the motion-picture commission of the Federal Council of Churches and a statement by Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Church and Drama League of America.

BOARD INDORSED

The asserted misstatements, Milliken declares, originated through the disappointment of one man who, personally and on behalf of organizations he represented or asserted himself to represent, has been a persistent applicant to the motion-picture industry for funds it could not supply.

"The Church and Drama League at its annual meeting early in the year decided not to re-elect on its board any of the direct representatives of the various forms of drama, including motion pictures," Milliken's statement sets forth. "This followed the line of our earnest original recommendation and, frankly, relieved Mr. Hays and myself from the embarrassment of having to decline further service on the board. We continue our respect for the board of directors of the league, our indorsement of its general purpose and our good wishes for its

SEVEN NEW OIL WELLS FLOW IN DAY

Santa Fe Springs Field Offers New Conservation Problem to Industry

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Skyrocketing to a new production peak for the year, the Santa Fe Springs oil field yesterday handed the industry a fresh conservation problem by completing seven new wells between dawn and dusk for a combined daily output of 32,300 barrels—an average of 4614 barrels per well.

They all came in from the lower Clarke sand at depths between 7500 and 8100 feet, some producing from all three Clarke sands. The field has completed nineteen new wells in the Clarke zone in fifteen days for a combined daily production of 71,600 barrels—an average of about 3770 barrels a well.

Umpire Paul Grimm, who is charged with the duty of holding the production at Santa Fe Springs down to 150,000 barrels a day, states that if all the wells in the field were permitted to flow normally today the daily output would be 316,522 barrels, which indicates that the operators will have to pinch back oil this week at the rate of 166,522 barrels a day.

And the worst may be yet to come, it is asserted, for there are in the neighborhood of 100 other drilling projects headed for this same producing zone and due to be completed by February 15. To round out yesterday with a little pyrotechnic display the field staged a brisk fire on the O'Connell lease of the Universal Consolidated Oil Company, which burned up a tank and licked up the oil in the sump hole, but was quickly controlled.

The wells completed yesterday are: Union Oil Company's Bell No. 38, at 8000 feet, for 7500 barrels; Union's Howard No. 9, at 7585 feet, for 6500 barrels; George F. Getty's Mitchell No. 228, at 7985 feet, for 2000 barrels; Getty's Nordstrom No. 39, at 8118 feet, for 6300 barrels; General Petroleum Corporation's Santa Fe No. 179-G, at 8070 feet, for 6200 barrels; Santa Fe Springs Oil Company's Brunson No. 1, at 8020 feet, for 1700 barrels, and H. R. Macmillan's Ratliffe No. 2, at 8000 feet, for 2100 barrels.

HONOR FOR GARLAND

He will speak on the "Activities of the California State Chamber of Commerce." William May Garland will be guest of honor.

FIRST FLYING WING TESTED

All-Metal Plane Lacking Fuselage Surpasses Hopes of Builder in Secret Desert Flight

The first flying wing in the world—the ultimate goal of airplane designers since man learned to fly—has been constructed at the United Airport in Burbank by the Northrup Aircraft Company and has been flown successfully.

Although the all-metal plane, lacking the usual fuselage, was constructed behind barred doors at the Northrup plant, it was learned last night that the ship was test flown by Edward A. Bellande over the natural smooth testing surface of Dry Lake in the Mojave Desert.

Primarily experimental, the plane surpassed the expectations of its designer and builder, John K. Northrup, it is reported in local aviation circles.

Great secrecy surrounded all the tests and construction and the plane remains guarded at the Northrup hangar, visitors not being allowed in the plant. It is expected that Northrup soon will make formal announcement of the ship's performance and plans for its further development.

LARGER ONES PLANNED

It is understood that the Northrup organization, a subsidiary of United Aircraft and Transportation Corporation, one of the largest aviation organizations in the world, plans to increase the size of the present plane and ultimately produce giant flying wing transports here.

Reports in the aviation world indicate that a flying wing-type plane is under construction in Germany, but the local ship is the first of its kind known actually to fly.

The local ship consists simply of a single all-metal wing with the control group attached to the back of the wing by two rods. The center of the thirty-foot wing is thickened to make room for the inclosed ninety-horsepower Cirrus motor, the pilot's compartment and fuel tanks.

PROPELLER PUSHES

The single propeller, turned on a shaft running back from the motor, is practically flush with the trailing edge of the wing behind the pilot. It is a pusher type.

Three wheels, all under the wing in triangular formation, constitute the landing gear. The usual tail skid is missing and the ship takes off and lands in actual flying position. Flyers who know of the secret tests said that Bellande reported this landing assembly makes the plane surprisingly easy to land and that the plane handles well in the air.

Its top speed is not known, but aeronautical engineers agree that the single-wing plane cuts down resistance approximately 40 per cent from the usual plane of the same size.

Besides its possibility of tremen-

EX-TROJAN CO-ED WINS ODE AWARD

FLOY BERNICE PALMER

Winning the honor of being named "poet laureate" of the fiftieth anniversary celebration of the University of Southern California, Floy Bernice Palmer has been awarded first place in a competition for a semicentennial ode, according to announcement of the chairman of the judges, Dr. Allison Gaw, head of the department of English language and literature at S. C.

Miss Palmer's ode-poem will be chanted by a chorus of Trojan students during the semicentennial celebration in June, 1930.

The young poetess was graduated from the University of Southern California last June with high honors. She is a Phi Beta Kappa, a member o Alpha Chi Alpha, honorary journalism sorority, and of Phi Mu, social sorority. While attending college she conducted a column headed "Modern Delphi" in the Daily Trojan. She also was a member of the Amazons, and of Mortar Board, national senior co-ed honorary organization denoting high scholarship attainment, worthy contribution to campus activities, splendid character traits, and individual achievement. Christmas Sentiments of Third and Fourth Graders Show Appreciation of Holiday Spirit as Viewed from Many Juvenile Angles

If there is a shortage of Christmas carols in Los Angeles this year it certainly won't be the fault of children attending the Dayton Heights grammar school.

Pupils of the third and fourth grades, whose ages range from 8 to 10 years, have been busy for weeks at the task of turning out Christmas greeting cards and the supply is ample to spread yuletide cheer all over the city.

Not only do they write the verses but, in many instances, draw the accompanying illustration as well. In other instances poet and artist collaborate. The work, according to the teachers, is bringing to light a host of unsuspected talent since the idea was suggested by one of the pupils whose self-illustrated poem started the whole school to making greeting cards.

Here is how an 8-year-old boy in the third grade feels about it:

Toys! Toys!
  Hear them, boys!
Toys! Toys!
  See those boys

Now consider this one in which the fourth-grade bard displays a speculative turn of mind:

Toys! Toys! In the shop!
How do you like to be a Christmas present
With that jolly man
  To take you down that chimney?

An 8-year-old Japanese pupil of the third grade, evidently of the

MOTOR CRASHES FATAL TO THREE

Four Others Near Death From Injuries

One Killed Instantly as Cars Collide

Driver Found Crushed in Auto Wreckage

Two were killed and four others received injuries which may prove fatal as the result of traffic mishaps yesterday. A third died as the result of injuries suffered on the 11th inst.

Joseph W. Murray, 27 years of age, whose address was not learned, was killed instantly when the automobile in which he was a passenger collided with another car at Kern and Hubbard streets, Belvedere Gardens. He was riding with A. C. Blecker of 2420 Wilson Way Wilmar. Blecker suffered minor injuries. The other machine, according to a police report, was driven by Pedro Marino of 233 North Mednick street. He was not held.

CRUSHED IN WRECKAGE

Identified as Juan Subirus, about 44, no address known, the body of a motorist was found crushed in the wreckage of his car on Van Nuys Boulevard near Canterbury Road. Police, called to the scene by passing motorists, found that Subirus had driven his car off the road and into a row of trees at an apparently high rate of speed.

John E. Sandford, a male nurse employed at St. Vincent's Hospital, died there yesterday as a result of injuries suffered in an automobile collision on the 11th inst. The accident occurred at Alvarado and Miramar streets, when Sandford's car smashed into another machine driven, according to police, by Edward S. Jones of 2124 East Glen Oaks street, Glendale. Sandford was a resident of Altadena.

Struck by an automobile truck, Mrs. A. Reynolds, 57, of 1141 South Bronson avenue, suffered a crushed chest, possible internal injuries, fractures of the collarbone and right leg, and shock. She was given emergency treatment at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital and then sent to General Hospital. Her condition was reported critical.

The truck, according to police, was driven by Francis Moline whose address was not obtained. The accident occurred at Pico Boulevard and Bronson avenue.

TWO WOMEN INJURED

Mrs. Emma Nordick, 45 years of age, 4515 Eleventh avenue, probably was fatally injured, when struck by an automobile driven by Everett V. Clark of San Marino, at Fiftieth and Angeles Mesa Drive yesterday afternoon. At the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital it was found she had a fractured skull and a broken shoulder. She was unconscious at a late hour last night.

Mrs. Susie Kendrick, 85 years of age, 225 Realtor Road, probably was fatally injured when the machine in which she was riding with her nephew, Dr. C. S. Woods, collided with another machine at Huntington Drive and Lock street. She received a fractured skull and a broken arm and is not expected to recover. The other machine was driven by C. W. Coulter, 3745 Figueroa street.

STUDENT INJURED

Paul K. Alberts, 21, University of Southern California student, of 1135 East Washington avenue, Santa Ana, suffered crushing of both legs when he was hit by a Los Angeles Railway street car at Vermont avenue and Monroe street. After first-aid treatment at the Receiving Hospital he was sent to the California Lutheran Hospital. Shock may cause his death, police surgeons state.

PASADENA CITY DIRECTOR NARROWLY MISSES DEATH

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 15.—Irving S. Monroe, one of Pasadena's City Directors, last night missed death by a narrow margin, when his automobile got out of control while he was driving on Walnut street, bumped over a patch of rough terrain and landed on the railway tracks directly in the path of the approaching Santa Fe Chief. With the train a scant 300 yards away, Monroe jumped from the car and made a desperate effort to push it clear of the rails. In so doing he slipped and fell, suffering severe lacerations of the legs, and leaped to safety just as the train struck the automobile. The car was only partly demolished, due to the slow

HOTEL HUNTINGTON ROBBED

Armed Pair Take $800 From Cash Box and Escape; Night Clerk Near Death From Gag

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Dec. 15.—Two armed but unmasked bandits early today invaded the lobby of the Hotel Huntington and after binding Robert Gleason, night clerk, and gagging him so that he only narrowly escaped death by suffocation, rifled the cash drawer and escaped in an automobile with $800. The robbery occurred at 4:15 a.m.

The robbers made a cursory inspection of the hotel's heavy steel safe, but apparently fearful of approaching daylight, abandoned it and fled, content with the plunder obtained from the cash drawer. Detective Lieutenants O'Rourke and Mansell report that no clew to the robbers' identity has been unearthed.

Due to a nasal stoppage Gleason, night clerk at the hotel for the last seven years, breathes with great difficulty through his nose, so it was a matter of life and death for him to obtain help immediately when a square foot of torn sheet was stuffed into his mouth.

"The warned me to lie still for five minutes after gagging me, but no one was around and I knew it would be good-by for me if I didn't get that gag out before that time, so I started crawling toward the telephone switchboard about twenty feet away," Gleason related.

While his head reeled for lack of breath, the clerk painfully wormed his way to a low iron railing near the switchboard which he was able to grasp with his bound hands and use to pull himself into a chair. On the verge of losing consciousness, he then pivoted about in the chair with his back to the switchboard, and after considerable fumbling inserted a switch plug in the board. With his hands still bound behind him, he dialed "operator" and mumbled into the telephone mouthpiece before collapsing to the floor.

The telephone operator, Mrs. Alice Roval, was unable to under-

by Harry Carr

IT IS to be hoped that the crack-up of William Fox as a film magnate does not stop his plan to establish theaters where nothing but news reel film is shown.

That was a singularly interesting and important idea. An idea, however, that involves a good deal more brains than is shown at present in the presentation of news on the screen.

THE WOMAN'S STANDPOINT

The supremest conviction in the hearts of news reel editors is that the feminine heart has an insatiable appetite for pictures of young babies and fashions in furs. This same delusion—that there is such a thing as a "woman's viewpoint"—used to encumber the minds of book publishers. They ladled out sweet syrup for young ladies—until they found that girls want blood and gore—crooks and pirates.

AN OPPORTUNITY

Talking pictures could revolutionize luncheon clubs—if the Rotarians would substitute screens and men of international standing as speakers instead of some of the terrible oratorical noises to which they now listen.

ORATORY

In my time I have probably listened to 25,000 dinner speeches. Of that number I have probably heard—well, I want to be charitable and optimistic—probably three speeches worth hearing. But even they weren't so much. On the whole, the worst of the 25,000 were delivered with great fervor by me.

HAVE A HEART

When invited to make a speech—don't. And thereby gain merit in heaven. If you really had anything to say, you would have said it long ago in some other way.

OLYMPIAN SNARLS

One of the most interesting books of the season is the life of that strange, violent, embittered literary genius, Ambrose Bierce—by Carey McWilliams, a young lawyer of Los Angeles.

Ambrose Bierce was a vindictive, passionate old man who scowled and yelled at trembling world. But when he condescended to thunder, the result never seemed quite to justify the Olympian storm clouds.

RESIGNATION

If it is never going to rain again and we are all to wither up and become dried and tough and stringy like "jerky," I can only hope that they don't hang me up on the same nail with one of the radio preachers. His desiccated larynx would still continue to rattle around somehow or other.

Police Block Reds' Parade

Plans for a Communists' parade which, police were informed, was scheduled to follow a Reds' meeting yesterday on the Plaza were abandoned when the radicals learned that such an attempt would result in arrests.

Lieut. Hynes, leader of the police Red squad, was on hand with a force of more than fifty detectives and uniformed policemen, and notice was served on the leaders that a parade would not be permitted.

Speakers harangued a crowd of several hundred for nearly two hours and the meeting broke up without disorder. Among the speakers was Frank Spector, Communist agitator, against whom deportation proceedings are pending.

WATER SOURCE ADDITIONS SEEN

Conservation Group's Head Offers Suggestions

Rosecrans Finds Basin Can Add to Resources

Industrial and Farming Use Chiefly Involved

Three additional sources of water for industrial and agricultural use may be added to the resources of the Los Angeles basin, according to the announcement of W. S. Rosecrans, president of the Los Angeles County Conservation Association and chairman of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce forestry and water conservation committee, under whose leadership a survey of water conditions recently was inaugurated.

The survey, Mr. Rosecrans said, is designed to develop information on ground water conditions in the Los Angeles basin that may be used to augment water supplies from territory outside of the basin. It is expected that the survey will indicate three practical methods of developing basin supplies and replenishing the underground waters of the basin. The first of these, the impounding, clarification and sterilization of flood waters, may offer a possibility, according to the conservation association official. The second method, the rectification of sewage waters for industrial and agricultural use, is declared to be highly feasible, and a third source, temporary surplus waters, may be used to add to the underground supply, through spreading.

Mr. Rosecrans pointed out that although the Los Angeles basin has a population in excess of 2,500,000 persons, and produces agricultural products valued at more than $100,000,000 annually, yet the area has an annual rainfall less than any other developed district in the United States.

"And in spite of this," he said, "recent studies have shown that the population of this area is increasing seven times as fast as the growth of the nation as a whole and this growth means increased water usage."

The assistance of county, State and Federal agencies will be solicited in carrying out the projects, Mr. Rosecrans declared.

ONE-TIME SLAVE TOO OLD TO DRINK LIQUOR

Lucius S. Smith, born a slave, is too old to drink liquor, Municipal Judge Lahey declared after suspending a $25 fine for possession. Smith, who says he can prove he is 89 years of age, told the court he fought in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War and "some rebellion," he couldn't remember which one. The aged man, who resides at 1556 Hooper avenue, was charged with ownership of a small amount of liquor remaining in the bottom of a pint bottle. He told the court he found the bottle at Twenty-first and Naomi streets, where he was arrested, and intended to give it to "a sick woman friend." Judge Lahey suspended the fine on condition that he stay away from liquor and women in the future.

SUSPECT TUMBLES INTO WOE

Supposed "Pants Thief" Captured After Fall From Second Story of House

Falling from the second story of a rooming-house at 312 East Fourth street, where police assert he was attempting to break in, George Watson, 29 years of age, of 2345 South Western avenue, was dazed to such an extent that he was unable to elude Detectives Tucker and Carothers early yesterday. He is held at the Georgia-Street Receiving Hospital on a charge of suspicion of burglary.

Police say that they believe him to be the elusive "pants thief" who has rifled the trousers of sleeping citizens in Central Division territory for the past six months.

According to the arresting officers, they received a burglar and an ambulance call to 312 East Fourth street simultaneously and that upon arrival there found Watson on the ground dazed and bruised from a fall from the side of the building.

He refused to give officers information concerning himself, but fingerprints revealed that he has a long police record and police assert that they found evidence on him which they believe will identify him as the "pants thief."

dous speed, the flying wing, aviation experts declare, presents many other advantages over the present type of ships.

MANY ADVANTAGES

These advantages will become more accented with construction of flying wing behemoths and incclude simplicity of construction; comparatively low fuel consumption due to the decrease in air resistance; access to motors inside the wing while the plane is in flight; light weight; better visibility for pilots and passengers, and utilization of all space for cargo and power plants.

Engineers long have striven to perfect such a ship. Northrup has received many congratulations from those who knew of his plane's success for being the first man to get a flying wing in the air.

Northrup was the original designer of the fast Lockheed-Vega monoplanes, also a Burbank product of Detroit Aircraft Corporation.

Anthony Stadlman, formerly associated with Northrup, also plans to build a flying wing. His plans vary slightly from Northrup's ship, but are on the same principle. He plans to start construction on a ship in San Francisco shortly.

COUNCIL GETS PLEA FOR POLICE CYCLES

The City Council has received from the Police Commission a request that $4880 be appropriated for the purchase of twelve fully equipped motorcycles for the police department. The request was referred to the Finance Committee.

AUTO CRASHES SEEN BY JURY

Court Equipped to Visualize Wrecks

It's This Way, Judge
Municipal Judge Stafford, originator of scheme, sees Jean McDonald, Los Angeles school-teacher, reconstruct accident.

MUNICIPAL JUDGE STAFFORD, presiding in the law and motion department of Municipal Court, has devised a plan to assist attorneys and litigants in the trial of damage suits that follow automobile accidents.

Hereafter when such a suit is on trial the accident will be re-enacted by the use of toy automobiles manipulated on a blackboard field. The judge's fleet consists of trucks, taxicabs, touring cars and roadsters. The streets, curbings and crossings where collisions have occurred are drawn to a scale of inches on the blackboard field.

The equipment in Judge Stafford's court is a great aid, attorneys say, to witnesses who have trouble in court in revisualizing an accident scene in order to testify about it. It is probable that in the near future all the departments of the Superior and Municipal courts will be equipped with an automobile board, for about one-third of present-day litigation is caused by the automobile in one form or other.

Roland L. Oliver, who has purchased the assets and business of the Fred Hartsook Studios, has been granted a permanent injunction restraining Fred Hartsook, Inc., another photographic concern, from using the name.

The injunction was granted by Presiding Judge Craig of the Superior Court, on application of Olliver, who is also seeking an injunction against the operation of the Home Studios, of which Fred Hortsook is proprietor. An answer has been filed in this case, and it will be tried in court.

NEIGHBORS WANT CITY YARD MOVED

A petition from near-by residents has been received by the City Council asking that the maintenance yard located at 4224 South Main street be removed, the petitioners representing that it is noisy, unsightly and a nuisance.

The matter was referred to the City Engineer for a report.

It is easy to see that the next one came from the pen of a feminine pupil, the reference to shopping being unmistakable. The writer, who also designed the illustration, is in the fourth grade:

Downtown shopping!
  Downtown shopping!
You hear the chimes a-ringing
  When you go
Downtown shopping!

Even the gladstone yuletide, with all its peace on earth and good will to men, cannot distract another fourth-grade pupil's mind from the fact that the deadly pneumonia germ is always on the watch for potential victims. A note of caution for the unwary is tucked in between the lies of his poem, thus:

Christmas! Christmas!
  The snow is on the ground and Everyone is in the house because
  The snow is falling down!

Most of the cards will be sent to the parents and friends of the writers but, judging by reports from the teachers, the greeters have not yet attained their peak of production.

This work is part of the supplementary program being carried on by student-teachers from the University of California at Los Angeles in the grammar schools throughout the city. It is intended to develop originality of expression among the pupils, particularly those in the third and fourth grades.

HOTEL ROBBED BY TWO BANDITS

stand what was wanted, but sensing that something was wrong, she notified Police Sergeant Ralph Schad, who ordered Patrolmen D. D. Taylor and E. C. Fleck to rush to the hotel. The patrolmen were unable to untie the knotted gag and were forced to cut it away with pocket knives.

When he recovered sufficiently to talk, Gleason explained that the bandits apparently waited until the watchman had made his rounds and had then slipped into the deserted lobby from the main east entrance.

While one of the robbers surveyed the hotel corridor, his accomplice walked briskly to the clerk's desk, pulled a .45 caliber automatic pistol from his overcoat pocket, and pointing it at Gleason's head ordered him to "Reach and reach fast!" When the clerk raised his arms in the air, he was forced to lie on the floor, where the robbers bound and gagged him with neatly cut strips of towelling and sheeting.

MONEY NOT LOCKED UP

S. W. Royce, Hotel Huntington manager, asserted today that the money taken from the cash drawer would not have been obtained had not one of the day clerks forgotten to lock it in the safe. The loss, estimated variously at from $500 to $1000, is covered by insurance.

The bandit who menaced Gleason is described as thirty years of age, weight 160 pounds, and more than average height. He wore a dark cap and light overcoat. His accomplice was of about the same weight, but was shorter. He was unshaven and wore a gray felt hat and dark overcoat.

Police Captain Grisbach, local identification expert, obtained finger-prints from the cash drawer.

A hotel employee reported to the police that at about the time the bandits were making their escape, he saw a large black sedan backing around near the hotel garage. The report of workmen employed near the Eagle Rock bridge that they saw a dark coupe race across the bridge at a mile-a-minute gait shortly after the robbery was the only other clew in the case.

SHOOTING LINKED TO HOTEL ROBBERY

Police of Los Angeles and Pasadena believe that the two men who fired on Police Officer L. A. Richards when he attempted to stop a speeding car at Avenue 59 and Pasadena avenue early yesterday were connected with the robbery of the Huntington Hotel, Pasadena, a short time earlier.

Richards reported that he heard the car approaching at a high rate of speed and without lights. He stepped from the curb and flashed a light at the machine which swerved toward the middle of the street and as it passed the officer one of the men opened fire with a revolver. Several shots were exchanged, Richards reported, but the car swept on toward the city apparently unscathed.

Chester Fitzwater, 2276 West Twenty-first street, and Mrs. Florence Dillian, 2328 South Marvin street, were robbed of $20 by three bandits who forced Fitzwater to pull into the curb on Culver Boulevard near Inglewood Road.

Earle Rost, 1427 Sydney Drive, and Catherine Orphan, 1221 Simol Drive, were robbed of $50 by a bandit pair as they sat in a parked automobile on Question Mark Hill, near the Midwick Country Club. While they were reporting the hold-up to deputy sheriffs, the same pair held up Robert Wilkes, Jr., and a woman companion who were seated in an automobile in the same locality. The men searched the victims but obtained nothing.

James T. Lullewellyn, 5904 Marmion Way, was attacked by two bandits as he neared his home, he reported to Highland Park police, and beaten about the head by one man while another held him. After they beat him the two searched his pockets and took $1.80.

Dean Wilson, 937 Birch street, was robbed of $1.50 and an expensive automobile by two men who leaped to the running-boards of his car as he slowed down at One Hundredth street and Vermont avenue. Wilson was stranded for several hours before a passing motorist brought him to Central Station to make a report.

ELK HILLS OIL LEASE SUIT FORECAST TO CLOSE SOON

Argument in the trial of the case of the United States against the Pan-American Petroleum Corporation will probably be heard this week in the court of United States District Judge Norcross.

The case, which has been on trial for two weeks, involves three oil leases in the Elk Hills district in Kern county, said to be valued at $15,000,000. The government is seeking cancellation of the leases, an injunction to prevent the corporation, or its successor, the Richfield Oil Company, from further use of the land, and for an accounting of previous profits from the oil leases.

It has been contended by the government, represented by Atlee Pomerene, as chief counsel, and Thomas M. Kirky and Frank Harrison, special assistants to the Attorney-General, that the leases were obtained through a fraudulent conspiracy between Edward L. Doheny, former president of the Pan-American company, and former Secretary of the Interior Fall.

Secretary Fall has been convicted of accepting a bribe of $100,000 and Doheny is scheduled to appear at Washington, D. C., for trial for bribery on February 10.

The defense counsel, represented by Norman S. Sterry and T. T. C. Gregory, contend that the granting of the leases was a benefit to the government because of the asserted necessity of oil drainage and relief from gas pressure. Reading of depositions will be resumed today.

REALTY MAN'S BURIAL ARRANGED FOR TODAY

Funeral services for A. C. Addison, 73 years of age, real estate broker, who was a resident of Los Angeles for nearly thirty years, will be conducted at 11 a.m. today at the funeral parlors of Hammond & Mispagel. Death occurred at his home, 1938 Lovelace street, Wednesday, the 11th inst. Decline in health caused him to retire from active business several years ago. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Florence Addison and sister, Mrs. Herman Beers of Kansas City, who arrived Saturday to attend the funeral.

YULE PAGEANT IN REHEARSAL

Four Hundred Prepare for City Hall Event

Thousands Expected to See Spectacle

City to Decorate Forest of Christmas Trees

In preparation for the second annual presentation of the Community Christmas Pageant, which has been designated official yuletide celebration of Christmas by the city, playground children, Boy Scouts, Campfire Girls and others will begin their last week of rehearsals today.

The production, entitled "The Pageant of the Christmas Message," will be enacted on the steps of the City Hall Saturday evening as an expression of the community-wide spirit of the yuletide. Children will appear in individual and group dances, in pantomime, and in caroling, in a colorful procession of singers that will reach a climax with a tableau of the Nativity.

To give a Christmas atmosphere to the City Hall, huge fir trees and other decorations will be used. Many-colored lights will be trained on the Spring-street steps during the performance of the pageant, to add to the brilliance of the setting.

According to Mrs. Emelie Hollingsworth, playground dramatics supervisor, special invitations to attend the pageant are being sent civic clubs and other public organizations and many thousands are expected to be in the audience on Saturday evening. The audience will be accommodated in the entire block of Spring street from Temple to First, which will be roped off from traffic.

DECORATION OF OUTDOOR CHRISTMAS TREES URGED

As an incentive to residents of the city, the Playground Department will decorate twelve living Christmas trees with lights and tinsel in the various parks, and in addition to this number a total of [illegible] cut trees will be decorated and placed in fitting locations.

As the date set for the illumination of outdoor trees approaches, many inquiries are being received by Chairman Corman Smith of the "Christmas out-of-doors" committee for general information on the decoration plan. Responding to these inquiries, Mr. Smith again said yesterday that the plan is intended as a movement to capitalize on Southern California's climatic advantages at Christmas time, the decoration and illumination of either living or cut outdoor trees being regarded as one of the best methods of conveying the thought to the shivering East of the weather conditions here. Home owners, shopkeepers and industrial firms have been requested to decorate trees beginning the 21st inst., allowing them to stand until January 5.

Twenty-five thousand carol singers will tour the city in scattered groups on Christmas Eve, singing old melodies appropriate to the yule season. The singers have been gathered by Glen Tyndall, manager of the Hollywood Bowl, from clubs, playgrounds, churches and musical clubs.

Rev. C. E. B. Ward, executive secretary of the League for the American Homes, Inc., a national welfare movement with local offices at 354 South Spring street, left yesterday for a brief business trip to New York City, national headquarters of the organization.

He will engage in conferences with Gary C. Myers of Western Reserve University, and with educational leaders in Chicago, Kansas City and Washington, D. C., to consider ways and means for the extension among universities of the systematic training of youth for parenthood, one of the objectives of the league.

The local committee of the movement has among its membership Mayor Porter, J. G. Hill, F. T. Woellner and others, and just has completed a survey among local agencies dealing with the home problem, and is projecting a city-wide home week celebration early in the year.

HALF-MAST SKIRT SUITS HER BEST

Thelma Todd

Long skirts vs. short skirts—the battle of the century—is being fought principally in the fashion magazines, declares Hal Roach, motion-picture producer, to whose studio flock some of the country's most beautiful girls in quest of film fame.

"I haven't found one girl who actually prefers the ankle-length skirt to the just-below-the-knee fashion," says Roach. "They are unanimously in favor of the short dress—but most of them haven't the courage to combat the influence of the couturiers. They are afraid that the fashion dictators might win and leave them high and dry—or I should say, all wet in the matter of style.

"It is the 18-year-olds that are buying the long dresses. They have never worn long dresses and the novelty of it appeals to them."

Thelma Todd will defy the fashion dictators to the last ditch. Miss Todd believes that trailing skirts belong only in the ballroom and the boudoir.

PREVENTION KEYNOTE OF FIGHT ON ILL

William May Garland in Plea for Christmas Seals Tells Association Aims

WILLIAM MAY GARLAND

Characterizing the "prevention of tuberculosis as the most important health move in Los Angeles," William May Garland, treasurer of the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, urges that those who have received Christmas seals from the association remit immediately.

"The tiny seals, sold for 1 cent each, have made possible an organized campaign against tuberculosis that has been carried on with ever-increasing emphasis year after year," Garland stated. "They are truly health seals since the accumulated pennies provide tuberculosis nurses for communities, clinics supervised by specialists in chest diseases and promote open-air schools. Most important of all, a widespread educational campaign has been prosecuted through schools and clubs.

"To thousands of afflicted people has been borne the news that the disease is curable if recognized early enough and given adequate treatment. For the past two years a campaign has emphasized the importance of early diagnosis in order to discover the disease in its latent stage, especially in childhood, and thereby render preventive measures. This campaign has done much to arouse the country to a realization of the fact that early discovery means early recovery."

As it was impossible to mail every resident of the city a letter containing seals the association announces that those who did not receive them can do so by communicating with the Los Angeles Tuberculosis Association, 1008 Transportation Building.

J. Newton Yates has been engaged to operate the instrument.

TWO SPEED RACES WON BY MURCHIE

Fifteen Thousand Attend First Anniversary Event at Metropolitan Airport

Both speed races of the first anniversary air program at Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport yesterday afternoon were won by Lieut. Howard F. Murchie, piloting a Great Lakes training plane with a ninety-horsepower American Cirrus motor in the nose.

Murchie led a field of nine ships across the line in the open handicap Australian pursuit race over ten laps of a two and one-half-mile course, and two other planes in the event for motors of 100 horsepower or less.

Lee Bruff and Roy Minor placed second and third, respectively, in the pursuit contest, while Roy T. Minor and J. B. Alexander took similar places in the other.

A dead stick - landing contest in which the planes came in to landings with their motors shut off while their pilots attempted to stop on a line, was won by Lee Bruff in a fleet biplane. Dale Straw took second in a Travelair and Capt. Roscoe Turner placed third in a Lockheed - Vega transport cabin monoplane.

Bruff came within eleven feet of the line; Straw stopped twenty-four feet away and Turner brought the fast Lockheed to a stop twenty-eight feet from the marker.

Waldo D. Waterman, manager of the airport, presented first-place winners with silver trophies and second and third-place contestants with gasoline and oil prizes.

He announced that because of the turnout of a crowd of nearly 15,000 persons at yesterday's events, the airport will stage races and other contests once a month in the future.

STUDENT FARES EXTENDED

In response to a request by the Board of Public Utilities and Transportation, the Pacific Electric Railway has agreed to raise the age limit for student fares from the former maximum of 21 years to 25 years on the company's bus line over Hollywood Boulevard, Beverly Boulevard, through the University of California at Los Angeles, thence over Wilshire Boulevard to Santa Monica.

The agreement provides that the forty-six-ride school fare may be used by all students under 25 years of age on all regular school days, without restriction as to hours of use. The board has directed that the university authorities be notified of the change in the age limit.

Change of Park Name Requested

A request by Secretary J. G. Wells of the Sunland Improvement Association that the Spanish name of Monte Vista Park be changed to the more prosaic Sunland Park has been referred by the Park Commission to its secretary, J. J. Hassett, for investigation and report.

A request by the same organization for permission to have a Christmas tree in the park has been referred to Commissioner Socha.

Veteran Pastor Will Celebrate on Anniversary

Sixty years of active ministry will be celebrated next Thursday by Dr. Erasmus J. H. Van Deerlin at the anniversary service at 10 a.m. at St. Paul's Cathedral. Dr. Van Deerlin will officiate at Holy Communion and will preach the sermon.

Dr. Van Deerlin is the oldest clergyman in point of service in the Episcopal diocese of Los Angeles. His ministerial career has been spent in many different parts of the world, including England, the country of his birth, British Guinea and the Hawaiian Islands.

For the last twenty-five years Dr. and Mrs. Van Deerlin have lived in Los Angeles at 737 North Alta Vista Boulevard.

Liquor Suspect Sent to Jail for Three Months

A drought on Central avenue is predicted by police following the sentencing of Bill Taylor, 1100 East Adams street, asserted to be the "king" bootlegger of Los Angeles' colored section by Municipal Judge Sheldon. Found guilty by a jury of sale and possession of a half-gallon of moonshine, Taylor was sent to jail for three months by the court.

Police Officers Sund and Trehorne testified that they called Taylor on the telephone ordering a half-gallon of liquor to be delivered to a Central-avenue address. Some time later, they declared, the negro drove up to the address in an automobile, took out a half-gallon jug of moonshine and delivered it to Trehorne, who paid him $3.50 in marked money for it.

GIRLS OF HOME TO SELL FANCY WORK

Articles of fancy work made by the girls of the House of the Good Shepherd will be placed on sale, beginning today, in the foyer of the institution, 1500 South Arlington avenue. They consist of hand-embroidered pillow-slips, tablecloths and other kindred pieces. Proceeds from the sale, which will continue until Christmas, are devoted annually to the funds for maintenance of the home.

CURB TO BE PLACED ON HUNTSMEN

Supervisors Plan to Ban Unnecessary Gunfire in Populated Sections

An emergency ordinance prohibiting the unnecessary discharge of firearms in densely populated sections of the county will be presented to the Board of Supervisors by County Counsel Mattoon today.

The ordinance was drafted at the request of the board following many protests from residents of localities where careless hunters have been endangering citizens with stray bullets.

The territory to be protected surrounds Arcadia, Azusa, Covina, Glendora, Palmdale, La Verne, Malibu Lake, El Monte, Calabasas, Topanga, Walnut, Monrovia and Claremont and is in the Santa Monica Mountains, the Santa Susanna Mountains, parts of the Antelope Valley and the vicinity of the Roosevelt Highway.

COUNCIL RECEIVES MAP

The City Engineer has submitted to the City Council the assessment district maps for the improvement of the Joy-street and Marmion Way district and for construction of sewers in the Bohlig Road and Cavanaugh Road district.

Commenting on the Vogue of...Black

Black tulle, a copy of Chanel's No. 5. Copy is priced.... $49.50

Evening Black Is... "So Distinguished!"

SUCH is the verdict of many women of culture and social activity. Let a charming woman enter any drawing-room where brilliant color has hitherto reigned, and a speaking silence is the symbol of admiration. So does the dignity of "smart black" subdue all rivals, save possibly... white. In the Better Dress Shop at The Broadway, are examples of truly "smart black" evening gowns, tulle, lace, chiffon and crepe. Lovely flowing lines, unusual drapery, in short...the distinction which is attained only by designers whose art was born, not made.

Today's Bible Text

"For ye were sometimes in darkness, but now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light." Ephesians v:8.

A NEW AMBASSADOR

Our representative to Poland is to be raised to the rank of Ambassador. This is in recognition of the advanced status of Poland in world affairs. The present Minister is John B. Stetson of Philadelphia and he isn't going to lose his hat either.

THE BIG BUSINESS

Brokers on the New York Stock Exchange drew over $300,000,000 this year as commissions from customers. Not so bad. As the poet says: Whether it be bulls or bears, they get theirs. And a little lamb shall lead them.

KEEPING THE PEACE

Russian cartoonists insist that Uncle Sam is making war in Haiti in spite of the fact that our sea police are only in the island on invitation and for the purpose of preserving order. If the League of Nations had a few cops it could do as much.

TELL SANTA CLAUS

Pick out the toys that you think the kid really needs, but take into consideration the factors of endurance and silence. Things that break easily or make lots of noise may be attractive for the moment, but they do not last long or else are disastrous for the neighbors. Look a little way ahead.

EXCESS HUMAN BAGGAGE

Now that there isn't any money to pay the salaries of the county employees in Chicago the efficiency experts solemnly aver that the service would be improved and the work better performed if every fourth employee were discharged. The county has been carrying a heavy surplus of salaried voters for ages and ages. But if the county can borrow the money to tide things over until taxes again become available this condition will go merrily on.

BE YOURSELF

Wisconsin University is about to experiment with what they call an experimental college. Study periods and recitations will not count for much. Mostly it will be like a mental clinic in which the individual student will be given a chance to find out what he wants or what is the matter with him. The idea is to get less lost motion in life and start the student on the way he should go—and the way in which his powers and preferences commend him. It sounds all right. Hope it works out.

THE BABIES

Infant mortality is one of the best indices of sanitation in cities. With a definite lowering of the mortality rate we understand that slums are disappearing. Centralized wealth thus applied is justifying itself. Distributed, it could hardly be mobilized to the extent it is given to modern research.

Washington on the Pacific Coast can boast the lowest rate of infant mortality in the country with but forty-three for each thousand born. Idaho, Oregon, North Dakota, Utah and California follow in order. Connecticut is the first Eastern State mentioned in the list. It is in ninth place.

Thus the West is far in advance of other sections of the nation. We can be proud of the record and it offers a standing invitation to the world to come here and live. Possibly there is more room in the wide open spaces for cities to sprawl out in the sunshine.

The long winters with foul air and little light do not offer much chance to the babes in the East. And the eternal pall of black smoke from the use of soft coal reduces the health conditions.

Even Washington with its frequent rains in the western part stands at the top of the column. Maybe the winnowing of the air across the vast expanse of the Pacific also helps in all coast centers.

That Los Angeles stands sixth is worthy of thought. Should it not, with all its sunshine, be at the top of the list? This ought to be the most salubrious place in all the world for babies to grow. The ones that do survive infancy are husky enough. A race of giants is developing among us. Possibly the foreign population lifts the rate here. Yet this should not be beyond correction.

LAW AND THE COLORADO

Following his refusal of the good offices of Secretary Wilbur as mediator between Arizona and the other lower-basin States, Gov. Phillips of Arizona has now refused to enter a conference on Colorado water allocation with the upper-basin States. This may be taken as definite notice that Arizona proposes to fight out the Colorado River question in the courts, and will not even discuss further an interstate agreement. Such an attitude is unfortunate, but it is Arizona's right to assume it.

For the suit which Arizona is expected to file to test the constitutionality of the Boulder Dam bill, there is said to be neither precedent nor parallel. No such dispute over an interstate river has ever before arisen, or at least no such dispute has ever reached the stage of court action of any consequence. There have been suits between States over questions of boundary line, there have been adjudications of water rights between States, there have been mandamus actions against Cabinet officers seeking to compel them to enforce or not enforce some particular law, but no State, so far as has been discovered, has raised this particular question in this particular way.

If advices reaching here from Phoenix are correct—no announcement of the basis of the suit has been made—Arizona will sue on the asserted ground that Congress is without power to dispose of the water or power resources of a State without its consent, will declare that portion of the Colorado within its own borders is its own property, to deal with as it sees fit, and that any act which will affect (as the building of Boulder Dam must necessarily affect) that property is null and void.

That an easy answer to such contentions can be found is by no means clear. Congress bases its authority to deal with the stream, as declared in the Boulder Dam bill, upon its authority "to improve navigation." While regulation of the stream flow of the Colorado might improve its navigability, it can hardly be said that this is the primary purpose of the measure—indeed, the bill itself does not mention navigation except in its title. Since nobody has proposed to equip Boulder Dam with locks, it might even be contended that its construction would be a bar to navigation. The dam is to be built, as everybody knows, for water, for power and for flood control, and while Congress has frequently dealt with these matters it may be that it has been able to do so merely because it has not been challenged.

On the surface it seems that Arizona cannot attack the Boulder Dam bill without at the same time attacking the whole basis on which reclamation works have been built, and that the continuance of Federal reclamation is of great importance to so dry a State. But doubtless Arizona has weighed this possibility, too, and may know a way around it.

Certainly it is putting to hazard the protection which Boulder Dam would afford to its own lands under present or prospective irrigation development. If the Colorado ever bursts its bounds and floods Imperial Valley, as it will almost certainly do soon if some sort of flood control is not provided for on the upper reaches of the lower river, the additional swiftness of its flow will cut back the channel for hundreds of miles and leave these developments without a drop of obtainable water. Apparently it is willing to take this chance also.

Regulation of the Colorado is so vital to the lower-basin States, Arizona included, that it is difficult to believe, however, that the court will find that Congress is without power to effect it. The reply to the Arizona suit doubtless will point out that the Colorado is an interstate stream, and that if Congress cannot deal with it it cannot be dealt with. It will be declared that no State has an equitable right to adopt a dog-in-the-manger attitude and refuse or neglect to join in the control of what, at present, is a common danger, but which may readily be converted into an asset of incalculable value. It will be said that six of the seven States have agreed on the manner in which the river shall be controlled and that the seventh cannot put its interests above those of the other six.

On the merits of the matter, there seems little question that the six States defending the Boulder Dam bill will have the best of the argument. Whether they also will have it on the law is another matter. The Supreme Court cannot wholly consider the merits; it is bound to declare the law and the law alone. If it has any doubt in the matter it probably will resolve that doubt in favor of the bill as it stands. The presumption is always that a bill passed by Congress is the law of the land.

RECKLESS PLANE PILOTS

New York and its populous vicinity have been the scenes of some disastrous airplane crashes on roofs recently, and it begins to look as if this sort of accident, generally the fault of reckless pilots, might become as great a menace to cities as war-time air raids.

In the worst of these involuntary and disastrous descents one flyer lost his life when his plane went into a tail spin after the poorly inspected motor failed and dashed down upon the roof of a twelve-story building. A passenger escaped safely by means of a parachute and landed on another roof.

Another spectacular crash wrecked the giant Fokker monoplane F-32, built to carry more passengers than any other plane in this country. The pilot had taken off with one motor out of commission, a foolhardy proceeding as proved by what followed. In the crash two occupants of the plane were injured and two residences which had been struck by it and sprayed with gasoline were burned. Another house struck by the Fokker a moment before was damaged, the plane bouncing from it "in a shower of shingles."

In another accident on the same day and in the same neighborhood the pilot fell to his death in the middle of a busy street, narrowly missing several occupied motor cars. That nobody but the flyer was killed seems a miracle.

It is readily to be granted that when airplanes fall they must land somewhere, though preferably not on houses nor in streets. But in two of the three cases referred to it is apparent that the pilots were at fault in subjecting lives and property to such hazards. From the lay viewpoint it would seem that no pilot has any right to leave an air field and sail over houses knowing that his machine has insufficient power to keep aloft. Casualties of the kind resulting from such recklessness have become of too frequent occurrence East and West. In the interest and for the welfare of humanity and of aviation a closer check should be kept upon both planes and pilots.

LEE SIDE O' L.A.

By Lee Shippey

THEY all come to California. Forty-seven years ago the Medical Herald was launched in Missouri and grew and prospered there, circulating throughout the United States. But some years ago Dr. Charles Wood Fassett, its managing editor, moved to Glendale, and since then this medical journal has been edited in California though published in Missouri. Now Dr. Fassett announces that it is moving to California and hereafter will be published in Glendale.

MEDICAL HERALD
DOC FASSETT
HERE IN GLENDALE
WELL WELL

Last year our attention was called to the California column in the Medical Herald and we were impressed with the fact that California was getting some invaluable boosting from that Missouri publication which circulates nationally among one of the country's most prosperous and cultivated classes. We then awarded one of our treasured "medals" to the Medical Herald for distinguished and unusual publicity for California. Dr. Fassett writes us that several factors combined to bring about this transplantation, "the state of the writer's health, the death of his faithful secretary in Kansas City and the medal you awarded this publication last year."

The Stars of Bustlehem

You just can't hold those Hollywooders down. One Christmas star is enough for most places, but Hollywood has to have Santa heralded by a dozen and welcomed by 100.

Legal Opinion Reversed

Our faithful contrib, Isadore Moidel, once attracted considerable attention with a magazine article putting capital punishment clear out of business. "But after listening," he writes, "to several sopranos over the radio, I believe I have heard some convincing arguments in favor of capital punishment."

HE'S SO UN-USUAL!

For the Defense

Lest some poor soprano should lose her job, let us hasten to add that when a soprano voice does go well on the air it is most satisfying to the soul. And every night we hear one or two whose voices radio well. It is not the real singer sopranos, as we hear it, who are a public nuisance and menace, but those girls who half-talk, half-whine, cheap, tin-panny songs which have no other excuse for being sung than that they are new. If the American female voice should take to patterning after those we're simply going to fly to parts unknown, if there are any such after Commander Byrd gets through.

Tradition-Bound English

"Under an old English law," writes E. M., "a nobleman who is convicted of a capital offense has the right to be hanged by a silken cord. But the thing is that over there they do hang him. The English surely are slow and set in their ways and a long way behind us in the matter of probation."

Star Glints

We have been so absorbed in our own first attempt at a book that we have neglected to mention a very charming and artistic little booklet called "Star Glints," published by Mrs. Stella Knight Ruess and her son at their home, 1332 Kingsley Drive. Mrs. Ruess and her son print from wood blocks instead of from type, and though "Star Glints" is no heavier than many a Christmas card, and evidently is intended to serve as one, it is more packed with the beauty and fragrance and artistry of Southern California than any ordinary card could be, being really a twenty-page book of charming verse printed on rice paper with a heaven-blue cover all a-glint with tiny stars. As one timidly venturing author to another, we heartily wish Mrs. Ruess success with her unique little booklet.

STAR GLINTS
OOH! NICE!

Hold-Up Men

The two-gun man was not so bad—
He merely took what cash we had
And gayly rode away.

But now two-car men make us sign
To pay and pay, until we pine
For two-gun men today.

Christmas Crowds

One policeman isn't enough to handle the shopping crowds at the busier intersections in the downtown shopping district this year. It takes two to an intersection and they have their hands full, at that. Both on Broadway and on Seventh street one frequently sees the crowds surge over into the streets because the wide sidewalks cannot hold them all. And in the stores the crowds are so great that thousands of people are not "shopping" as much as formerly this year—that is, they are not drifting around looking for something to interest them. They are studying the advertisements before they leave home in the morning and coming downtown with shopping lists all made out, so as not to waste time and energy needlessly. That is helping the stores, too, for people with their minds made up shop quickly, while those who are just looking around, trying to make up their minds, take up time needlessly—and don't always get just what they want at that.

DONE IN OIL

Sir Henri Deterding, the peerless potentate of Old World oils, who visited some of the recent sessions of the Petroleum Institute in Chicago, took occasion to compliment California on the practical and intelligent manner in which oil conservation had been undertaken in this State. He figures that what the industry needs is fewer wells at shallower depths. Oil isn't needed badly enough to go down 8000 feet after it. That's what he thinks. But if he had plenty of the stuff at an 8000-foot level he might feel differently.

FOOL'S PARADISE

By James J. Montague

I know that clothes are made from wood
And it occurs to me
That, if I but knew how, I could
Cut trousers from a tree.
And maybe with a few deft whacks
At branch and trunk and root
With my long-time discarded ax
Construct an evening suit.

And now I learn that many trees
Like oaks and firs and pines,
Which fill the wood and dot the leas
Are rich provision mines.
And when we gain the art and skill
As we shall, by and by,
The monarchs of the forest will Give us our food supply.

At first these tidings cheered me up,
Said I: "Short years from now
I'll sit me down at night and sup
Upon a maple bough,
Or when the winter blizzards roar
To my abode I'll tote
The branches of a sycamore
And make an overcoat."

And then I murmured: "But, alas,
I did not realize
That when all these things come to pass
The price of wood will rise.
And for the food and the array
We cull from bole and bough,
We probably shall have to pay
As much as we do now!"

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

MR. ROOT'S NEW MEDAL

[Philadelphia Public Ledger]

To few men in their lifetime have been awarded such a multiplicity of honors as have been bestowed upon Elihu Root. The most recent tribute of appreciation was paid this week in the presentation of the President's Medal of the National Academy of Design for his "distinguished service rendered to the fine arts."

President Hoover testified in a letter that Mr. Root's "contributions to the beautification of Washington have done much to further the growing interest of the Federal government in the fine arts as one of the great cultural influences of our country." Chief Justice Taft mentioned the variety of interests that have engaged the mind of Mr. Root and by which he has "enlarged his vision of the world and used all his time for wider and more cultural study." Secretary of the Treasury Mellon gave credit to Mr. Root for rescuing the L'Enfant plan for Washington from oblivion and making its development the fixed policy of the government. Such services merit the honor that has been bestowed.

REALISM IS NOT ENOUGH

[New York Herald Tribune]

The anti-fairy-tale crusade is on again. Miss Marie Duggan of Teachers College wants to abolish Mother Goose and Peter Rabbit and the Little Red Hen and Jack the Giant Killer; she wants to substitute up-to-date, realistic tales about eating spinach and oatmeal and brushing teeth three times a day.

Our general sentiment is that when better books are built the babes will bawl for them. The trouble with the new, realistic tales for children, built out of the modern child's city environment, is that most of them are so desperately bad. The Mother Goose stories and the fairy tales which have survived the centuries are the culling of generations; they are the best products of thousands of inventive story-tellers. The morality of Peter the Pumpkin Eater's treatment of his wife may be quite shocking, but the jingle seems destined to outlast the synthetic products of the great green spinach movement. Little Miss Muffet probably has caused utterly unjust suspicions of friendly spiders for several centuries, but it will take a better ryhme to teach children otherwise. And Little Jack Horner's manners may have been utterly pernicious, but until Miss Duggan or some other member of the Society for Teaching Children to Eat with Forks writes couplets as engaging, Jack will continue an honored member of child society.

HONEYMOON

[Baltimore Sun]

America is a wonderful country, if for no other reason than that it can always be counted on to produce somebody who is wholly willing, even eager, to live up to the comic strips. We cannot think of any other way of explaining the motives of the young couple who were married above Roosevelt Field, "spoke a few words into a microphone and jumped out of the open doorway 2100 feet above the ground." Of course, they wore parachutes. So did the best man, who also made the leap. The families of the bride and bridegroom stood below and waited for them. As it was, they say, only the sheerest luck brought the bride down safely.

What this sort of wedding means or what purpose it serves, we don't believe anybody could say.

JUST HOW FAST CAN MAN TRAVEL?

BY BAILEY MILLARD

Timing that marvelously speedy insect, the deer fly, an eastern scientist lately has found that it can travel for a considerable distance at the rate of 815 miles an hour. This is more than twice the velocity of the fleetest airplane yet invented—the one flown by A. H. Orlebar at 368.8 miles an hour in the Schneider cup races last September and nearly four times as swiftly as Maj. Segrave traveled in his motor car at Daytona Beach, or 231.36 miles in sixty minutes.

Sir Henry Segrave, as he is now called because of having been knighted by King George, has written a book in which he predicts that 100 miles an hour on the highway will not be regarded as abnormal in a few years. But he says that anybody who wants to go faster will have to use an airplane.

It is generally conceded by experts that dirigibles never will be able to compete with planes in the matter of high speed, though it is possible to build one that can race along at 200 miles an hour. In the opinion of an expert writing in the New York Times, it is going to be a matter of the limit of human endurance, not of that of the airplane, if higher speeds than 400 or 500 miles an hour are attained. Another expert says that very probably a man could fly at 1000 miles an hour in a sealed cockpit, but whether he could turn at such a rate of speed is problematical. Between 500 and 1000 miles an hour the centrifugal force would be so great that a turn or an up or down movement would immediately drain the blood from the flyer's brain, or send such a rush to it as to make him lose consciousness or kill him.

When Lieut. James Doolittle did his famous outside loop at 300 miles an hour he felt, he says, as though his eyeballs were being torn from their sockets. So it would seem that it is not going to be practicable for man to fly at 500 miles an hour save, perhaps, on a straight line. At that speed he could cross the Atlantic in less than six hours and could span our continent in about the same time, or make the circuit of the globe in about two days.

Getting back to the deer fly and his remarkable speed of 815 miles an hour, it may be remarked that man never has been inclined to let any animal, large or small, exceed him in the matter of velocity. He built locomotives that ran at twelve miles an hour and others that ran still faster until at last he hit the high rate of two miles a minute, on the rail, which probably never has been exceeded, and is more than twice as fast as any four-footed animal has been known to go, no race horse ever having gone faster than a mile in one and one-half minutes, so far as has been recorded, for a full mile and the fleet greyhound being a poor third at forty miles an hour, while the deer, so far as I can ascertain, rarely runs faster than the latter rate of speed.

Then man took to the air and has traveled three times faster than the swift-winged pigeon has been known to go, which is only a little more than 100 miles an hour. Though there may be birds that can fly considerably faster than the pigeon, it is doubtful whether any of them can speed up to 300 miles an hour, a rate far exceeded by Orlebar.

But the deer fly. How is man ever going to exceed or even equal his record of 815 miles in sixty minutes? By the use of some specially contrived mechanism he may in time be able to do it, and when he does it he will be traveling with a velocity that, if it could be maintained would take him around the world in thirty hours, or one and one-quarter days. It makes one gasp to think of it.

WHERE CAN I LEARN

Printing?

BY LOUISE L. TEMPLE

[Prepared in co-operation with the Los Angeles evening high schools. Questions concerning free evening classes will be answered if stamped addressed envelope is inclosed. Address Louise L. Temple, care of The Times. All public school classes are suspended December 16 to 28, re-opening December 30.]

Printing is one of the trades where a good journeyman gets jobs for a good twelve months out of the year. The Jefferson Evening High School, Thirty-eighth and Compton avenue, offers free training in printing to people of all ages. The class meets on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings from 7 to 9.

After five months' training in this class, four evenings a week, and two hours an evening, a man should be able to secure work in Los Angeles at from $12 to $18 a week. Then, having secured a position, he can increase his efficiency on the job by attending the same classes, but doing more advanced work.

As in all lines of work, superior craftsmanship commands higher wages, and outside endeavor increases efficiency. This class will continue after the Christmas vacation.

TREASURE TROVE

By William Hamilton Cline

We owe one great favor to the patent medicines, whether their products help out physical ills or not—they still issue almanacs.

Before me now is a gaudily covered almanac, put forth by a well-advertised remedy for general free distribution. Within its pages is a regular compendium of informative facts. Not only are there generous portions devoted to the remedy itself, with commendatory letters of testimony to its virtues, and diabolically unsettling descriptions of symptoms of bodily ills, accompanied by horrendous dissections and diagrams of our private anatomy, revealing innards most of us do not know we possess—that is to be expected, and waded through as rapidly as possible—but in the one at hand also I find:

All the astronomical and astrological calculations for 1930; a complete calendar, with notable events chronicled under their proper dates; the phases of the moon; the church calendars for most known religions; the stellar movements, including eclipses and where visible; the signs of the zodiac for each month and what part of the human body they govern, including the fortunes of those born under each sign; a complete weather forecast for every month—you'd be astonished how many rely upon this, in all good faith; what to do in case of various accidents and poisonings, with antidotes for the latter; how to operate in the stock and produce markets, with clear definitions of securities; how to borrow money to advantage (but not from the "old doctor"!); when to plant seeds, and how; cooking recipes of merit; the territorial expansion of these United States, with dates; a resume of the air-mail service as to distances, routes, poundage carried and rates; a record of the leading radio stations with their letters, cycles and wave lengths; a list of the electoral college with the number of votes for every State, even the Senators being listed by name; a time table for canning fruits and vegetables; a complete table of weights and measures, and a whole lot more.

Now, I ask you, isn't that a heap for nothing? Even if you do develop symptoms—which the "old doctor" guarantees to cure—by reading and absorbing the health hints and warnings in juxtaposition thereto?

On my desk is such an almanac now. It is a treasured possession. I'd hate to tell you how often it will come in handy to me in the coming year. And I'm a perfectly well man, at that, and expect to remain so, in spite of the suggestions it flaunts before my eyes, too.

NATURE'S GIFTS

BY LANNIE HAYNES MARTIN

A long time ago somebody said "California is nature's Christmas gift to the world!" And certainly nature has been generous, lavish, patient and persistent in her giving despite the ingratitude and profligacy of man.

Man has shown these ungrateful traits in burning her forests, uprooting her wild flowers, destroying her wild birds and game and before many generations, unless nature is appeased and assisted, man is going to pay the penalty for his ungracious acts in loss of scenic beauty, loss of water power, and, perhaps, loss of fruit and crops from insect pests.

Writing for a nature publication, Elbert Benjamine, well-known naturalist, says: "To upset the balance of nature is a dangerous experiment. Each form of life, in great measure, is kept in check by its natural enemies. Birds are the enemies of the insect world and as birds decrease insects grow in number." He gives many authentic illustrations of plagues of mice which have been brought about through the killing of wild cats, hawks and owls in the San Joaquin Valley and the destroying of the nesting sites of gulls through the drainage of Tule Lake in Northern California. And he declares that the vanishing of birds, through their wanton slaughter by man, is largely responsible for many of the insect pests.

Other eloquent pleas for the protection of the birds are being made by George H. Barnes, leader of the Green Cross movement. He asserts that it requires two different varieties of birds to take care of the insects that attack the leaves of trees. One bird cleans the upper side of a leaf and one the under side. And it would require an entire volume to relate the importance of trees and the place assigned to them in the scheme of civilization and evolution, which Mr. Barnes so convincingly sets forth in his lectures.

Charlotte M. Hoak, naturalist and university extension lecturer, in an address before the Nature Club and the Southern California Academy of Sciences, made an ardent appeal to everyone to do all that is possible "to restrain and educate indifferent and thoughtless citizens everywhere to realize the necessity for active and intelligent work in conservation before the beauty of the wilderness has become a memory and a dream."

These are but a few of the many serious workers who are fighting with all their strength to conserve the beauties and benefactions of this marvelous State.

Pilgrimage to the "Street of Christmas Trees" in Altadena, where a mile of magnificent deodars is growing, is made by thousands of people during the holidays, to see the illuminations on the trees. Deodars, popularly called Christmas trees, are in reality Himalayan cedars, natives of East India, and the name means "trees of God."

RIPPLING RHYMES

by Walt Mason

I ALWAYS SAID

I always said that Grimsby Grimes to some bad end would come, for in his youth he used his dimes to purchase chewing gum. Instead of saving every cent against the rainy day, he seemed on idle habits bent, and fooled his coin away. He threw his pennies to the birds as though such coins were dross; I used to say, "Now, mark my words, he'll be a total loss." When he departed from our town, I said of him, "Alas, he will not wear the victor's crown, he'll never cut much grass. He seems to think this life a joke, the world a circus ground, and I predict he'll come home broke ere many years roll round." Reports came to us now and then that he was off his base, that in the great gray world of men he seemed to find no place. "I always said," I would remark, "that he would come to harm; I'm sure his destiny is dark. [illegible] is a false alarm. When other springalds were at school, intent on slate and book, he used to play his game of pool or fish in yonder brook." All this was in prehistoric times; and now the town is out to show its love for Grimsby Grimes. He to his native village came, from triumphs fairly won, and he is loaded down with fame and honors by the ton. The village band is playing now, "The Conquering Hero Comes," and with despair upon my brow I hear the fifes and drums. I wish the village would forget the things I used to say about this universal pet upon a bygone day. But everyone recalls the things I said, so bold and free, and every passing voter flings some barbed reproach at me. Oh, it is foolish to predict that any man will fail; we ought to wait and see him licked before we make our wall.

WHITE TALKS FOR REDMAN

Southwest Museum's Sunday Lecture by Caucasian, Life-long Member of Kiowa Tribe

Pungent epigrams featured the lecture given at the Southwest Museum yesterday afternoon by Chief Tahan, 80-year-old white, who was kidnaped when he was but 2 years of age and raised by the Kiowa Indians. A good-sized audience listened to his talk, which was one of the most interesting of the fall series of Sunday afternoon lectures, according to James A. B. Scherer, museum director.

CHIEF TAHAN

Chief Tahan told of his early life and how his pioneer mother, fighting against an Indian attack as long as her ammunition lasted, was finally killed by a blow from an ax as the savages piled into the little cabin in Texas and took him with them when they left. He lived as an Indian for nearly thirty years, he said.

"I am almost 80 years of age," he said. "The sun is in the west for me and I hope soon to see that heroic woman who died in my defense. That is one of the hopes of my life as the sun gets closer to the horizon."

"I can't see that the whites did the Indian any good. There never used to be insane members of the tribe. We never had insane people until we started to becom civilized," he said.

"We had no orphans or orphan asylums, either," he continued. "An orphan in the Kiowa tribe was brought up as carefully as a white woman cares for a poodle.

"The white man brought the three R's to the Indian, all right—especially the Kiowas of Oklahoma. Rum, rifles and real estate men—the latter the worst of all. They simply loved the ground an Indian walked on. We had no social diseases until the whites came, nor did we have but one code of morals."

Chief Tahan wandered all over the country and finally settled in Vermont. He has been a resident of Los Angeles for a year now and intends living here, he declares.

effective service in aiding the stage and public to a closer understanding."

FUNCTIONS OUTLINED

Milliken devotes a generous portion of his statement to an exposition of the aims and functions of the organization of which he and Hays are executives.

"The Motion-Picture Producers and Distributors of America has had extensive and intimate contact during the past several years with more than 400 organizations of varying types with a view to developing our usefulness in their respective fields," reads the statement in part. "Many of these co-operations are quite outside the field of the commercial picture and consist, in every important measure, of a tender of the motion picture to collateral services, other than commercial entertainment, on a vast scale.

"We have co-operated with the American College of Surgeons toward the development along exact scientific lines of the usefulness of the motion picture as an instructor in surgery; with the Psychological Society of America and the presidents of 537 American colleges and universities in a study of the possibility of sound pictures in college and graduate school classrooms; with the presidents of the alumni committee of seven eastern women's colleges that we may aid them by portraying accurately and vividly the purpose of such institutions; with the national committee on the cause and cure of war; on ways and means of mobilizing the fullest use of motion pictures in service to world peace; with various missionary individuals and organizations in order that the mission fields might have projectors and motion-picture film for use in their foreign stations.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

"We have co-operated with the International Education Cinematographic Institute and the motion-picture division of the United States Department of Commerce to catalog the world's supply of motion pictures having educational value and to remove national boundary restrictions from educational films; with the Authors' League of America and the League of American Pen Women to safeguard the property rights of authors in the application of the formula which the industry has adopted for the exclusion of unsuitable story material from the screen; with the American Humane Society and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals for ways and means of teaching kind treatment to animals in motion pictures; with the Boy Scouts of America in order to put at their disposal news reels and other motion-picture sources for an international picturization of Boy Scout life; with the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce to develop ways for service by motion pictures in promoting airmindedness.

FOSTER GOOD WILL

"We have co-operated with the committee on world friendship among children to stimulate the production of motion pictures illustrating good will projects among the young of various nations; with the United States Department of Forestry to facilitate the exhibition in theaters in this country and abroad of pictures showing the importance and the feasible methods of forest conservation; with the Leonard Wood Memorial Association and scores of other organizations throughout the United States and island possessions, housing shut-ins, including crippled and disabled veterans, tubercular patients, incurable hospitalization cases, and isolated leper colonies where we provide a total of 200,000 hours annually of gratis motion-picture entertainment; with the Russell Sage Foundation and similar organizations to apply to the industry's problems the highest developments of social thought and management in employer-employee relations, including the establishment of a free casting bureau in Hollywood and the removal of the 11,000 extras who are registered there from any possibility of exploitation by fake employment agencies."

Woman Watches Burglar at Work

She was so frightened she could not scream, so she lay motionless with terror as she watched a burglar prowl about her bedroom early yesterday morning, Miss Agnes Willock of 2426 South Hope street, told police.

"I was awakened by a noise at the window," she said, "and I opened my eyes to see a dim form of a man climbing into the room. He was crouched over like an ape. I was so scared that I started to scream but I couldn't."

When the prowler had gone Miss Willock said she found he had taken $8 from her purse.

Southern Section of State Group Meets Here

Many Notable Speakers to Be on Program

It may be vacation for Los Angeles school pupils this week and next but to several thousand teachers, gathering from nine Southern California counties today is the first day of the thirty-sixth annual institute. The Los Angeles city teachers' institute will assemble in six different units, general sessions opening at 9:30 a.m. at Hollywood High school, at the Ambassador, Patriotic Hall, Polytechnic High School auditorium, Belmont High School, Belasco Theater and Barker Brother's auditorium.

At 7:45 o'clock Wednesday evening the Southern Section of the California Teachers' Association will gather at the Bible Institute Auditorium.

NOTABLE SPEAKERS

Numerous and notable speakers will be on the program including many noted educators from all parts of the country. Dr. R. S. Conway, of the University of Manchester, Manchester, Eng., will be one of the speakers on history and English. Dr. M. F. Guyer of the University of Wisconsin will lecture on biology and Dr. N. Wing Mah of the University of California will speak on China. Dr. W. H. Burton, of the University of Chicago, will be one of the lecturers who will devote his time to physicial education. Dr. Karl J. Belar, of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institut Biolgie, Berlin, Germany, also will be one of the speakers.

Approximately 15,000 men and women teachers are expected to be in attendance at the sessions during the first three days of the week. They also will attend the State session, which will open on Wednesday evening. Several thousand additional persons from out of the city will attend this gathering.

OTHER COUNTIES

Dr. Sven Lokran will conduct a special health program for the three-day session and this gathering will be held in Patriotic Hall, South Figueroa near Washington street, and is expected to be one of the big affairs of the gathering.

The teachers' institutes of Imperial, Riverside, San Diego, Santa Barbara counties and the cities of Alhambra, Glendale, Long Beach, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Pomona, Riverside, Santa Barbara and Santa Monica will be the guests of the Los Angeles county organization.

CHAPLAIN OF COUNTY JAIL SEEKS HELP

Demands of Prisoners on Church Staff Beyond His Capacity, King Says

Need for an increase in the staff directing the religious and relief activities in the County Jail was voiced yesterday by Sheriff Traeger, in praising the work carried on behind the bars by Ira E. King, jail chaplain, working under the church brotherhoods and ministers' unions of the county.

IRA E KING

The work of Chaplain King, which is confined to Protestant prisoners, inasmuch as the Catholic and Jewish work is well handled by various organizations identified with churches of these faiths, divides itself into three main parts: Religious, assistance and relief to prisoners' families, and contact with authorities. The religious activities are handled by fifteen groups of three to seven workers each, who conduct Sunday services among the men and women incarcerated in the jail.

The annual population of the County Jail is approximately 16,500 prisoners and the humanitarian requests have grown too large to be handled by the present small organization of workers. The chaplain adheres to the policy of jail administration, it was pointed out, in all matters. Requests for communication with ministers, relatives and friends, and visiting families of destitute prisoners and putting them in touch with church and charitable organizations have formed such a burden that aid is needed. Chaplain King will be glad to explain his work and plans to any interested.

CHEST TOTAL TAKES SPURT

Relief Agency Still Needs $669,069, However, to Attain Its Quota This Year

The Community Chest fund leaped to $2,530,931 over the week end, an amount almost equal to that obtained in last year's campaign, but still $669,069 behind this year's exceptionally high quota of $3,200,000.

In issuing the report on the status of the drive, J. A. H. Kerr, campaign chairman, declared that the city must make up its mind to meet the quota, and that the amount to date represents the amount needed and about that obtained in the first Community Chest campaign six years ago, when the city had a population smaller by 25 per cent.

"From many of our agencies come reports of more than ordinary distress brought about by unemployment, due to the fact that more and more poor people are traveling to California every winter to avoid the extreme cold in the East," Mr. Kerr said. "These agencies simply cannot cope with the toll of sickness and poverty that such conditions bring with them.

"Our budget committee after paring every agency's needs down to the barest essentials, recommended $3,200,000 as the lowest possible figure required if they were to function throughout 1930. In many cases these agencies have had no new equipment since joining the Chest, and must have money to either buy new equipment or repair the old, if they are to function at a maximum of sanitary efficiency among other things.

"This is everybody's problem. Everyone should contribute whatever he can to the very utmost, especially those who have been blessed with considerable of this world's goods. If prosperity is to be ours, we must try to stabilize our consumers. Intelligent giving is that which aims at the betterment of society. Such giving also is more in the true spirit of Christmas than that which merely represents an annual exchange of gifts with friends and relatives who are not in need."

Mr. Kerr stated there will be another meeting of all campaign divisions at the Biltmore on Wednesday noon.

Of Interest to Women

Society

by JUANA NEAL LEVY

Miss Mary Dillon, the attractive subdeb daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward T. Dillon, who for the past six months has been traveling in Europe and visiting her aunt in England, arrived in New York aboard the Berengaria Thursday afternoon, much to the relief of her mother here, as the vessel was two days late.

Dr. Dillon went down to New York to meet his daughter, who crossed with the charming young Princess Kira of Russia and her aunt. Dr. Dillon, and his daughter, after several days in New York, will go on to Rochester, Minn., for a visit with Dr. Mayo, a friend of Dr. Dillon, and they then will start for home, coming by way of San Francisco, where they will be joined by the young son of the house, Edward Dillon, Jr., who is a senior at Stanford University, and they all will come to Los Angeles together.

Young Dillon is one of the prominent athletes of the northern university and has been the champion boxer of his class.

Christmas Party

Among the Christmas parties being arranged is that for which Mr. and Mrs. William Haughey and their attractive daughter, Miss Louise Haughey, are issuing invitations, the affair to take place at their home, 50? North Cherokee avenue, Saturday afternoon, the 22nd inst., the hours being from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Spanish Supper

Dr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Miller, who since their return from abroad have been making their home in Pasadena, are entertaining with a Spanish supper Monday evening, the 23rd inst., honoring Mr. and Mrs. Lanier Bartlett, co-authors of "Adios." Thirty-six guests have been bidden and the decorations and apointments will be carried out in Spanish colors of red, green and yellow, while the food will be cooked in true Spanish fashion.

Betrothal Announcement

Formal announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Wiethoff of Taft avenue of the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Hyacinth Wiethoff, to Albert E. Klem of Detroit, Mich., the news being told at an intimate dinner party, the guests all being sorority sisters of Sigma Alpha, including Miss Margaret Keefe, Miss Gladys Duffield, Miss Dorothy Keefe, Miss Agatha Fay, Miss Ina Mae Merrill, Miss Dorothy Chandler, Miss Millie Merrill, Miss Loretta Fay, Mrs. Van Pender, Mrs. Flynn Hamel, and the sisters of the honoree, Miss Charlotte Weithoff, Miss Gladys Wiethoff and Miss Margaret Wiethoff. The dinner table was attractive in its decorations, tall purple tapers being used, and the centerpiece was of asters and roses, carrying out a charming color motif. The announcement cards were in the form of two tiny hearts concealed in the center of the corsage bouquets of violets and roses given to the guests. The wedding will be an event of early February.

Felicitations

Congratulations are being extended Mr. and Mrs. E. Ord Slater of 826 Garfield avenue, South Pasadena, upon the arrival of a tiny daughter who was born at the Good Samaritan Hospital the 7th inst. Mrs. Slater formerly was Miss Ruth Hutchinson.

Christmas Party

The Mother's Club of Phi Mu Sorority at University of Southern California gave a charmingly arranged Christmas party last Thursday evening at the chapter house, 825 West Twenty-eighth street, when Mrs. William W. Weir of Eagle Rock, president of the club, presided. The gifts to members of the sorority from the mothers were presented by one of the fathers dressed as Santa Claus. The house was decorated in Christmas greens with a huge tree in the drawing-room. A musical program was arranged by members of the sorority.

Those included were Messrs. and Mmes. A. B. Schmidt, G. O. Lockwood, J. W. Morgan, H. D. Tisdale, Charles Heeb, G. L. Blech, Peeley, B. F. McClouth, E. P. Warner, W. O. Gantz, J. E. Wrightsman, W. A. Vasey, E. B. Ross, H. D. Nickel, W. M. Pargellis, C. O. Sparkes, J. H. Winkler, H. H. Brain, W. J. Feldt, R. R. Rees, W. L. Truitt, J J. Sullivan, G. G. Clarken, F. W. Tassell, M M. Monosmith and L. L. Locke.

Coming for Holidays

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Maclin Floyd (Dorothy Henry of New York) are planning to come to Los Angeles for a visit with the latter's mother, Mrs. William Henry, at her home in South Norton avenue. They will arrive here the last of this week and remain until after New Year's Day.

Visiting Mother

Mrs. R. L. Smith of 1320 Woodstock Drive, San Marino, is in Santa Barbara where for two weeks she will be the house guest of her mother, Mrs. E. G. Williams, at the El Canto Hotel.

Dinner-Dance

Alpha Tau Alpha Sorority of California Christian College gave a formal dinner-dance at the Belmont Club Friday evening, the 6th inst., when Miss Armajeanne Newbourne was chairman of general arrangements. Mrs. E. R. Lasell of East Tenth street, Burbank, sponsored the party.

Guest Day Gathering

Appropriate to the Christmas season is the guest day gathering of the Town and Gown Club of the University of Southern California, to be held Wednesday afternoon. Peter Gawthorne, who came to Hollywood from England, will be guest-speaker, and a reception and tea will follow the program, which is to deal with the enjoyment, enlightenment and effect of the stage and screen.

The new Hall of Philosophy, the gift of Mrs. Seeley W. Mudd and her son, Dr. Seeley G. Mudd, to U.S.C., will be the scene of the program. Tea will be served later in the Student Union. Heretofore meetings of the Town and Gown Club have been held in the Women's Residence Hall, but members and their friends are to meet in other buildings on the Trojan campus for a number of functions.

Mrs. Sloan-Orcutt and Mrs. Pearl Aiken-Smith constitute the program committee in charge of the December matinee event, and others assisting are Mrs. C. E. Norenberg and Mrs. H. M. Willis, representing the "Town," and Mrs. Reid L. McClung and Mrs. H. B. Niese, representing the "Gown." Mrs. R. B. Von KleinSmid, president of the Town and Gown Club, will serve as hostess-in-chief.

At U.C.L.A.

The 2nd inst. members and pledges of the Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority were the guests at dinner of the Xi chapter, University of Southern California. After dinner, both chapters held their regular meeting together.

Recently the sorority entertained its friends at a novel Thanksgiving bridge-tea at the home of Miss Georgia Schofield, 502 North Harper street. The motif of the occasion was cleverly developed in the decorations of the house and the favors for the guests.

Mrs. Capitola Forker, province president of the Pi Beta Phi Sorority, has been visiting the California Delta chapter on the campus during the last few days. Mrs. Forker is well known to the members here as she has served on their advisory board and has taken a personal interest in their activities and accomplishments.

Actives of the Gamma Phi Beta Sorority were hostesses to the pledges at their annual house-party held at the winter lodge of Miss Hazel Plate at Lake Arrowhead. The affair lasted over the week-end of the 7th and 8th inst. and was mainly to promote a greater friendship between the active members and the new pledges. Since snow had not yet fallen, hiking occupied most of the time of the party.

Parties Intime

Among the events of each winter which are of much interest to cultured folk of the Southland are the current event talks given each season by Aline Barrett Greenwood, the series including the third Thursday mornings of the month at the Ambassador and the third Saturday mornings in the Music Room of the Biltmore. Thursday morning there will be quite a number of informal luncheons given in the French Room of the Ambassador, while Saturday morning, several hostesses have bidden friends to luncheon and there are also several Dutch-treat tables being arranged following this delightful feature, which is one of the most enjoyable of the season.

Telephonic Feats

Telephonic feats recently performed such as conversation with Stockholm are due very largely to the use of permalloy, a composition of metals, which speeds up the telephone possibilities from 500 to 600 per cent. Some other modern devices have contributed as well.

MODES OF THE MOMENT

by Honore Booth

FASHION EXPERT OF HARPER'S BAZAAR

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—The hat off the face, flaring back from a bare forehed, is still the smartest thing on the horizon, for those it becomes. But if it is not your type there are, among the most recent imports, a number of gracious little poke bonnets of hats with real brims shading the eyes.

A compromise for the woman who is not at her best with forehead exposed is achieved by the lace veil. This droops perkily over the eyes and makes the long back-of-the-neck line by dipping into a deep cape almost to the shoulder. Incidentally, this is an unexcelled type for the dressy afternoon or informal Sunday evening gown. In Paris a few smart women wear the veil to the chin, even.

Tricornes and bicornes, as sponsored by Reboux, remain exceedingly smart and they are becoming.

Black and White

Black is still the leading color. Trimmed with white, especially galyak—it is dramatic and distinguished. Brown (with all its allied shades) is practical as acessory to the many brown ensembles.

New Materials

Almost anything may be made into a hat now. Agnes's knitted turbans have revolutionized ideas as to what constitutes a chapeau. Corduroy is a new development (of course with a matching scarf.) Velvets, tweeds, chenilles, all sorts of felts, led by panne, are good.

Flat furs in combination with fabrics are intricately cut. Reversible taupe soleil is used with both sides shown for contrast. Ribbons are in. Ermine tails appear as trimming. Indian calfskin and galyak are enormously popular.

More Trimming

Femininity has its way in trimming. Little feather fancies peep from beneath brims and are all colors of the rainbow. Fringes of feathers also under brims are vivid frames for faces. Sports hats have cocky brushes, reminiscent of chic Swiss mountaineers, and there are stiff quills.

Semiprecious stones are to the fore on dress hats. Crystal is cut in a variety of wily ways. Grosgrain ribbon runs flat across the forehead and is tied in a jaunty bow at the nape. It is often white in combination with a black fabric.

Berets, Baby Bonnets, Et Al

Agnes is responsible for the baby bonnet, which started in chenille and has been adapted in various fabrics. Berets are draped to the back of the head and held in place by grosgrain ribbon.

Cut and manipulation of fullness are subtler than heretofore. Sunburst tucking and shirring are resorted to, to obtain the desired effects. "Ears" at the sides of head are cleverly flared.

By Way of Finale

The moral of the tale is, choose your hat primarily for smartness, secondarily for prettiness. If you can combine the two, so much the better. Prettiness is in vogue, certainly, but smartness is of greater importance.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

GROWING CHILDREN NEED NOURISHING FOOD

To those adults who can't live without their coffee three times a day, the expectation that children are going to be equally appreciative of it comes readily. Out of this expectation springs the very bad habit of offering the baby tastes of coffee from mother's cup until the child begins clamoring for a cup of his own. All children like food from the family table because it is unusual and sometimes forbidden. If we could only serve bottles of cod liver oil on the family table and put it clear out of the child's reach and frown when he puts his hands out for it, we should soon have him "howling his head off" some of it.

Out of this apparently trivial habit of offering baby tastes of coffee crops up a whole series of evils. Mrs. W. A. R. is only one of many mothers who has voiced the following question: "Is it injurious to give children coffee? My daughter is 2 1-2 years of age and has been allowed tastes of coffee since babyhood. She is very fond of it sweetened and with cream. Now she expects it after her breakfast. Are we wrong not to break this habit?"

Yes, to both questions, but not because coffee is dangerous or harmful in itself, but because it takes the place of a more nourishing and necessary food which growing children must have, and offers very little in exchange.

CHILDREN NEED NO ARTIFICIAL STIMULANT

Coffee contains very little nourishment. All there is in this drink in the way of nourishment is the cream and sugar added to it. It has a stimulating effect which adults notice when they say, "I can't get my eyes open until I've had my coffee," or "If I don't drink coffee in the morning I have a headache until I do." If coffee has this effect on an adult who has been used to it through long years of indulgence, how much more marked is the effect on the small child, who reacts more violently to any stimulant. Likewise children don't need stimulants, they need food in the morning. They spring out of bed with a vigor and leap into the day's activities with a vim that is truly appalling to their heavy-eyed parents. Why increase this by artificial means? And we know that when a stimulant loses its momentary effect there is always a slump and the person feels lower than ever.

One prime reason, then, why coffee is not the drink for children is because of the very stimulant it contains.

No matter how good the child's breakfast, it is difficult for him to get all the nourishment he needs without some drink made primarily with milk. For the older child this may be a whole cup of warm milk flavored with cocoa or cereal coffee. For the child who has never had these flavors added his cup of plain milk is just as appetizing as if it were all dressed up with a new taste. If he drinks coffee he won't be interested in another cup of milk so the coffee drinking deprives the child of the nourishment he should have and offers him in place of it what is practically a cup of flavored water.

HOOTY HANGS AROUND

There's no one ever loves a spy—
The one who likes to peek and pry.
—Old Mother Nature.

When Reddy Fox left Hooty the Owl over in the green forest it was just before daylight. By the time jolly round, red Mr. Sun had begun his daily climb up in the blue, blue sky, Reddy was back at his home in the old pasture. A few minutes later Mrs. Reddy returned. Reddy said nothing about his having called on Hooty the great horned owl. They spent the day as usual and late in the afternoon, as the black shadows began to appear, Mrs. Reddy announced that she was going hunting.

"Wait a little while, my dear, and I'll go with you," replied Reddy.

Mrs. Reddy was not going to wait, but before she could get started she caught a glimpse of a big bird sailing silently over to a tree a little back of their home. "There's Hooty the owl," said she. "I wonder if he thinks he's going to catch anything over here in the old pasture, where we live."

Reddy grinned. He thought he knew what had brought Hooty over there. "Perhaps," said he, "Hooty has come here to see if he can catch a turkey."

Mrs. Reddy turned and looked sharply at Reddy. "What does he know about turkey?" she demanded.

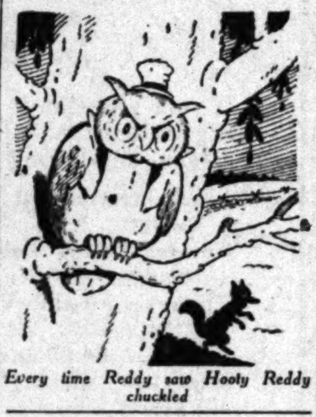
"He told me that he had eaten one once," replied Reddy.

"So you couldn't keep your tongue still!" snapped Mrs. Reddy. "You had to tell Hooty all about that turkey we killed."

"No," replied Reddy. "No, my dear, I merely told him that we had had a turkey."

"I presume you told him where we got it," said Mrs. Reddy.

Again Reddy shook his head. "No, indeed, my dear! No, indeed!" he exclaimed. "Of course I didn't tell him where we got that turkey. Do you think I would be so foolish as to do anything like that? It would be much better to show him where they are."



Every time Reddy saw Hooty Reddy chuckled

"What!" cried Mrs. Reddy as if she couldn't believe her ears.

"I mean it, my dear," said Reddy. "Listen! If we want another one of those turkeys, we must get some one to catch it for us. Who could do it better than Hooty the Owl? But of course he mustn't know that he is catching it for us. Now do you begin to understand?"

Mrs. Reddy looked at Reddy admiringly. She saw through the idea right away. "Are you going to take him over there tonight?" she asked.

"No," replied Reddy. "It is too soon to go back there. We'll just keep Hooty interested tonight."

So presently Reddy led the way and Mrs. Reddy followed him down on the green meadows. There they hunted mice. Every once in a while they would get a glimpse of Hooty the Owl. Hooty was hanging around where he could keep them in sight. Every time Reddy saw Hooty, Reddy chuckled. "He's keeping watch of us," he whispered to Mrs. Reddy. "He'll hang around until he is sure that we are not going turkey hunting. I have an idea that Hooty is going to be very neighborly for a while."

CHEF WYMAN'S RECIPES

Every Tuesday and Friday at 2 o'clock Mrs. A. L. Wyman will conduct a free class and demonstration of good cookery in the lecture room of the Southwest Building, 130 South Broadway.

BOILED SALAD DRESSING

Place in a saucepan two tablespoonfuls of flour, that have been mixed with two tablespoonfuls of oil, one-half a cupful of lemon juice and one-half a cupful of hot water, and allow to boil for three minutes; beat two eggs to a cream, and pour the mixture over them, beating constantly while adding it, and beat until cold, then gradually beat in one cupful of oil, one teaspoonful of salt, a half a teaspoonful of dry mustard, and a seasoning of paprika.

SPANISH SPINACH

One cupful of rice, three tablespoonfuls of ketchup, two buttons of garlic, one-half a cupful of grated cheese, one egg, two cupfuls of cooked spinach and four slices of bacon, place the rice after washing it in the top of a double boiler, and add two cupfuls of cold water to it, have the water in the bottom part of the double boiler, boiling and cook until the rice is tender; do not star. When tender remove from the fire, add the ketchup and the garlic chopped fine, the cheese and the well-beaten egg, place the cooked spinach in the bottom of an oiled baking dish, place the rice mixture over it, cover the top with strips of bacon, and bake in a moderate oven in a pan of water for twenty-five minutes.

RUSSIAN STEAK

One pound of ground round steak, two tablespoonfuls of butter or shortening, three tablespoonfuls of flour, one onion finely chopped, one-half a cupful of finely chopped mushrooms, one tablespoonful of water, one-half a cupful of cream, two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, shape the meat into small round cakes, place it in a saute pan to which you have added some melted shortening, sprinkle with the flour and brown the meat on both sides, add the chopped onions and mushrooms, the water, cover, and cook gently until the water has been absorbed, mix the lemon juice with the cream, pour over the meat, and simmer for three minutes. Serve very hot.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

Three cupfuls of strained tomatoes, two cupfuls of milk, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of sugar, and a little paprika, scald the milk in the top of a double boiler, remove from the fire, and add the strained tomatoes, stirring in slowly, to the hot milk. Add the salt, pepper and sugar, return to the fire, and reheat, add a tablespoonful of butter, and serve immediately.

Mrs. Wyman does not reply to letters but requests for recipes are answered in the department, PRACTICAL RECIPES, published every Friday.—(All rights to reproduce reserved by A. L. Wyman.)

Health and Diet ADVICE

by DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

HONEY AS A SWEET

Until a few generations ago honey was man's principal cherished sweet. It has since been largely replaced by granulated sugar. As long as man depended on honey for all of his sweetening, he was in no danger of overeating of this form of carbohydrate, for honey was comparatively rare, and a delicacy, while sugar is now so cheap that millions now use it in large quantities daily.

Honey is prepared by the bee from the nectar of flowers. One pound of honey may often be the result of the nectar from 2,000,000 flowers or more. A hive of 75,000 bees will produce only about a pound of honey in one day during the busy season, working from dawn to the last bit of light. Honey is not really nectar, as it has undergone a sort of digestion in what is called the bee's "honey stomach." The bee has two stomachs, and the work of the honey stomach is to cause the nectar to undergo a chemical change and become honey as we know it.

Flower nectar is 75 per cent water, while the final honey is only 18 per cent. The form of sugar is also changed from cane sugar to grape sugar. After the honey is put into the hive it is further evaporated by the bees who cause their wings to whir somewhat rapidly, in effect like an electric fan evaporating the water. The bees also introduce a small amount of formic acid which is probably to keep the honey.

The flavor and color of honey differs according to the flowers from which it is produced. The light honeys usually sell for more than the dark but cannot be considered any more wholesome. In America the principal honeys are: buckwheat, a dark honey; orange blossom, a light honey; white sage; white clover, sweet clover; horse mint; alfalfa and basswood.

Honey is very concentrated. A tablespoonful furnishes approximately a 100 calories, and for this reason it should not be used in large quantities as food, but simply be used as a flavoring. I do not consider it a great deal better than other forms of sugar, as it has a tendency to cause flatulence in some people. It is a little better than the commercial sugars, however, since it contains some important mineral substances in the form of magnesia, phosphoric acid and iron.

In using honey in the diet, it is advisable to use it with either bread or muffins or other starches since this will cause a fermentation in the stomach and intestines producing much gas. If ever used with cereals it should be used with toast or waffles which have been completed dextrinized. Honey can be used to sweeten lemonade or orangeade. These drinks should be either used between meals or in place of a meal. The habit of spreading bread with honey is not a good one, although Melba toast may be used occasionally in this way. Honey can also be used as a dressing for fruit salads, mixing equal parts of honey, orange juice and salad oil. Honey ice cream can be made by mixing one quart of thin cream with three-fourths of a cupful of delicately flavored honey.

When honey is bought for a large family it is often advisable to buy the five-gallon can and store in a dry place. Honey is not harmed by crystalizing as this is usually an indication that honey is pure. It can be liquified by placing the container in a pan of warm water.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

For the Home Painter

When painting anything at all, be sure that the first coat is dry before applying the second coat. You will only waste time and paint and make a poor job of it if the surface is not thoroughly dry.

Cocoanut

If you cannot get the fresh cococoanut, buy the variety that comes in a tin can. It will be found to have a better flavor and be much more moist than the variety that is packed in cardboard boxes.

Frozen Pipes

It is a wise thought to wrap the water pipes in the cellar with folded newspapers, with extra thickness where the pipes run close to the cellar wall. Then the cold weather may come without danger to the water pipes from freezing.

Glass Measuring Cups

The new glass measuring cups, having all the ounces and divisions marked plainly on the glass, as in a medicine glass, are a delightful addition to the kitchen equipment. Liquids are no longer hard to measure as they can be seen right through the glass. Two of these would make a nice gift at Christmas time to the person to whom you just give a remembrance.

Barrel Organ in Old Church

When Rudyard Kipling attends the Church of St. Thomas a Becket at Brightling, Eng., near his home, he hears the music of the barrel organ, which has served the church for many years. The organ plays twenty-four church tunes, and for fully eighty-two years Henry Croft and his father, James, between them have ground out the organ's repertory. The church is one of the oldest in England, dating back to the Norman conquest.

Church Pigeon Messenger

J. Palastanga, verger at the garrison church of Holy Trinity, Windsor, Eng., has trained a pigeon to notify his wife when he will be home to dinner after service. He takes the bird to church in a little basket, and when he learns the rector's instructions for the services, he sends a message by the pigeon to Mrs. Palastanga. The pigeon was born in the tower of the church and its training began when it could fly.

WHEN ALL LOS ANGELES DRAMA CRITICS LAUD A PICTURE IT MUST BE OUTSTANDING....
Los Angeles Examiner Says!
COMING in the last stretch of the year, "Three Live Ghosts" which opened at the United Artists Theatre Wednesday, injects itself prominently into the list of those pictures of 1929 which will have to be considered as the annual "Ten Best." In a few weeks the United Artists Theatre will point and yell: "Three Live Ghosts! See how it runs!"
A more delightful comedy, bringing as continued a series of chuckles and laughs, hasn't been seen in many months. Max Marcin's adaptation and production of Frederick Isham's play has been perfectly directed by Thornton Freeland. Young Freeland makes his bow as a full-fledged screen director, with "Three Live Ghosts," and sets a difficult standard for himself to maintain.
Not only does the United Artists present a feature which no one should miss, but two short subjects of exceptionally fine merit.

MUSIC GEMS OFFERED BY RODZINSKI

Russian Pianist Presents Grieg Concerto; Recalled for Many Bows

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

The Philharmonic "Pop" concert yesterday afternoon was like Jack Horner's Christmas pie—full of plums. Conductor Rodzinski arranged two hours of bright music beginning with Smetana's overture to "The Bartered Bride," played at a brisk tempo, ranging through "Don Quixote" by Strauss with its many episodes and star parts, the Grieg concerto essayed by Alexander Kosloff, an earnest young Russian pianist, and winding up with three selections from the "Damnation of Faust" by Berlioz which concluded with the smashing Rakoczy March, which pleased the conductor very much and sent the audience away humming.

"Don Quixote" needs program notes with the progress of the Don and Sancho Panza plainly marked. So much of it is meaningless except as clever imitation of a literary idea. The Pop concert program notes were too meager and irrelevant to be of much help. Ilya Bronson, first violoncellist of the Philharmonic, ably assisted the orchestra in its delineation, and Emile Ferir supplied both humor and light pathos, playing the viola in the role of Sancho Panza. The tympani player, Charles White, did good work with the fateful drums and De Busscher's oboe interludes were like extra dry champagne. However, with all the lyric beauty of Bronson's playing and the rest, the work is as wearisome as the plains in Spain.

Mr. Kosloff was at his best in the first movement of the well-known Grieg concerto, where a charming poetic sentiment prevails. His tone sang beautifully over the orchestra. The whole work was of grateful simplicity after the affectations of Don Quixote. And there was an attractive lilt of youth to Kosloff's very correctly phrased interpretation. Dr. Rodzinski conducted a particularly gracious accompaniment which was unusually lovely in the opening of the adagio. In fact, he has shown himself to be especially kind and inclined to show favor to all the soloists who have appeared with him, a rather unique distinction for conductors.

Kosloff was not able to continue the beauty of the mood established by the orchestra in the slow movement and his dance rhythms were not cleanly set forth but his playing gave evident pleasure and he was recalled again and again for bows.

Of the Berlioz selections there remains little to be said as the music is both obvious and entertaining. Accordion crescendos and decrescendos adorned the Will-o-the-Wisp minuet, the "Dance of the Sylphs" was a dainty variation of the Tschaikowsky "Dance of the Mirlitons" and the "Rakoczy," a military victory.

'BOOMERANG' CAST BEING ASSEMBLED

Duffy Selects Several Noted Players for Next El Capitan Play

Henry Duffy is getting together a notable cast to support Tom Moore, Kay Hammond and Ben Lyon at El Capitan in "The Boomerang." In the comedy Moore will be seen as the physician, Dr. Sumner; Kay Hammond will play Virginia Xelva, the nurse, and Ben Lyon will be seen as Bud Woodbridge, the lovesick youth who comes to the doctor for consultation.

Bud's mother, Mrs. Creighton Woodbridge, will be acted by Florence Roberts, character actress, while C. Henry Gordon, well-known Broadway leading man and last seen here as the Japanese prince in "The Shanghai Gesture" with Florence Reed, will be Preston De Witt. William Macauley will play William Stone, the patient, and Ralph Kline will be Heinrich, the valet.

Opera Company in Last Week

Concluding week of the engagement of the Columbia Grand Opera Company will start with tonight's presentation of "Rigoletto" at the Biltmore Theater.

Following is the week's repertoire: Monday, "Rigoletto;" Tuesday, "Andrea Chenier;" Wednesday, "Il Trovatore," Italian national night; Thursday, "La Traviata;" Friday, "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci;" Saturday matinee, "Carmen;" Saturday night, "Lucia di Lammermoor."

Lincoln Offers "Paid in Full"

"Paid in Full," stirring drama by Eugene Walters, will be presented tonight at the Lincoln Theater by the colored Lafayette Players.

Prominent in the cast will be Cleo Desmond, Andrew Bishop and Lionel Monagas, while Sidney Kirkpatrick, a favorite of last year's company, will return to play the character role of Capt. Williams.

SINGERS INVITED TO JOIN PASSION PLAY

Harold Loring, conductor with the Freiburg Passion Play, has arrived in Los Angeles and extends an invitation to all singers who would be interested in joining the chorus of the play during its appearance here to communicate with Mr. Heim in the office of L. E. Behymer, Auditorium Building.

PROGRAM LISTED

Dudley Warner Fitch, director of the St. Paul's Cathedral Choir, will present a Christmas program for the Cadman Creative Club tonight, with Dean Beal giving an address. This program will include a brief pageant based on the story, "Why the Chimes Rang," and will be under the direction of Cathleen O'Quigley.

Vivacious Personality Appears

has set eastern critics by the ears as the gypsy girl in "General Crack," John Barrymore's first talking vehicle. This screen attraction starts today at Warner Brothers Hollywood Theater.

"DEAR ME" CAST SELECTED

Henry Duffy has completed the supporting cast for "Dear Me," the comedy in which Grace La Rue and Hale Hamilton come to the Hollywood Playhouse Sunday as guest stars with the Henry Duffy Players.

The role of Joseph Renard, the lovable old violinist, will be acted by Joseph De Stefani who won much praise for his reading of the Chronicler's lines in "Abraham Lincoln." The shrewish housekeeper, Mrs. Carney, will be acted by Brenda Fowler and James Durkin will be Manny Bean, the theatrical manager. The members of the Home for Self-Confessed Failures will be played by Walter Law, Frank Dawson and others. Bram Nossen will play Dudley Quail, the man-about-town, and the balance of the cast includes John Mackenzie, Myra Hubert and Teru Shimada.

Guy Bates Post is now in the last week of his engagement at the Hollywood Playhouse in Edward Locke's comedy-drama, "The Climax," and the final performance will be given Saturday night.

THRILLS PROMISED AT WARNER

"Little Johnnie Jones" Starring Eddie Buzzell, Starts Run

"Little Johnny Jones," an elaborate First National production of the George M. Cohan stage play, comes to Warner Brothers' Downtown Theater today, with Eddie Buzzell in the title role as the Yankee Doodle jockey. Alice Day plays opposite him as the heroine, with a large cast of players in support.

The story in the modern screen version has a triple punch, it is said. Thrills are found in three horse races, the last being at the English Derby. Buzzell's comedy, noted on Broadway, will keep the spectators laughing, it is promised. Jack Smith was the technical director on the racing scenes.

A diversity of settings also figures in "Little Johnny Jones." Starting in a small town the scene changes to New York, then shifts to the slums of Liverpool and the London water front. "Little Johnny Jones" was directed by Mervyn Le Roy and among the favorites in the cast are Edna Murphy, Donald Reed, Robert Edeson, Wheeler Oakman and others.

All-Negro Film Starts Run at Fox Criterion

When "Porgy" electrified the stage, many wondered if an all-negro film drama would not furnish a new and successful type of film entertainment, but none had the temerity to attempt it until King Vidor of "The Big Parade" braved all tradition.

The result was "Hallelujah," which had its first popular showing at the Criterion Saturday.

The story, an original by Vidor, traces the life of a young negro, raised on a southern plantation, through the gamut of human experience and emotions. Spectacular scenes, such as the baptism on the banks of the Mississippi, the camp meeting where the preacher goads his congregation to religious frenzy, and other powerful episodes mark the action of the story.

The principals who were recruited from the professional stage are Daniel Haynes of New York's "Show Boat" production; Nina Mae McKinney of "Blackbirds;" Fannie Belle De Knight of "Lulu Belle;" Harry Gray, Victoria Spivey, William Fountaine and others.

BURBANK SHOW PLEASES

A speedy burlesque show, with comedy, bright musical numbers and a good cast is "Temptations," playing this week at the Burbank Theater. It is a burlesque idea with a new angle and twist which make it a fine vehicle for such favorites as Francis Parks, Virginia Jones, Grace Carlos, Jane Hazelton, Charlie Fritcher and Billy Mossey. The comedy is laugh-provoking while the feature attraction is the ensemble of youthful misses who work in unison in several numbers.

SPARKS PRAISED

A tribute to Ned Sparks was voiced by a critic in New York who declared: "Sparks need have no funny lines; the way he speaks causes his audiences to laugh."

Carthay Circle Invites Youth to "Rio Rita"

School vacations are at hand and the Carthay Circle Theater has just sent out the last thousand of the largest Christmas greetings and batch of invitations every mailed to the ward, high school and college boys and girls of the city. A total of nearly 38,000 invitations went out to the younger generation.

The Circle theater's invitation pointed out the various kinds of entertainment provided by "Rio Rita." Attention was called to the comedy and burlesque between Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, and Dorothy Lee and Helen Kaiser; to the song hits, the romance, spectacle, color, male choruses, the love making of John Boles to Bebe Daniels in light operatic song, and to the many other high lights of the picture.

James Gleason Has Chief Role in Comedy Film

James Gleason, author and star of "The Shannons of Broadway," which will have its first local showing Thursday at the Million Dollar, is a veteran of three wars. He served in the Philippines during the Spanish - American War; at the border during the Mexican trouble, and in the artillery, tank corps and intelligence department in the World War. He would rather talk soldiering than the theater, and plans to write what he says should be the first real soldier play.

In the cast with Gleason and Lucile Gleason in Universal's production, is Mary Philbin. Emmett Flynn directed. "The Virginian," Paramount's all-talking drama, featuring Gary Cooper and Mary Brian, will close its run Wednesday.

MELODRAMA PRESENTED AT BELASCO

Yiddish Players Run Gamut of Emotions in "Night in Underworld"

BY JACOB COOPER

Despite its title, "A Night in the Underworld," which was presented last night by a group of Yiddish players at the Belasco Theater, provided four acts of lurid melodrama which supposedly covered a period of more than eighteen years.

The story itself is a variation on an ancient theme which has always found appeal on the popular Yiddish stage. Its complications of plot and interwoven situations are media whereby every member of the cast may display his wares from lurid drama to low comedy, and provides opportunities for vocal and orchestral entertainment—the latter being one of the main requisites demanded by those who have ever reveled in this type of entertainment.

One striking innovation was the introduction of an honest-to-goodness negro jazz orchestra and negro entertainers who more or less shocked the orthodox audience in the night club scene of the first act.

Jacob Berlin, who wrote, directed, and produced the play, took the role of a hard-boiled "bouncer" who loves deeply, but in vain. Between his vocation and his emotions, he had provided himself with a vehicle in which he could run the entire gamut of histrionic technique. He finds himself much more at ease in comedy.

Pauline Offerman, who played the feminine lead, gratefully avoided many of the English interpolations in her speeches—a fault of the American-Yiddish stage which tends to weaken whatever potentialities it has.

The low comedy was provided by Sam Morris and Anna Freiman as a slapstick fireman and servant girl. Sylvia Kerner, as the villainous sister, displayed a tendency toward talent which could possibly be brought out in a different role and vehicle.

FREE LANCE FILM EARNS CONTRACT

Edmund Lowe Costars With Constance Bennett in Next Loew Attraction

Why did Fox sign Edmund Lowe to another long-term contract after that star had made one free-lance picture? Screenland gossip was quick to answer—"This Thing Called Love," the title of the picture in question, in which Lowe costarred with Constance Bennett for Pathe. The picture, it is said, has such unusual aspects that its male star immediately became again very much in demand.

The curiosity which has been surrounding the picture is to be satisfied Thursday when "This Thing Called Love" opens at Loew's State, heading a Christmas week show. Fanchon and Marco once again will offer the 100 Meglin Kiddies on the stage in a Christmas kiddie revue, in addition to the regular stage idea for the week, which is entitled "Desert."

"This Thing Called Love" includes in its cast Zasu Pitts, Roscoe Karns, Carmelita Geraghty, Ruth Taylor, John Roche and Stuart Erwin.

Mayor Porter Will Present Merit Award

Mayor John H. Porter will present to J. J. Franklin, Los Angeles division manager of Fox West Coast Theaters, from the stage of Grauman's Chinese Theater at Wednesday evening's performance of "Condemned," the Exhibitor's Herald-World Award of Merit, in the form of a bronze plaque.

George L. Eastman will introduce the Mayor before a gala audience which will include officials of the Chamber of Commerce, the Academy of Motion-Picture Arts and Sciences, members of the National Board of Review and officers and executives of the Motion-Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

This award was offered by the Exhibitor's Herald-World for the best sound reproduction in any theater in Southern California. Grauman's Chinese Theater was selected as the recipient by a committee of newspaper men.

MAKER OF BOMB HELD DEMENTED

Francis Cadwell's Mentality Twisted, Say Officers

Prisoner Freely Explains Explosive Devices

Suspect to Be Turned Over to Federal Justice

What thoughts occupied the mind of Francis Cadwell, 26-year-old mechanic, as he sat morosely all day yesterday in the psychopathic ward of the General Hospital are what psychiatrists would like to know.

Cadwell was taken into custody Saturday by Postoffice Inspectors Kline and Lowe and Detective Lieutenant Lloyd for having sent a deadly bomb through the mail to a friend in Townsend, Tenn., and for planning, according to the officers, the transmittal of other similar infernal machines to "study their effects." His mind, they say, is "twisted."

When arrested he readily admitted constructing the "Christmas package" of gunpowder and electric batteries so that it would explode when opened, the officers said. Then he added that he had also sent a telegram to his friend warning him not to open the parcel.

But the telegram, the officers say, arrived too late and the friend, Clark Scott, opened the package and lost a hand. Dispatches from Townsend stated three others who were with him when the bomb exploded are recovering from lesser injuries.

Cadwell, it was stated yesterday, will be placed in the hands of Federal authorities today for prosecution. In his room at 3747 Dozier street, police state, they found material for construction of a number of similar bombs and a casket-shaped contrivance equipped with electric batteries calculated, Cadwell is said to have explained, to change sea-level atmosphere into mountain ozone.

AUTO LAW WILL GO ON AIR

Ivan Kelso, chief counsel of the Automobile Club of Southern California, will speak tomorrow noon before the Advertising Club in the Biltmore.

"What Every Automobile Owner Should Know," will be the topic. This, the last meeting of 1929, has been arranged by the motor executive organization which recently merged with the advertising group. KHJ will broadcast the program from 12:45 to 1:30 p.m.

REV. W. H. ALTHOUSE'S FUNERAL TO BE TODAY

Last rites for Rev. William Henry Althouse, retired minister, who died Friday at the California Lutheran Hospital, will be conducted at 1:30 p.m. today at the First Evangelical Church, Twelfth and Hope streets, of which he formerly was pastor. Burial will be in Forest Lawn Memorial Park. Mr. Althouse, who was 71 years of age, had resided in California for thirty-two years, first in San Francisco and then in Los Angeles. He retired in 1912. His home was at 7810 South Hobart Boulevard. Besides his widow he leaves five sons, five daughters and four brothers, all residing in Southern California.

FUNERAL OF GLASSCOCK TAKES PLACE WEDNESDAY

Funeral services will be conducted in the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale, at 2 p.m. Wednesday for W. A. Glasscock, native Californian and pioneer resident of Los Angeles, who died Saturday evening at his home, 502 South Windsor Boulevard, after a lingering illness. He was 55 years of age.

Mr. Glasscock was born in Melford county, where his parents had settled after crossing the plains from Hannibal, Mo., in an ox-cart. When he was a boy the family moved to Los Angeles. In 1900 he organized the Puritas Tea and Coffee Company, which he operated until stricken with his fatal illness. He was a member of several clubs and a Shriner of Al Malaikah Temple.

Besides his widow, Mr. Glasscock leaves one son, Wallace A. Glasscock, and two sisters, Mrs. Josephine Hartman and Mrs. Georgia Peck, all of Los Angeles.

Airway Official on Mexican Tour

Bound on a three weeks' survey of Pickwick's 3000 miles of mail, express and passenger air lines in Mexico, Guatemala and Salvador, Thomas L. Morgan, general manager of Pickwick Airways, Inc., is speeding toward the Mexican capital aboard the Pickwick Latin-American plane which left Grand Central Air Terminal yesterday afternoon.

Following the revised schedule which provides for two-day flying time between San Diego and Mexico City, the plane will arrive at Mexico City tomorrow afternoon after overnight stops at Los Mochis, Sinaloa and San Diego.

During his tour of investigation, Mr. Morgan will fly over the projected new routes from Mexico City to Acapulco and Oaxaca and from Guatemala City to Flores, Guatemala.

School Children Give Program for Mission Day

Mission Day was celebrated by parochial school children of Los Angeles yesterday with impressive ceremonies at St. Vibiana's Cathedral. Bishop Cantwell delivered the principal address, and a mixed choir of 100 voices, composed of picked singers from the glee clubs of four Catholic schools, sang at the vesper service which followed.

Banners were awarded to four schools which were adjudged the winners in missionary work for the year. These are St. Brigid's parochial school, Immaculate Conception school, Ramona Convent and Immaculate Heart school. The musical program was under the direction of Rev. Ermin Vitry of the Order of St. Benedict, and Rev. Patrick Shear, head of the propagation of the faith in the Los Angeles diocese, was in charge of the celebration. More than 1000 children took part in the program.

FRUIT GROWERS DISAPPOINTED

Exchange Manager Describes Parley Refusal Results

Adjustment of Troubles Now Out of Question

Larger Valencia Market Need of Orange Raisers

Disappointment over the reported refusal of the Mutual Orange Distributors to accept the Federal Farm Board's invitation to confer with a committee of his organization on possible consolidation of the two citrus-marketing co-operatives was expressed yesterday by E. G. Dalzell, general manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange.

Dalzell made known the attitude of the exchange following publication of an article in the Riverside Enterprise in which the other organization was quoted as having declined the overtures made by the national board through C. C. Teague, member recently appointed from California.

ADJUSTMENT PREVENTED

The refusal, according to Dalzell, precludes the possibility of an adjustment of misunderstandings existent among growers and consequent improvement of the handling of the citrus industry's problems.

"We were very much pleased to receive the invitation from the board to discuss the possible consolidation," Dalzell said. "It promised a golden opportunity practically to eliminate the destructive and useless competition of one California citrus grower with another. In our opinion, such an arrangement if in effect the past season would have materially assisted in securing better results for the excessive crop running to extreme small sizes which we had to market.

"While it may be debatable whether there was a surplus of oranges and grapefruit in the markets the past season, the results were not satisfactory to many growers and the citrus acreage already planted in California, Arizona, Texas and Florida is sufficient to produce much larger crops than last year's in seasons of favorable climatic conditions. Should a real surplus be produced, the California orange growers are not in a great deal better position to handle it successfully than were the grape and canning-peach producers, nor the California lemon growers, until over 90 per cent of them got together and actively took hold of their problem.

MARKET DEVELOPED

"Our increasing Valencia orange production calls for the greatest possible development of foreign markets where there is a latent demand for high quality summer oranges which have not been available heretofore. Work is being done on this by the exchange but it is seriously interfered with by the 25 per cent of the shippers outside the organization at times forwarding over 50 per cent of the exports resulting in a lowering and fluctuation in those markets.

"Certainly the positions taken by the Mutual Orange Distributors and the California Fruit Growers' Exchange as indicated in their replies to the invitation of the Federal Farm Board, cannot both be in the interest of the growers, and the grower's interest is identical whether he markets through one or the other co-operative organization.

"A conference as suggested by the Federal Farm Board might have ironed out misunderstandings and pointed the way to an improved handling of the industry's problems."

LUSTER OF NAZARENE CALLED UNTARNISHED

"It is significant that no enemy of Jesus ever claimed to have lived as noble a life as He did," declared Dr. Bruce Brown in his sermon yesterday at South Park Christian Church.

"If Jesus was a deceiver, living far back in the darkness of the past, then we, today, with all our science and experience, should be able to surpass Him," said Dr. Brown. "However, His character stands in solitary grandeur. He needs no defense and no argument can add to the luster of His life. The verdict of the ages is, 'I find no fault in him.'

"However great the sacrifice or heroic the struggle of any man who has helped his fellow men, no man has yet said that the record of Jesus has been equaled. In this we have a certainty that can never come by rhetoric or logic. His example stands unmoved like a mountain in a storm. His moral teachings are above others as the stars surpass tallow candles, but the miracle of all miracles it that He was able to live up to His own ideals, to put in practice His own teachings."

DIVINITY OF HUMANITY EXPLAINED IN SERMON

"The Human and the Divine" is the theme of a sermon preached yesterday by Bramacharee Nerode at Mt. Washington Center. Following are a few excerpts from the discourse:

"Today there is seen a new awakening in the heart of mankind. The eternal essence of man is asserting itself, transcending all his experiential or inferential barriers and bringing out the hitherto unexplored kingdom of his all-divine nature. God in man is in the making throughout the world. The humanity of Jesus is as much emphasized today as His divinity.

"The divinity of man is recognized much as the humanity of man. The transfiguration and resurrection of Jesus are hallowed with new significance; one meaning the transformation of the whole human nature into the divine light of wisdom and the other the resurrection of his whole being into existence. This new interpretation has brought a new ideal which is shaping out a new conception of God in the heart of man."

VALUE OF TRADITIONS PREACHED BY MAGNIN

Rabbi E. F. Magnin preached at Temple B'nai B'rith yesterday on "Traditions." He said in part:

"I am a lover of tradition. In addition to desiring to give credit where credit is due, I am fully cognizant of the poetic value and the beauty that age attaches to everything. Tradition awakens within us a sense of loyalty and a sentiment and is a great constraining and restraining force in our lives.

"A balanced, sensible person rejects that which has come down from the past that is harmful, preserves what is good and builds upon it. The great religions of the world that have come down through the centuries may not be 100 per cent true or beautiful. They have their defects like all human institutions, but most of what they contain is worth while."

MAN BORN MYSTIC, SWAMI PROCLAIMS

"Mystic perception is beyond reason but not against reason," declared Swami Dhirananda in his sermon yesterday at Figueroa Playhouse.

"Such perception is immediate and ineffable, whereas rational consciousness is mediate and expressible," said the speaker. "It is as colorful and varied, or even more so, than rational consciousness, hence its products are to be criticised and its nonessentials rejected. Man is born mystic as God is supremely so. While developing intuition we should make reason, common sense, our guide until the time when the latter is ashamed of its job and voluntarily turns it over to the former. Without intense love of God, mysticism leads to showmanship and pedantic mockery."

JESUS STILL RULES, DR. SNAPE DECLARES

"Jesus Christ is embedded in the world's history, He is regnant in the world's art, vocal in the world's music, eloquent in the world's literature and vital in the world's politics," declared Dr. John Snape in his sermon yesterday at Temple Baptist Church. Dr. Snape spoke in part as follows:

"To me Jesus Christ is the Son of God, the Redeemer of men, the King of willing subjects, the Lord and Master of all believers, the Catholic Cosmopolitan of the ages. He was like us in that He was tempted in all points like as we are, and unlike us in that He was without sin. He was the son of man, for Mary was his mother; he was the Son of God for he had no human father. He became sin without becoming a sinner. He could not be a Saviour and a sinner at the same time. He was the Lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world."

GOD, MAN'S PRESERVER LESSON-SERMON TEXT

The assurance of the Psalmist, "The Lord preserveth all them that love Him," constituted the Golden Text yesterday for the lesson-sermon on "God the Preserver of Man" at all churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. Among the Bible selections in the Lesson-Sermon were various citations from the Old Testament, including the following:

"Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord; and thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thine heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might;" "Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee; He shall never suffer the righteous to be moved;" and ". . . Peace, peace to him that is far off, and to him that is near, saith the Lord; and I shall heal him."

Correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," presented these statements by Mary Baker Eddy: "To have one God and avail yourself of the power of Spirit, you must love God supremely." "Instead of thrusting him aside in times of bodily trouble, and waiting for the hour of strength in which to acknowledge Him, we should learn that He can do all things for us in sickness as in health."

SCHOOL BOARD ERROR CHARGED

Ex-Culver City Official Suing for Salary

He Asserts Wrong Title Put on His Contract

New Members Voted to End Term of Service

Whether supervising principal and district superintendent of schools are synonymous is one of the things the court is asked to decide in a suit for declaratory relief and reformation of contract brought by C. F. Randall against the board of trustees of the Culver City school district of Los Angeles county which is on trial before Superior Judge Engs. Part of the testimony was taken Friday after which court adjourned until Wednesday when the hearings will be resumed.

Randall will attempt to prove that the titles "supervising principal" and "district superintendent" where the school head is performing the duties of the latter office, are one and the same.

LAW SETS RULE

The law says that a school district cannot employ anyone, except a district superintendent, longer than one year at a time.

According to the complainant he entered into a contract with the Culver City School Board on May 7, 1928, to employ him to superintend and supervise the three schools of the Culver City system. His salary was fixed at $3200 a year. His term was to run for two years. On December 21, 1928, he says, his term was extended from two to four years.

ERROR ASSERTED

Randall declares that it was the intent and purpose of the members of the board serving at the time to hire him as a district superintendent, but in the drawing up of the contract some one inadvertently inserted his title as "supervising principal" instead of "district superintendent." He further contends that when the new board came into office they used the technical mistake to discharge him. He now asks for an interpretation of the title, that his contract be made valid and that he be paid back salary in the sum of $799.99.

Attorney M. Tellefson is representing Randall, while the trustees are being defended by Deputy County Counsel Prichard.

NEW BOARD ACTS

The school board at the time Randall made his agreement was composed of K. A. Sebastian, M. E. Elwels and Harold N. Cool. On August 25, 1928, Sebastian resigned and his office was filled by Pearl N. Merrill. On April 10, last, Elwels resigned and his place was filled by Belle W. Day. The last two named, along with the holdover member, Harold N. Cool, are made defendants.

Randall asserts that as soon as the board was reorganized, the new members, being in the majority, notified him on June 8, last, that his services would not be required after June 30. He contends no cause is shown and that his discharge was brought about on the mere technical mistake in the contract.

Attorney Tellefson said last night that no attempt will be made to prove that politics were at the bottom of Randall's removal.

CITY ASKED TO PAY FOR AUTO INJURY

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. V. Harris have presented claims to the City Council asking for damages of $637 asserted to have been sustained when they drove their automobile into an unguarded excavation in Colorado Boulevard. The claim was referred to the City Attorney.

ENEMY OF MOSQUITO DISCOVERED

Sugar-Cane Experi Makes Valuable Find in Marshes of New Guinea

An enemy of mosquitoes, which looks like a mosquito but is not, is reported to have been discovered in New Guinea by Cyril Pemberton, who disembarked this week-end from the Lassco liner Calawaii for a visit to the mainland.

CYRIL PEMBERTON

The Megarhinus, as it is called, marshals its larvae to prey upon the larvae of mosquitoes in the marshes. Pemberton said he already has introduced the mosquito enemy in Hawaii, where it has met with success, but it is perhaps too tropical for here. He thinks it might succeed in the marshes of the South, as marshes serve as its habitat.

Pemberton's discovery was an incident to his past ten years' assignment by the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association to comb New Guinea for better types of sugar cane. He brought back 174 varieties of the cane, some wild, some tame. One is a particularly hardy specimen but without sugar, and he is hopeful of crossing it with a commercial Hawaiian cane with superior results.

Pemberton did much flying through the wilds of New Guinea, not only because it expedited his work but because it kept superstitious and dangerous savages of the interior at a distance. He will proceed to Washington to tell of his work, of which he also is writing for National Geographic.

Wampas to Pick New Candidate for President

At the meeting of the Wampas at 6:30 p.m. today at the Roosevelt Hotel, guests of honor will include Lotti Loder, Warner Brothers new European find, who, accompanied by Michael Cleary, one of the "Three Busketeers" song-writing team, will sing the number that won her "the big chance" in Hollywood. Alice White, First National actress, will be there with new songs and Frank Clarke, for two years flight commander for Howard Hughes, will tell how he put pep in "Hell's Angels."

Eleanor Packer, newly elected president of the Wasps, will be among the speakers. Others contributing to the occasion will be Sullivan and Briggs, with songs, and Andy and Chester, banjo players from KMTR. The chairman of the evening is Mark Larkin, assistant to Fred Beetson, executive secretary of the Association of Motion Picture Producers.

At the business meeting following the program, a new president will be nominated to succeed Harry Hammond Beall, retiring shortly after the first of the year.

TRUCK DRIVER TAKEN ARMED WITH GUN

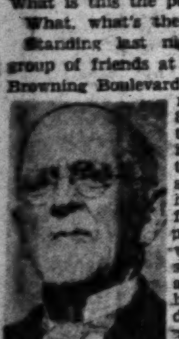
At Washington street and Lovelace avenue at an early hour yesterday morning officers observed a man acting suspiciously about a parked automobile and took him into custody for questioning. His pockets were searched and a revolver and shells were found, the officers reported. Booked on suspicion of robbery, the suspect gave the name of Ward P. Gates, 24 years of age. He said he was a truck driver.

HE SANG AT LINCOLN'S GRAVE

Charles C. Stevenson, Only Survivor of Quartet That Provided Music for Funeral of President, Recalls Interesting Days of Long Ago

"Gathering from far and near,
Every loyal man is here.
What is this the people fear?
What, what's the matter?"

Standing last night among a group of friends at his home, 1023 Browning Boulevard, Charles Guthrie Stevenson, 86 years of age, the only surviving member of the quartet that sang at Abraham Lincoln's funeral, repeated the song which nearly seventy years ago stirred the hearts of hundreds of thousands of patriots who trembled at the cleavage of the world's greatest republic.



C. G. STEVENSON

Mr. Stevenson is a native of Fort Madison, Iowa. Thrice he was rejected on account of poor eyesight, when he tried to enter the Union Army. In those days he was employed by W. W. Kimball, music dealers at Chicago, and his employers sent the young singer far and wide to advertise their products. Thus it came about that Stevenson's rich tenor voice was one of the influential factors in raising volunteers to answer President Lincoln's call to arms.

To his friends last night Mr. Stevenson spoke interestingly of Civil War and prewar days, recalling especially the debate between Lincoln and Douglas at Danville, Ill.

"Abe struck from the shoulder," said Stevenson. "He called attention to the handsome Douglas and then remarked: 'He's a fine looking man, but if there is any place on earth where I can't lick him, just tell me where it is.'"

The musical program preceding the famous Danville debate included selections by young Stevenson's [illegible] "Columbia," Gem of the Ocean" and "The Red, White and Blue," being new to the throng gathered there.

When Lincoln was nominated for the Presidency in 1860, Stevenson went to Burlington, Iowa, and, with the assistance of his friend, Ace Turner, organized the first Lincoln Club.

When the great Emancipator was buried at Springfield, the Stevenson quartet sang four songs which later were published in a book compiled by P. P. Bliss. The songs, still sung on special occasions by Mr. Stevenson, were "Let Me Go, the Light is Breaking," "Safe With the Master," "Remember" and "No Graves Are There." Lacking a musical instrument at the grave, Stevenson gave the pitch with a tuning fork.

Thirty-five years ago, when Vice-President Curtis first ran for Congress, Stevenson supported him by visiting every county seat in Kansas, signing the old songs and often accompanying himself on piano or violin.

In 1869 Mr. Stevenson tuned a piano for Adelina Patti, world-famous singer, on what was destined to be her last trip to America.

Today Stevenson's hands are gnarled and stiff and he no longer attempts to play either piano or violin but sometimes, late in the evening or early in the morning, his faithful daughters, Miss Min A. Stevenson and Mrs. Nancy Jane Simons, peeping into their father's study, find the aged man caressingly touching the strings of his 40-year-old violin and crooning softly to it.

With the exception of his daughters, Mr. Stevenson's most valued possession is an old cane, made in Berlin, Germany, in 1640. The cane, which hides a Damascus steel stiletto, was presented to Mr. Stevenson by Charlie Hartman fifty years ago. Hartman's daughter, Mrs. James Newton, now is a resident of Los Angeles.

At the party last night it was announced that Wednesday evening Mr. Stevenson will be made an honorary member of Camp 36, United Spanish War Veterans, at a meeting at Patriotic Hall.

RADIO ENSLAVED TO NAME FETICH

Stations Declared Losers by Starring Notables

Appearance of Many Singers Major Part of Charm

Television to Bring Art to Par With Theater

The Times Forum, KHJ, 10:30 a.m., will present Lee Shippey, editor of "Lee Side o' L. A.," a daily feature of the editorial page of The Times.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

With television an assured fact but its development retarded, pending a decision on the part of those in control as to how it will be offered to the public and awaiting legislation now forming which will assure a monopolistic control, broadcast stations are selling names rather than ability.

Television is the final need to place broadcasting in direct competition with the motion pictures and the legitimate stage. Great interests realize this fact and its advancement is marking time under the complication of interests involved.

Without television great stars of voice, both speaking and singing, are seriously handicapped, for in the majority of cases the voice is a minimum of the personality of the artist. There are exceptions and there are more exceptions in the speaking voice than in the vocal rendition.

The electrically emblazoned sign in front of the theater flashes the name, knowing that the full personality of the artist is to be heard and seen and the public responds. Radio broadcasting is endeavoring to do the same thing, perhaps forgetting that 60 per cent of the personality cannot be broadcast.

"On the other hand," said a dramatic critic yesterday, "the psychology of the situation is that the public, at least a large percentage, will buy a seat in the theater purely because of the name and on the same basis will tune in to a radio program presenting a famous motion-picture star, football hero, or what have you, simply because of the name.

"I have been listening of late to the headline artists of the day's broadcast from the various stations, during my incapacitation at home, and it is a fact that many of them fall flat on radio simply because the major part of their personality cannot be transmitted via radio. If we could only see them, catch the winning smile, the toss of the head and the graceful undulation of the body while performing it would then be different."

If this is true it may be assumed that until the arrival of television this is the day and opportunity of audio personalities, irrespective of how they look or what their stage presences may be. And there are some rare discoveries of vivid interpretation in the field of endeavor, only they have been suppressed and subjugated so long that they fear to come forward.

In other words, radio broadcast has made but few discoveries during the past twelve months and is content to command the attention of the listening public through the pulling power of a name, rather than any real radio ability. Some of our greatest opera stars are absolute "flops" when their voices go through the microphone, but because of the name the public says, "Wasn't she wonderful?" While out on a little ranch is a modest quiet little woman with a contralto voice whose rendition of "Annie Laurie" over radio would make the prima donna singing the same song sound like a poor phonograph record of the issue of 1890.

Radio has already reached a point, particularly in national chain hook-ups, where the hidden radio voice has not a chance and where names are being flashed rather than true radio ability. The truth hurts always, but this is just a simple plea for a hunt for merit from the standpoint of modulation and what may be termed radio personality rather than publicity acclaim.

BLUE MONDAY JAMBOREE

Two hours of merriment may be expected at 8 p.m. on the Blue Monday Jamboree which comes through KHJ from KFRC, San Francisco. It is undoubtedly one of the most popular weekly programs of any Coast station. Special arrangements are to be given of "Trees" for saxophone, clarinet and trombone and of "Jealous," an old-timer. Tonight the Pearce brothers will be heard in the roles of tough soldiers; Robert Olsen is to revive "The Church Upon the Hill" and Terrence Condron will tell in cockney dialect a lurid tale of disaster at a lonely railroad station.

Half an hour before the jamboree starts, at 7:30 o'clock, many fans will tune in KNX to hear the debut of Maj. Lawrence Mott in a skit, "A Glorious Vision," which he wrote. Georgia Fifield will take the woman's lead and Mrs. Frances Mott also will participate in the play. The other member of the cast will be Jack Carter.

The hockey game between Hollywood and the San Francisco Tigers at the Winter Garden Ice Palace will be broadcast through KNX on a play-by-play basis at 8:30 p.m., with Bill Scott at the microphone.

The Empire Builders' program from KFI will present the coming of the white man as the theme of the fantasy which forms a portion of a modern western romance with Portland, Or., as its locale. Heading the cast will be Harvey Hays, as the old pioneer, and Virginia Gardner.

U.C.L.A. PLANS ANNUAL CHRISTMAS RECITAL

The University of California at Los Angeles tomorrow evening will give its annual Christmas music recital in the auditorium of Josiah Royce Hall. Ancient traditional carols and other appropriate numbers will be sung by the University a capella choir under the direction of Squire Coop.

MOTOR CRASHES FATAL TO THREE

FOUR MORE INJURED

Four persons were badly injured when the car in which they were riding was struck by a hit and run driver at Fifth and Wilkins streets last night. They are Kendall Buck, his wife Mildred, and 9-year-old daughter Eleanor, and his father, V. W. Buck, all of 1306 West Eighty-fourth street.

A part of the girl's nose was severed when she was thrown through the windshield. Se also had deep lacerations on her face and neck. Dr. Jerry Smith, at Georgia-street Hospital asserted she probably would live.

The driver of the other car fled as soon as he extricated himself from the wreckage of his car. The license number was traced to Harry Steel, 23 years of age, at 801 South Gramercy Place. Detective Lieutenants Meisner and Cunningham found Steele in bed at the address. He was taken to the Georgia-street Hospital where doctors asserted he had been drinking. He denied having been the driver of the car that caused the mishap.

RAMOS WILL HEAR ABOUT TRIAL TODAY

Misapplying Bank's Funds Charged to Once Colorful Mexican Character

Juan O. Ramos, once a colorful figure in the political and military life of Mexico, is scheduled to appear today before United States District Judge James to have charges against him set for trial. He is accused of misapplication of funds of the United States National Bank of Los Angeles while acting as head of the Latin-American division of the institution. The amount involved is said to be about $50,000.

Ramos was arrested in Amsterdam, Holland, and was returned to this country for trial after Asst. U. S. Atty. Layng made a trip to that country to appear before the courts there. Ramos then agreed to return here voluntarily.

Child Dead From Burns; Man Injured

Four-year-old Ellen Peck, who was burned while playing with matches in her home at 4568 Finley avenue Saturday night, died at Georgia-street Receiving Hospital yesterday. The little girl had obtained a box of matches from a shelf in the kitchen while her mother was in the yard. The girl's dress was ignited and before her mother could respond to the baby's screams the child was burned fatally.

Another case of first-degree burns which may prove fatal to the victim was treated at the receiving hospital when George Evans, 38 years of age, a night watchman, was trapped in the office of the Henry Finance Company when the building at 2727 Figueroa street caught fire last night. All of Evans's clothing was burned from his body. He was unconscious until a late hour.

Damage to the building is estimated at more than $4000 and ten automobiles in the rear were scorched.

Santa to Carry Gifts in Plane

Children of many cities on the Pacific Coast will be favored by gifts from Santa Claus through the plans of the Richfield Oil Company, when planes of the company will fly Santa Claus to different fields carrying presents for the youngsters. The gifts will be distributed at Richfield stations.

Cities to be visited include San Francisco, Oakland, Bakersfield, Fresno, Merced, Modesto, San Diego, El Centro, Brawley and Calexico Thursday, and Santa Rosa Medford, Portland, Stockton, Sacramento, Redding, San Jose, San Bernardino, Long Beach and Los Angeles at the Western Air Express Airport in Alhambra Friday.

MISSOURIANS TO RALLY

A Christmas rally will be held tomorrow evening by the Missouri Society in Moose Hall, 1024 South Grand avenue, it was announced yesterday by President James A. Lang. A feature of the program will be a group of readings by James Renfro.

Heflin Ousted as 'Hoovercrat'

State Executive Committee of Alabama Takes Step by 27-to-21 Vote

Foe of Al Smith Expected to Run Next November on Independent Ticket

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) Dec. 16. (Exclusive) — Senator J. Thomas Heflin of Alabama today was officially read out of the Democratic party because of his opposition to Alfred E. Smith last year.

Alabama's senior Senator and other "Hoovercrats" who have announced themselves as candidates for nomination in the primary on August 12 were barred from the Democratic party by the State Democratic Executive Committee today by a vote of 27 to 21. They [illegible] a resolution which provides that no person can be a candidate on the Democratic ticket who failed to support the nominees of the party at the last election or who voted a Republican Presidential

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

"The following persons, and no others, shall be eligible to be candidates for nomination in this primary:

"Qualified white electors, who possess the qualification fixed by law by the respective officers for which they are candidates for nomination, provided, however that no person shall become a candidate for any State, district, Federal or circuit office to have his or her name printed upon the Democratic ballot in the primary election to be held on the twelfth day of August, [illegible] if such persons either voted the Republican Presidential ticket in [illegible] or who opposed the election of nominees at the Democratic convention held at Houston, Texas, in [illegible] or who opposed the election of Democratic electors for President or Vice-President in November, [illegible]"

CLIMAX OF FIGHT

According to the resolution all candidates are required to file a signed declaration which certifies that they did not vote the Republican ticket or openly or publicly oppose the election of the Democratic nominee.

Senator Heflin and Hugh Locke, Birmingham attorney, and outstanding gubernatorial candidate who also supported Hoover, are expected to run on an independent ticket at the Alabama general election next November.

The committee's action today marks the climax of a year-old fight within the party in Alabama.
